Private School Plan Court Test Set For Today

Little Rock Group Labors To Begin Classes Quickly After Vote Victory

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Authorities labored Sunday to open Little Rock's four high schools quickly, but their efforts to begin segregated classes ran head on into a new court crisis.

The court move could result in further delay in sending students back to classes.

Action to open the schools under a private lease plan began even before final results were known in Saturday's clear-cut, 2½-1 referendum victory by segregation advocates.

But the private school plan will be attacked Monday morning in Omaha, Neb. There a two-judge federal court will hear an injunction plea seeking to stop the Little Rock School Board from leasing its properties to a private corporation.

It appeared the four schools, with their enrollment of 3,698 before transfers began, cannot open Monday because the lease still is being negotiated. But the negotiators pledged all possible speed.

"We will be working all day on this thing," said Dr. T. J. Raney, president of the corporation organized to operate the high schools as private, segregated institutions.

Problems of transfer of administration "Are numerous and complex," a joint statement from the school board and the corporation said. The statement did not detail the snags, if any, the groups have met.

Classes originally were scheduled to begin four weeks ago. They were delayed pending court decisions and an opening date of Sept. 15 set.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus then closed them before they opened. He said he acted to prevent the same kind of violence that occurred at Central High School last fall. The U.S. Supreme Court had denied a plea that integration be delayed.

The petition for an injunction against the lease plan was filed with the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals by Wiley Branton, an attorney for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

His petition also asks that the court prevent any transfer of school properties without court approval. It also asked that Negroes be admitted to any private school converted from a public school if the court should approve the Little Rock lease plan.

Adenauer Party Picks Up 8 Seats In State Election

KIEL, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democratic Union scored a convincing victory Sunday night in parliamentary elections in Schlewsig - Holstein, West Germany's northernmost state. But the Christian Democrats fell two seats short of winning an absolute majority in the 69-member body.

Adenauer's party won 33 seats, a net gain of 8 from its total in 1954. The Socialists, the only strong opposition, won 26 seats, a net gain of 1.

All told, Adenauer's Christian Christian Democrats won 44.4 per cent of the popular vote, the Socialists 35.9 per cent.

The campaign was waged mostly on domestic issues.

Chou Hurls New Threats At U.S.

TOKYO (UPI)—Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai issued new threats against the United States Sunday but said he still held out hope for a negotiated settlement of the Formosa Strait crisis.

Peiping's New China News Agency reported Chou made his statements at a banquet for "foreign experts" in Peiping to help celebrate National Day Oct. 1.

Chou said that "if the U.S. imperialists insist on provoking war" over Quemoy and Matsu, then the whole Communist world "will definitely bring the U.S. imperialist aggressive action to final and complete disaster."

But he followed this with a statement saying the Communist Chinese "also do not give up their efforts to find a solution to the disputes between China and the United States through peaceful negotiations."

At the same time Red China's Peiping Daily accused the United States of "deadlocking" the talks in Warsaw between U.S. Ambassador Jacob Beam and Red Chinese Ambassador Wang Ping-nan.

It described the U.S. proposal for a cease-fire as "absurd" and a "premeditated step in the U.S. war plan."

Senator Urges Nixon's Charge Get Full Airing

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) called Sunday for a full airing of Vice President Richard M. Nixon's charge that a State Department subordinate was trying to "sabotage" Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' China policy.

O'Mahoney, a critic of the administration's Quemoy - Formosa policy, said the public "is entitled to a complete exposure of the vice president's allegations."

Nixon said in a statement Saturday that he was "shocked" because someone in the State Department had told a New York Times reporter that 80 per cent of the mail reaching the department opposed the administration's decision to defend the Quemoy and Matsu islands.

Nixon accused an unnamed "State Department subordinate" of a "patent and deliberate effort" to "undercut the secretary of state and sabotage his policy" by giving out such information.

Dulles said Sunday on his return from a Boston speech that he did not consider the fact that the mail was running against the department "too significant."

Aid Debate Recalled

He recalled that during the congressional fight over foreign aid public mail ran about 10 to 1 against continuing the aid program. But he said the administration fought for it because it considered the program vital.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.), also a critic of the Quemoy policy, defended the State Department sources, who made the information available. Clark said the people "are entitled to know how others in the nation feel about the Formosa policy." He said Nixon was "off base again."

"It appears that, from the figures released, the American people are a lot smarter than Mr. Dulles," Clark said. "I am frightened that if Mr. Dulles is left to his own devices, he will get us into a useless war."

Big Cleanup Task Is Left By Hurricane

Helene Breaking Up After Brushing N.C. Coast; No Lives Lost

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina coastal residents struggled to restore essential services Sunday in their hurricane-battered area.

Hurricane Helene was gone — moved some 400 miles out into the Atlantic and breaking up, the Weather Bureau said. Left behind the vicious storm, which had winds up to 135 miles an hour, were tangled communication lines, felled power circuits, blocked highways, chopped up beaches and smashed dwellings. Some beach communities had no drinking water. State and local officials strove mightily to bring order out of chaos.

No Loss Of Life

Most agreed it could have been much worse. Instead of smashing head on into the coast, Helene swerved seaward and moved parallel toward the northeast. So only one side of the big storm struck the mainland. Frequently the after half of a hurricane is the most destructive.

Fortunately, too, the wind direction held off the 10-foot or more above normal storm tides which had been predicted.

No loss of life was reported as Weather Bureau warnings had caused the evacuation of most exposed beach areas.

Still, the whining wind and 25-foot waves caused uncounted damage.

Coast Warnings Down

Southport, about 30 miles south of here, caught the brunt of Helene. Reports from there indicate damage may be greater than Hurricane Hazel in 1954.

Capt. Williams estimated damage at Southport between ½ and 3-4 million dollars.

With all coastal hurricane warnings down, the U.S. Weather Bureau in Washington said that winds "have decreased over coastal sections of North Carolina and late reports from Cape Hatteras show north-northwest 20 m.p.h. gusts up to 30 m.p.h." The bureau also said tides have returned to normal along the coast with only a few places reporting tides a foot or two above normal.

More Supplies Reach Quemoy

QUEMOY CITY, Big Quemoy Island (UPI)—Nationalist Chinese landing barges broke through to Quemoy with new supplies Sunday. But civilians on Big and Little Quemoy reported their food stocks were running alarmingly low.

Big Nationalist LST's sent more supplies ashore in the small amphibious LVT's Sunday and the Communists did not fire a single shot while they were in the water.

But when they hit Liao Lu beach, the Red guns opened up a light barrage. None of the tracked vehicles appeared to have been hit.

Sunday's supply convoy was the fourth to reach Big Quemoy in three ays, raising hopes that the Nationalists can keep at least the minimum amount of supplies flowing to the beleaguered island group.

Transport planes also dropped supplies on the island early in the morning.

Jap Typhoon Toll Mounts; 337 Dead, 1,048 Missing

TOKYO (UPI) — Floodwaters caused by a 100 - m.p.h. typhoon receded from wide areas of central and northern Japan Sunday, leaving hundreds dead and more than a thousand missing in the worst storm to hit the country since 1934.

Police casualty figures, still incomplete, showed 337 persons known dead and 1,048 missing, with 507 persons injured and more than half a million homeless. There were no reported American casualties.

The worst previous storm was a 1934 typhoon which killed 2,700 persons.

Floods and landslides triggered by the rains that accompanied Typhoon Ida Friday and Saturday caused most of the casualties and damage.

The hardest - hit area was the picturesque Izu Peninsula 50 miles southwest of Tokyo which was turned into a series of raging rivers by a 20-inch rainfall. Most of the dead and missing were in the Izu area.

Typhoon Ida, its fury broken by the Japanese coastal mountains, was headed toward southwestern Hokkaido, northernmost of the Japanese main islands. But weathermen said it now was only a weak low pressure area, and no longer packed a lethal punch.

U. S. officials contributed aid to stricken areas.

The U. S. Navy LST Summer County, caught in the path of the storm Friday, berthed safely at Yokosuka Saturday night after riding out mountainous waves and high winds for more than 40 hours. There were no casualties among the 100-man crew.

Too Late

With fleet air arm pilot Comdr. John Desmond Russell in the cockpit, a Scimitar jet fighter sinks into the English Channel before the rescuer being lowered by a Royal Navy helicopter can reach him. The pilot drowned. The jet snapped through a braking wire on the newly-commissioned carrier Victorious, plunging into the channel.

Last U.S. Marine Battalion Packs To Quit Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The last U.S. Marine battalion in Lebanon began loading up Sunday for departure. When it leaves, within a few days, only about 7,500 U.S. Army personnel will remain in this country.

The 1,500 men of the 3rd Battalion, 6th Marine Regiment began piling equipment aboard four ships in Beirut's dock area. Under the command of Lt. Col. Robert M. Jenkins of Des Moines, Iowa, they will sail into the Mediterranean and rejoin the U.S. 6th Fleet.

The Marines, who came to Lebanon July 15, were preparing to leave as Lebanese rebels tore down barricades that had blockaded Beirut's streets since last May. But there still was trouble brewing in the Phalange section of the city. Government security forces withdrew from that area after an exchange of gunfire. Phalangists are opposed to the new Lebanese regime of President Fuad Chehab and Premier Hashid Karami.

(In Moscow, the government newspaper Izvestia accused the United States of ordering its ambassador to Lebanon, Robert McClintock, to take measures to prevent the formation of a new government which would demand the immediate withdrawal of U.S. forces.)

Marines started pulling out of Lebanon on Aug. 14. That was a rifle company. Then on Sept. 16, two battalions sailed back to the United States.

The Army has announced that 500 engineer personnel already have flown back to Germany and other Army men were boarding U.S. C130 transport planes at Beirut Sunday. The Army declined to say how many were involved in this operation.

Rio Grande On One Of Worst Rampages

PRESIDIO, Tex. (AP)—The Rio Grande, on one of its worst rampages in recorded history, Sunday washed out railroad tracks, swept over the International Bridge, and isolated one small community along the Mexican border.

Heavy rains continued falling around Presidio Sunday morning after overnight downpours. During the night the river rose three feet to exceed by one foot the high of the disastrous 1932 flood.

The Rio Grande, which forms the Texas-Mexico boundary, can handle only four feet of water in its Presidio banks. Now over 17 feet deep, the muddy flood waters, 3 to 4 miles wide, have washed out a number of adobe homes, and cut off railroads and highways.

Honeymoon Cut Short As Bride Returns To Dog

HEREFORD, England (UPI)—Maureen Prece, 21, cut short her honeymoon after four days and came home—to her dog.

Maureen left her dachshund, Otto, with her mother when she went to Wales on a honeymoon with husband Ron, 27.

Every day she phoned her mother to ask how Otto was. Her mother reported that Otto refused to eat or drink. He just crawled into a cupboard and whined.

On the fourth day Maureen's mother told her: "Otto is dying of a broken heart."

Maureen and Ron hurried home. Otto bounced from his cupboard to greet them. He immediately ate his first meal for four days.

Sunday Ron said: "All the time I was courting Maureen, Otto wouldn't let her out of his sight.

"Once I felt I could shoot him. But I never thought he could have ruined my honeymoon."

But Ron said he is resigned to the fact that Otto is a member of the family.

Adams Loses Place In Social Register

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sherman Adams has lost out in another place—Washington's social register.

His name was omitted from the newly issued social list of Washington, known as the Green Book.

Mrs. Carolyn Hagner Shaw, publisher of the Green Book, said names are dropped for several reasons—public notoriety, failure to answer the publisher's questionnaire, and, of course, if the person moves from Washington.

Eisenhower's Chances Of Electing GOP Candidates Believed Problematical

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's chances of electing Republican candidates in his forthcoming foray into active campaigning have been marked as less than even by some of his own party followers.

Eisenhower's three announced speaking dates Oct. 20-22 will take him into Far West and Midwest areas where Republican candidates for Senate and governor are in serious trouble. Whether the President can rescue any of them is regarded as problematical.

In speeches in Los Angeles and San Francisco, Eisenhower will be plugging for GOP Sen. William F. Knowland, running for governor, and Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, seeking Knowland's Senate seat. It apparently will take something of a political upheaval to lift Knowland and Knight to victory.

A subsequent Chicago speech presumably will be televised into Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin. GOP Senate seats are endangered in the first three of these, with a Republican being given a fighting chance to knock off a Senate Democrat in Wisconsin.

Republicans expect to hold the governorship in Wisconsin but have scant hopes of overturning Democratic governors in Michigan and Minnesota.

GOP strategists are well aware that Eisenhower will carry into the campaign liabilities that seem likely to offset in part the personal popularity he has demonstrated in the past.

Democratic criticism of the President's handling of the Formosa crisis has increased recently. It evidently is based on the opposition's belief that the people are uneasy about U.S. commitments in the area and what they might lead to.

Vice President Richard Nixon said Saturday he was shocked by news reports that mail received by the State Department has been heavily critical of American policy in the Formosa situation.

Nixon attributed the reports to a deliberate effort by an unidentified State Department subordinate to "undercut the secretary of state and sabotage his policy."

The vice president said he was confident the American people will support administration policy as they come to realize what is at stake.

If there is no easing of tensions, Eisenhower could hardly discuss the situation with any freedom in a political speech. Nor, under present circumstances, is there much he could say about the continued presence of U.S. troops in Lebanon.

Deadline For Strike At GM Moved Back

Big Auto Union Orders Wildcat Walkouts Ended

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers Union has postponed a Tuesday strike deadline against General Motors Corp. until Thursday and ordered 45,000 persons idled at GM plants by wildcat work stoppages back to their jobs.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther's surprise move came shortly after GM and UAW negotiators began an unusual Sunday bargaining session.

Reuther notified General Motors the union would recess its striving for a new contract to cover the company's 250,000 UAW members until Tuesday so that it could devote full attention to getting GM plants back to normal.

Reuther To Join Chrysler Talks

The UAW chief said he would join new contract talks at Chrysler Monday, but would switch back to GM Thursday. Bargaining continued Sunday at Chrysler, where Reuther said "there are many fewer problems than at GM."

The union and Ford reached a three-year agreement Sept. 13.

More than 20 GM plants across the nation were closed by wildcat strikes or shut down because the strikes resulted in parts shortages last week as workers stayed off jobs to support UAW demands for quick agreement on a new contract.

Reuther said, "We have made it clear that these people who thought they were helpful really are hurting us and we are confident they will see the wisdom of all GM workers going back to work so we can negotiate in a more peaceful climate."

GM Hails Union Move

Louis G. Seaton, GM vice president, hailed the union move as "a very good thing." He added: "We're glad to know the union is going to make every effort to cut off those hit-and-run strikes which have cost our workers millions of dollars in wages."

Asked if GM had served notice on the UAW it would not continue negotiations while wildcat strikes were in effect, Seaton said, "We did not."

Like GM, trying to get 1959 model production into full throttle, Chrysler has experienced a series of wildcat walkouts. So has Ford, despite its new agreement.

Chrysler estimated 21,000 were idled by strikes in its plants last week. Ford estimated its idle at 33,000 and said it would not open 13 assembly plants Monday pending a return to normal production in parts plants.

Cigaret Smoking Due To Hit New High This Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cigaret smoking is expected to set a new record this year.

The Agriculture Department said Sunday in a report on the tobacco situation that domestic consumption this year is expected to total 424 billion cigarets—3.5 per cent more than in 1957 and 22 per cent more than 10 years ago.

The agency predicted further increase in 1959. In a similar report last June the department said the increase in cigaret consumption largely reflects an increase in the number of persons of smoking age and a continuing trend toward filter-tip cigarets.

Key Provisions Of De Gaulle Constitution

PARIS (AP)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle's constitution for a Fifth Republic provides for:

1. A much stronger president, elected for seven years by an enlarged electoral body. He could "take measures demanded by the circumstances" in case of grave emergencies. He may also dissolve Parliament in case of a conflict with the government.
2. A premier appointed by the President, but responsible to Parliament.
3. A two-house Parliament with its prerogatives and ability to unseat the premier sharply trimmed.
4. A "community of nations" including most French overseas territories which approved the constitution and desire to join. (French possessions which reject the constitution get immediate freedom, De Gaulle has promised.)
5. A constitutional council to interpret the constitution in somewhat the same fashion as the U.S. Supreme Court.

The constitution makes no specific provisions for rebelling Algeria, but De Gaulle is to spell out Algeria's future after the referendum.

Algeria Rebels Free Kidnaped U.S. Missionary

ALGIERS (AP) — An American Methodist missionary kidnaped Aug. 18 by Algerian nationalist rebels has been released in good health; U.S. consulate officials announced Sunday.

They said the Rev. Lester Griffith was set free Saturday night at Mekhta, 20 miles east of Tizi-Ouzou in the rebel stronghold area in the Grand Kabylie Mountains.

The officials gave no further details, saying they wanted "to give Mr. Griffith some rest after his ordeal."

He was released while voting was going on in Algeria on the new French constitution and the area where he was turned loose was thick with French troops guarding polling places.

The missionary was kidnaped while driving through the Kabylie Mountains, east of Algiers.

Griffith, an Ohioan attached to the American Methodist mission in North Africa since 1953, was sponsored in his post by the Raleigh, N.C., Methodist church.

His wife Janice and their three children lived in an Algiers suburb.

The 33-year-old missionary formerly lived in East Cleveland, Ohio, and attended Miami (Ohio) University, the theological school of Vanderbilt University and the Kennedy School of Missions in Hartford, Conn.

He maintained a missionary center at Fort National, in the center of the Algerian rebel area about 90 miles east of Algiers.

Cuban Rebels Plan "Great Offensive"

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Cuban rebels declared Sunday they are preparing "a great offensive for liberty" to topple President Fulgencio Batista.

The announcement was made in the latest issue of Revolucion, an eight-page, phamplet-size newspaper clandestinely circulated in Havana. It is the official organ of Fidel Castro's revolutionary movement.

'Strong Man' Reforms Get 80% Of Vote

French Premier Scores Sweeping Personal Victory

PARIS (UPI) — France swept away its feeble, crisis - ridden Fourth Republic early Monday in an historic landslide confidence vote for Premier Charles de Gaulle and his "strongman" constitution.

The vote of approximately 80 per cent for De Gaulle and the massive polling turnout in France, revolt-torn Algeria and the French overseas territories exceeded all predictions and the highest hopes of his aides.

Minister of Interior Emile Pelletier called it a "great victory for De Gaulle and an overwhelming defeat for the Communists" who had opposed De Gaulle.

The interior ministry announced early Monday that with about four-fifths of the vote counted there were 16,136,875 votes in favor of the constitution and 3,920,170 against.

From the moment the vote-counting started the result never was in the slightest doubt. From towns and villages all over the country the results were almost the same—70 per cent "oui" in some place, 75 per cent in others, and as much as 80 to 85 per cent in still other areas.

See Victory Early

De Gaulle was convinced early of his victory. He telephoned his aides in Paris from his home at Colombey-les-deux-Eglise at 11 p. m. (6 p.m. e.d.t.) that he was going to bed.

In the torrent of "oui" ballots, the voters:

—Consigned to limbo the impotent Fourth Republic with its 12-year history of 24 weak governments and repeated political crises that brought the nation to the brink of civil war.

—Ushered in the Fifth Republic with a constitution designed specifically by De Gaulle to give France a strong, effective regime at last.

—Recorded their overwhelming confidence in the 68-year-old former Free French leader.

France still has to hold parliamentary general elections in November to eject a new president —who could only be De Gaulle— before the Fifth Republic becomes a fact.

Th high Algerian vote for the constitution was expected to pave the way for a possible solution to the four-year-old rebellion. The Algerians were not affected by the new constitution and their vote was taken as a overwhelming tribute to De Gaulle.

The government announced early Monday that the percentage of yes votes in Algeria was 97 per cent in the districts already counted—less than 10 per cent of the total.

Women Cast Votes

Minister of Information Jacques Soustelle, who masterminded the government's campaign, said the most important feature of the Algerian vote was the big vote by Moslem women, who cast ballots for the first time in Algerian history.

The Algerian voting was marked by a flareup of violence that left seven persons dead in three incidents but the rebels failed in their attempts to hold down the vote.

In France, opposition came chiefly from the Communists who campaigned hard and relentlessly to get the constitution rejected.

But they failed humiliatingly. Their defeat was all the more effective because traditionally "Red" areas swung heavily behind De Gaulle.

The official Communist Party organ Humanite tried hard to swallow its disappointment with the banner headline "Strong opposition to dictatorship. Millions of Frenchmen say "non."

Other newspapers bannered 80 per cent vote in favor of the constitution.

Rail Crossing Crash Claims Three Lives

HAMMOND, Ind. (AP)—A small foreign auto carrying four persons darted into the path of a freight train Saturday night. Three of the four were killed in what police described as "an accident that shouldn't have happened."

The fourth passenger, asleep in the back seat at the moment of impact, was seriously injured.

Killed were Miss Florence Dippold, 23, believed to be the driver, of Hinsdale, Ill.; Miss Edith Sutton, 19, of Holly, Mich., and Daniel Phillips, 24, of Jackson, Mich. Miss Lois Bray, 21, of Lebanon, Ind., was listed in fair condition in a Hammond hospital.

Police said the train was clearly visible from the approach to the crossing and that red warning signals were flashing.

Brucker Declares Blockade Of Quemoy Has Been Licked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker said Sunday he did not believe the "military capture of Quemoy is possible" by the Chinese Communists.

Brucker, just back from a Far East tour also said the blockade of Quemoy has been licked and predicted that within two weeks supplies would be getting to the beleaguered Nationalist island in abundance daily.

Brucker predicted that the blockade "can and will be broken without any question in my mind." He said the military capture of the island would be "disastrous to all the free world." He said "It is very important for Quemoy to resist aggression."

Brucker conceded on a television program (NBC—Meet the Press) that he was not sure the United States has done all that it could to keep the Reds from taking the island. But, he said, "we are doing more."

He said this country was giving the Nationalist Chinese its "know how" on breaking the blockade and also "we are feeding them more equipment."

But new Nationalist Ambassador George Yeh said his country lacks "certain weapons" necessary to silence the Red artillery which has been battering Quemoy.

Yeh, who will present his credentials to President Eisenhower Tuesday, strongly indicated that the United States was denying the Nationalists weapons they needed against the big Red guns. But he emphatically denied that nuclear weapons were involved.

Yeh said the Nationalists were free at any time to attack the mainland gun positions. But he said they had held off for "chiefly a military reason."

"We do not need to ask for agreement or permission from the United States" to bomb the gun positions, Yeh said. He added that the right of retaliation "is part of our right to self defense."

Yeh refused to be pinned down on what kind of weapons the Nationalists needed to fight back against bombardment of the Nationalist-held island of Quemoy just off the China mainland.

Balloon Space Flight Slated

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — An inexperienced balloonist completed final preparations Sunday for a 20-mile ascent above the earth to test man's reaction to space travel.

First Lt. Clifton McClure, 26, an Air Force pilot, tentatively is scheduled to step into a tiny closed gondola, crammed with instruments, and be lifted aloft toward the stratosphere by a giant plastic balloon Tuesday.

Scientists on the ground will follow the Air Force "man high III" flight by truck and maintain radio contact with McClure during the ascent, which may last more than 24 hours. They hope to gain first hand knowledge of McClure's physiological, psychological and aeronautical reactions.

McClure rode the balloon for an hour Sunday, thus finally qualifying for his Civil Aeronautics Administration balloonist's accreditation. McClure is the Air Force's replacement for Capt. D. Grover Schock, seriously injured last month in a similar test flight.

Accidents Kill 9 In Maryland Over Weekend

By The Associated Press

Accidents claimed at least nine lives in Maryland during the weekend.

The death toll included a double fatality in Prince Georges County Saturday. A newlywed Washington couple died in the flaming wreckage of their automobile. The four-car crash hospitalized four other persons.

Mr. and Mrs William Lawrence Smith, both 27, of Washington, married only five months, were the victims of the spectacular crash near the intersection of Maryland 210 and the Indian Head highway. A second car was destroyed by flames but its occupants were dragged to safety.

Two persons were killed within an hour Saturday afternoon in separate highway accidents in Southern Maryland.

William Stallings, 19, of Barstow, Calvert County, was killed in a head-on collision on Maryland 2 about two miles south of Prince Frederick.

James Edward Brown, 48, of Waldorf, Charles County, was fatally injured on Maryland 228 when his car struck a hole in the road, went out of control, rammed a concrete culvert and overturned. The accident happened about five miles west of 228's intersection with U. S. 301.

Other weekend victims included:

Colby Kline, 22, of Liberty, Pa., drowned Saturday while swimming in Elk River near Town Point, Cecil County. State police said he apparently got the cramps.

James Stanley, 33, of Cambridge, died in a Cambridge hospital Friday night of injuries received earlier in the day when a truck carrying 10 sawmill workers overturned near Lakesville, Dorchester County.

William F. Curtis of Frederick, found dead along Maryland 355 early Saturday near Hyattstown, Montgomery County. Police said he apparently was a hit-run victim.

Ansel Lionel Acosta, 25, of Tampa, Fla., killed Friday when his car went out of control and overturned about five miles north of Snow Hill Friday.

Thomas Anderson, 15, New Market, drowned Friday when a boat sprang a leak at a pond near New Market, Frederick County. The Negro farm boy and three companions were playing hooky from school at the time.

Injured in the Dorchester County accident that killed Stanley was Samuel Thomas, 21, also of Cambridge. He underwent brain surgery at Johns Hospital and the hospital reported later that he had regained consciousness and his condition was improved from critical to serious.

Nasser's Syria Order Clarified

CAIRO (UPI)—President Gamal A. Nasser is prepared to use the United Arab Republic army if necessary to carve up Syria's big privately-owned land combines, informed sources said Sunday.

They said this was the meaning of the state of emergency, coupled with a land reform decree for Syria, announced Saturday night.

The proclamation fell short of martial law but gave the army standby police powers which it can use if opposition to the land reform turns violent.

A similar state of emergency was declared in 1952 when Egypt put a land reform scheme into effect.

Not only did the army have to force some rich Egyptian landowners to relinquish holdings, but it had to keep peasants from taking the law into their own hands and dividing estates without waiting for government action.

(Diplomatic sources in London agreed with the assessment from Cairo. There were no reports of any critical events in either the Syrian or Egyptian sections of the U.A.R. that might otherwise explain the state of emergency.)

The problem of land reform in Syria might be more difficult than it was in Egypt. An estimated 40 per cent of Syria is in the hands of big landowners. Before the Egyptian revolution, big landowners had only 20 per cent of the land.

Soviets Charge Ike Is Following Hitler Footsteps

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet military newspapers charged Sunday that President Eisenhower is following in the footsteps of Adolf Hitler.

The army newspaper Red Star said there is a similarity in U.S. policy now with that of Nazi Germany before World War II when Hitler demanded partition of Czechoslovakia.

"Now the United States in similar fashion wants to split the (Communist) Chinese nation from its rightful possession of Chinese islands," it said.

Soviet Fleet, the navy newspaper, declared that the United States is outstripping Hitler.

"Ruling circles in Washington headed by Eisenhower took over the armaments and methods at the disposal of Hitler when he prepared one military adventure after another—and improved on them," Soviet Fleet said.

Truman To Continue Campaign Travels

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Former President Truman, whose 1958 campaign travels carried him into eight states in the past fortnight, will hit six more states during the next two weeks, the Democratic National Committee announced Sunday.

The party's headquarters also said that Gov. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, who finished his major 1958 political assignment by winning a U. S. Senate seat in the Sept. 8 Maine election, had been recruited into the campaign speakers' corps. He will make eight appearances in four states during the next two weeks.

On the Republican side, Vice President Richard M. Nixon leaves Monday for appearances at Muncie and Indianapolis, Ind., en route to his home state of California, where he speaks later this week.

D.C. Man Shot; Four Charged

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP) —Robert Fitzpatrick, 26, of Washington was shot and critically wounded early Sunday as the climax of a dispute at a filling station near TB, Prince Georges County.

As a result of the shooting three men and a juvenile were brought to Upper Marlboro Jail and charged with assault. All were released on bond. The charge against the men was set for hearing Oct. 13. The case against the juvenile is to be heard Monday.

State Police said those charged in the incident include Jack J. Fitzpatrick, 21, brother of the wounded man; Jared A. Patterson, 25, of Washington and Edward Queen Harley, 30, of Brandywine.

State Trooper B. L. Weimer said Robert Fitzpatrick was shot in the chest with a bullet from a .22 caliber automatic and was taken to Casualty Hospital in Washington in critical condition.

Weimer said that a Negro owns and operates the filling station. He quoted Harley, who works at the station, as saying three white men drove up to the station early Sunday morning, that one of them made an insulting remark, a scuffle ensued climaxed by the shooting.

Almond's Plan To Reopen Virginia Schools Awaited

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Virginia's most powerful anti-integration law has emptied nine public schools in the state, and Gov. J. Lindsay Almond now faces another state law requiring him to try to "reorganize" and reopen the schools on a segregated basis.

Probably the last Virginia school-closing of this fall hit Norfolk Saturday night when a rapid-firing series of events slammed shut all six white high and junior high schools in the port city, displacing some 10,000 students.

The mass school-closing in Norfolk was the biggest blow thus far. It followed the closures of Warren County's only high school, with 1,050 students, and two schools in Charlottesville, with a total enrollment of about 1,650.

Almond announced the official closing of the Norfolk schools after the U.S. Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals refused to allow a one-year delay of integration and the city school board assigned 17 Negroes to the six schools as it had earlier promised a federal district judge to do.

The Norfolk schools had been scheduled to open Monday.

Almond has not yet announced a plan to reopen the nine schools, but informed sources said he will likely try to open the particular classes or grades of each school to which no Negroes have been assigned. These classes would be segregated, and the grades to which federal judges have ordered Negroes admitted would be eliminated.

If successful, the maneuver would cut approximately in half the number of Virginia children displaced from their classes.

How Far Have We Come Since Sputnik?

Yearly intervals are good times to take stock of personal—and national—progress. For that reason, military writers, experts, and top defense officials are summarizing what strides have or have not been made since Sputnik was launched a year ago. Most of them paint a gloomy picture of where the U. S. stands.

A contrary view is presented by Gov. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. He says it is unfair for critics to compare what Russia may have in 1962 with what the U. S. is certain it will have.

General Twining may be right. Certainly no one is in a better position to know what the secrecy-shrouded facts about the nation's defensive power — both missile and conventional — actually are.

But the public is suspicious that officials are inclined to interpret the facts to make their own efforts look good.

Perhaps the most valid reason for questioning whether the nation is making the progress in military preparations it should be is the past record of the services. For too long they let their work lag because of petty jealousies and rivalries between services. And red tape has created such a long "lead time" between drawing board and production that the U. S. is outclassed in some fields merely because the Russians can get a bomber produced in five years while here it takes eight.

There are many developments about which the public is not being informed because of alleged security restrictions. But the country's leaders could be more honest and forthright about their shortcomings—and then proceed to overcome them.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

A Bad Decision

Public opinion sometimes breaks a man for the wrong reason. The reason that the rules of evidence in the law courts have become so intricate and often appear to laymen so perverse is that it is the purpose of the law to secure justice by safeguarding the individual from the whims and fancies of public opinion and from the misery of private enmity.

As I watched Sherman Adams resign over television, I felt that here was a man laid low by private enmity, by erroneous public opinion and by his own inflexibility and coldness. None of these are just reasons for destroying a public service of 20 years and a reputation which brought a man to this high station.

If Sherman Adams was a thief, he should have been tried in a court of law. If he grafted while in office, he should have been tried in a court of law. If he conspired with other officials to sell favors, he should have been tried in a court of law. There are laws that cover all these matters. After Adams had resigned, he was pursued by extraordinary bad taste.

The worst that has thus far been shown against Sherman Adams is that he performed the normal American custom of doing a favor for a friend such as every Representative, Senator, Cabinet officer, Governor and President does; that over a period of 15 years, long before he entered upon his present duties, he and this friend exchanged gifts, such as most Americans exchange on Christmas, birthdays, etc.; that this friend on occasion paid his hotel bills and deducted them as business expenses, which was a miscarriage of hospitality, and that this particular friend when he appeared before a Congressional committee made an absurd and unacceptable witness.

That is only part of the picture. Another part is that Sherman Adams, like many New Englanders of older families, is stern, inflexible and tends to be arbitrary. His attitude, for instance, toward Senator McCarthy was unconscionable and relentless. He has made it difficult for members of Congress, even of the President's own party, to have appointments with the President. He withheld favors when to have granted them would have helped an incumbent to be elected.

It is generally held in Washington that Sherman Adams was an arrogant person who exercised vast powers without law but by the fiat of the President.

Perhaps his greatest difficulty was that there was no precedent for his office. No President, not even Grant, had organized the Presidency on a General Staff basis. The President, quite apart from being the chief administrative officer of the country and its ornamental representative, is, under our system, also the chief political personality of the country and the leader of his party. These functions cannot be merged in one and a long tradition requires the President to have direct contact with political personalities of both parties, whether he likes them or not. The adequate and smooth functioning of the government requires that the President forego his private predilections and accept the choice of the people as their chosen representatives.

A scrutiny of the lists of the President's stag dinners shows how badly both President Eisenhower and the United States were served in the selections of guests and when it was announced that the lists would no longer be published, Republicans were more than pleased because the lists were politically painful to those who needed to keep the legislative program of the President moving smoothly.

The rise of Sherman Adams to his unusual position was not due to President Eisenhower's illness but rather to his Army training, his preference for Army staff methods, and his primitive views of the Presidency. No man ought again to hold the office that Sherman Adams held. It is unnecessary to the American system of administration. Franklin D. Roosevelt conducted World War II without it, although Harry Hopkins seemed to have unusual powers. The unofficial title of "Assistant President" is absurd in the American constitutional system.

President Eisenhower will miss Sherman Adams. "I need him," was a succinct statement of fact. Perhaps Adams will write his memoirs some day and embarrass many politicians by telling the whole story of the political maneuver to get rid of him—a maneuver which succeeded because he had so few friends when he needed them.

Khrushchev Defends Ike's Golfing While Republicans Try To See Him

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower has had a lot of criticism of his golf, particularly when he remained at Newport, R. I., while two of the worst crises facing the United States broiled in the far Pacific and in the schools of the south.

However, Ike had one defender whom he may not know about—Nikita Krushchev.

Talking in the Kremlin to Cyrus Eaton, the Cleveland industrialist, Khrushchev commented favorably on Eisenhower's golf.

"You Americans use your cars too much," he said. "You don't walk enough. You should walk to be fit. I don't play golf myself, but President Eisenhower's intense interest in golf seems very sensible to me. It gives him good exercise. Please tell him so for me when you go home."

Midnight Phone Call

Several hard-pressed Republican candidates for the Senate wanted to see the President while he was at Newport vacationing, but only a few succeeded. One was Bayard Ewing, Republican candidate for the Senate from Rhode Island who is running in a very uphill race against Sen. John Pastore, Democrat.

Ewing wanted to show the voters of Rhode Island that he was at least on speaking terms with the President, so wanted a photo taken together. For a long time he failed. At Newport Ike was more and more sensitive about his privacy, ruled against all press conferences, didn't want newsmen going along when he played golf.

Finally, a telephone call came through to the summer White House around midnight. Hurriedly the Secret Service checked the call. Those who phone the President at that hour are usually crackpots. The call, however, came from Mr. Ewing, candidate for the Senate from Rhode Island, who wanted the President to get on the telephone and congratulate his daughter. Ewing was at that moment throwing a party for his debutante daughter Lynda at the Agawan Hunt Club in East Providence, and he thought it would be quite an event if the President congratulated her on coming out into society.

The Secret Service did not agree. They did not wake the President.

Shortly before he returned to Washington, however, Ike did squeeze in nine minutes with Ewing, Republican Chairman Meade Alcorn and a few other Republicans at 8:10 a. m., just before he went out to tee off.

Virginia Schools

To get a full understanding of the bitter, tragic school deadlock in Virginia you have to go back about a decade or so to the woeful neglect of schools in the past.

The Harry Byrd political machine, one of the most efficient in the United States, had built excellent highways, picnic tables for tourists, had made Virginia government corruption-free and kept taxes low. But both for Negroes and poor whites in rural areas, school conditions were shocking.

Neglect of Negro schools also existed in other southern states. But educators who surveyed the situation scored Virginia as one of the worst.

Publicity has recently been given to the fact that in Front Royal, where the high school is now closed, Negro students are transported 50 miles by bus to a "boarding" high school in Manassas. A few years ago, however, Negro students had to travel all the way to Mannassas from Arlington, Alexandria, Fairfax, Prince William and Page Counties, some of them going as far as 90 miles.

Up until a year ago, one of the buses carried 70 Prince William children to Manassas though it had a capacity of only 28.

The Manassas Negro boarding school accommodates between 400 and 500 high school and elementary students. There is a three-story frame dormitory, with one bathtub for 40 Negro girls.

New Negro Schools

Today a new high school for Negroes is being rushed to completion in Warren County (Front Royal), but it was begun too late—after the Supreme Court ruling. Demands for integration had already reached a point where the issue could not be solved without bitterness.

In Fairfax County, Va., 28 years ago, Negroes comprised 10 per cent of the population, yet only $2,000 of a $900,000 school bond issue went for Negro schools. At that time Negro students had to pay to ride in the school bus. White children traveled free. Up until 1950 Fairfax County had a two-room frame school for Negro elementary students. There was no water except from a neighbor's pump.

Both whites and Negroes had about the same standard of schooling in rural Virginia—frequently one-teacher, one-room schools. And according to the last official report of the Virginia Superintendent of Instruction there were still 384 such schools in 1956-57 in rural sections of the state—155 white and 229 Negro.

As recently as 1953-54 there were 985 one-teacher schools in Virginia.

This was the root cause of the present integration struggle. Negroes attending crowded, run-down schools demanded the same treatment as white students. And when they didn't get it, they demanded integrated schools. About 10 years ago many southern states woke up to this and began building Negro schools. As a result, Alabama and North Carolina are among those which have even more modern Negro schools than white.

But the building campaign came too late. By this time the demand for integration had reached a point where it was difficult to stop.

Conflicting Legalities In Civil Rights Cases

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The mess of conflicting "legalities" in which the American people find themselves today over the "integration" question is best illustrated by the fact that in one state of the Union—namely, Oklahoma—it still is the "law of the land" to permit segregated public schools.

This paradox comes about because the Congress of the United States in 1907 entered into a binding compact with the people of Oklahoma specifically permitting them to maintain white and colored schools, respectively. The act of Congress, which was embodied in the Constitution of the State of Oklahoma and ratified by the people of that state, declared:

"That provisions shall be made for the establishment and maintenance of a system of public schools which shall be open to all the children of said state and free from sectarian control; and said schools shall always be conducted in English: provided, that nothing herein shall preclude the teaching of other languages in said public schools: and provided further, that this shall not be construed to prevent the establishment and maintenance of separate schools for white and colored children."

It will be noted that, at the same time this was passed by Congress and ratified by the people of the State of Oklahoma as a part of their constitution, it was specifically stipulated in the "enabling act" passed by Congress that the constitution of Oklahoma "shall make no distinction in civil or political rights on account of race or color."

Thus a differentiation was made between "civil or political rights," on the one hand, and the rights involved in the maintenance of separate schools, on the other.

As late as June 1950 — four years before its decision overruling the "separate but equal" doctrine in a case involving state laws — the Supreme Court of the United States had an opportunity to declare this act of Congress invalid but did not do so. The case before it concerned a Negro who had been admitted to a white college but who was given a desk apart from the other students, as provided by Oklahoma state law. The Supreme Court said that, once admitted, a Negro had to be given equal treatment with the whites and that this state law violated the Fourteenth Amendmen.

The citizens of Oklahoma today can insist on the benefits given by a statute passed by Congress. The Fourteenth Amendment, of course, does not restrict federal laws but applies solely to state laws. It would be possible for some litigant to argue that, without any state laws on the subject, "separate but equal" educational facilities are still legal in the state of Oklahoma because they have been authorized by an act of Congress which has never been replaced and which has never been ruled invalid by the Supreme Court of the United States.

It is true that an act of Congress was also involved in the District of Columbia case, decided on May 17, 1954, when segregation was condemned in local schools. But an act of Congress providing for the governing of a territory or a federal district is not the same thing as an act of Congress which deals with the admission of a state and its rights under a written constitution.

It will be suggested that the Supreme Court would simply say in such a new case that it is "unthinkable" for one state to be ruled by a federal law while the others are not. Certainly from time to time the Supreme Court has insisted that the "enabling act" which creates a new state does not add or subtract "civil or political rights" from the state but places it in these respects on a footing equal to the other states of the Union. Education, on the other hand, has not been held legally to be a "civil or political right" but the grant of a privilege within the discretion of a state.

There is, however, another question involved—namely, when Congress admits a new state to the Union and makes a binding contract with it, can the Supreme Court alter that contract? Certainly if there is a Constitutional Amendment passed subsequent to the admission of a state to the Union, such recently admitted state would be subject to the new Amendments to the Constitution. It will be insisted that the same principle applies with respect to decisions which afterward "interpret" the Constitution.

The fallacy in this, however, lies in the fact that, if a Supreme Court decision can change the "law of the land" at any time and there is no such thing as "settled law," then all the property rights granted to new states by the federal government in connection with land specially reserved for the use of the states, or state funds derived from such lands, might be placed in jeopardy at any moment by a decision of the Supreme Court of the United States overturning the "enabling act" by which a state was admitted to the Union.

The basic principle involved is—as Abraham Lincoln defined it—that, once there is a decision by the Supreme Court and it is affirmed and reaffirmed, it becomes what is known as "settled law." It is being urged by noted jurists that there should be no further change made in the status of such rulings except through the method prescribed in the Constitution itself for amending that document.

In other words, the experience of Oklahoma indicates the need for a Constitutional amendment which would clear up for all time whether the Supreme Court of the United States has the right to change the "settled law" of the land whenever the Justices change or whenever their personal whims may influence them to reverse previous decisions.

There are at least ten states in the union which have inserted in their constitutions the wording of laws passed by Congress which specifically affirm the right of these states "forever" to retain "exclusive control" over their public-school systems. What does the phrase "exclusive control" mean now? Does it mean that the states retain the right to decide which pupils shall enter their schools, or must they now submit their school rosters each term to federal judges to determine whether or not they have properly passed upon the qualifications of their students? This is only one of many issues that will plague the federal courts of the United States for years to come, due to the action of the Supreme Court of the United States in overturning the existing system of handling "settled law" in the United States .

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

We once wrote of a Fifth Amendment mouthpiece that he was educated in the Three-Eye League. Irrelevane, Immaterial and Incriminating.

A good gageroo at the time but it now means less than feathers on a pumphandle. For there is no more Three-Eye League that used to cover Iowa, Indiana and Illinois.

It was a spread in the days of the hoss and buggy leagues. A remarkable outfit has taken its place called the Little League. That's where your players will be incubated.

One of the minors evaporated completely is the old Tri-State. It flourished in the days when Pennsylvania was fat in oil, lumber and coal. You never hear of Williamsport, York, Scranton, Trenton and Albany.

They can't package the goods anymore because they lost their ball of string. There is no place to polish the material for the Major Leagues.

That's why they are buttering up high school players with bonuses they never earn.

There are no more Three-Eye Leagues where an infielder would reach for a grounder and pick up a potato.

Who are they going to sign up for paid skiatron? Clark Gable and Cary Grant?

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

He listened. The words came in a torrent of fatigue and exasperation. "I share my bowl of rice with six children," Miss Tena Holkeboer said. "I can't share with one more." She held the hand of the skinny little Chinese girl. "She will not go away. What am I to do?"

Bob Pierce listened. He could not tell her what to do. He was an ordained American Baptist minister on his first trip to China. He had seen suffering that shook the soul. In a suburb of Kunming, 80,000 people in a population of 100,000 had trachoma. Four German Lutheran Sisters took care of 52 blind children and had nothing to feed them but minced weeds and bark.

He had seen lepers with no hands. When they came to the edge of a town to beg piteously for food, the townspeople came out and killed them because it is good to kill lepers. The beggars were everywhere. The poor walked the roads and died in the fields. This was China in 1947.

Now he was on the big island of Amoy. The Reformed Church had a school for 400 Chinese girls. Miss Holkeboer, of Holland, Michigan, took care of them. She was a big woman with big courage. She shared her noontime bowl of rice with six of the girls. Now there was little Tan. And she would not go away.

Her father hated Christians. He beat the little girl-child with a bamboo rod. The red welts on the back were shaped like a fan. The child did not cry. Her black shoebutton eyes blinked. She wore a thin porous dress. There was no other garment.

"I tell her to go away and she comes here and sits at a desk while the rest of us eat." The big woman was close to tears. "I can't stand it." She hesitated a moment, then picked the child up and almost threw her into the arms of the Reverend Pierce. "What are you going to do about it?" she shouted.

He held the child. The round little nose was under his chin. The eyes looked up at him frankly. She was 11. She wanted so badly to be a Christian that she suffered for it. How good is a good Christian? Great enough to brave starvation, like Miss Holkeboer? Brave enough to visit a nation on its knees, as Bob Pierce was doing? Or big enough to die for it, as Tan was doing?

Pierce did much thinking in a few moments. He was 32, married, and had children of his own. He lived in Arcadia, California. It was Pierce and Billy Graham and Torrey Johnson and Charlie Templeton who had inaugurated the Youth for Christ movement. Like the others, Bob Pierce hoped to save the world. He was down to one little girl now.

"How much would it cost to help her?" he said.

"Twenty-five dollars."

"Will that feed her for a month?"

"It will feed her for a year and pay for her books."

Pierce had no money. He had no ticket home. In his pocket was $5. Mutely, he handed it to Miss Holkeboer. He looked down at the little girl and he knew what he wanted to do with his life. If he could not save the world, he could save one. And if generous people helped, he would save more than one.

He never saw Tan again. Somehow, Bob Pierce got home. He preached up and down the land, and he sent money to little Tan. A year later, the Communists were digesting China. The gates were slammed against the foreign devils. But the vision of the shoebutton eyes stayed with him.

In her name, Bob Pierce could help others. He formed an organization called World Vision. Its address is Box O, in Pasadena, California. In 1948, the big blond missioner sent $60,000 to the poor and the sick of Asia. Each year, as he preached, the sums grew greater. This year, he will send $2,000,000.

World Vision supports 142 orphanages feeding 12,300 children. Each orphanage is administered by its own church group: Presbyterian, Methodist, Baptist, Episcopal and others. Mother lepers give their babies to the orphanages because they are afraid to breast-feed them.

Yesterday, the Rev. Pierce sat in my living room and we talked of little Tan. She would be 22 now. He doesn't think she's alive.

I couldn't help but wonder: Who saved whom?

Persistent Discomforts Can Mean Cancer

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The majority of cancers of the throat and tongue can be cured, provided they are recognized early. But the disease is treacherous because it may smolder for months before causing symptoms.

A 60 year old artist developed a sore throat and saw a physician two days later. The throat was red, the tonsils were slightly enlarged, and a few swollen glands were felt in the neck. An appropriate remedy was prescribed.

When pain failed to disappear at the end of a week, the artist returned to his physician, who looked into the throat again and noted that the tonsil on the right side was firmer than usual. A malignancy was suspected and the patient was referred to a specialist. He found cancer involving the tongue and throat, in addition to the tonsil.

The man's life was saved with an extensive operation and X-ray treatments. Plastic surgery was done to restore his original features after healing occurred. This large cancer had existed for many months before symptoms developed. Some of us might have allowed the condition to go on for another month or two, provided discomfort was not severe. To delay is human but it may mean the difference between life and death.

A 77 year old man walked into an English clinic carrying his false teeth and complaining that the gum in the left lower jaw was painful. An open sore was found but the man insisted the dentures were responsible. He was given a mouth wash and told to see his dentist.

Pain was gone when he returned to the clinic 10 days later and the physician didn't think it necessary to look into the oldster's mouth. He returned again three month later with the same complaint. The ulcer proved to be a malignancy; healing occurred after a series of X-ray treatments.

There are many variations to this story but the lesson is the same. Serious ailments may come in simple disguise. Ill fitting dentures are not the only cause of pain in the mouth—and in the case discussed they were only coincidental.

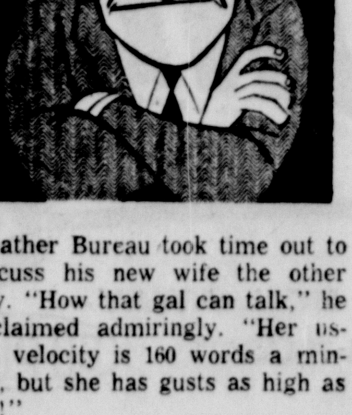
Bleeding from cancer of the rectum frequently is blamed on hemorrhoids. A persistent diarrhea that occurs after a trip to Mexico or Spain may be blamed on tainted food or water when in reality a milgnancy is responsible. Cancer consciousness is the only way to overcome these problems.

TOMORROW: Dead spaces in the lungs.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf



Gracie Allen recalls: "The first time I ever met George Burns he gave me a pass to the theater in Union Hills, N. J., where he was doing a vaudeville act. I went to the matinee the next day and was I surprised! George was being co-starred with a movie called 'The Birth of a Nation' and 10 other acts, but he was so modest he hadn't even mentioned them. I felt very proud. There must have been eight or nine people in that audience and I was the only one with a pass."

Gracie had a fine vacation in Honolulu recently, and was telling a reporter all about it. "Did you go by boat or plane?" asked the reporter. "I don't really know," admitted Gracie. "George bought the tickets."

A man working in the U. S. Weather Bureau took time out to discuss his new wife the other day. "How that gal can talk," he exclaimed admiringly. "Her usual velocity is 160 words a minute, but she has gusts as high as 190!"

A class in humor is taught at the University of California at Los Angeles by a professional comedian. And that's no joke, son!

Maybe it's not significant but we've noticed that no nation in this quarrelsome old world has ever picked the lovebird as its emblem.

Williams Cops 6th Batting Title With Average Of .328

Ted's Homer Gives Bosox 6-4 Triumph

Collects Two Hits, Runnels Finishes Second With .322

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Ted Williams collected two hits Sunday in four times at bat to win his sixth American League batting title with a .328 average as the Boston Red Sox defeated the Washington Senators, 6-4.

The 40-year-old Williams came into Washington trailing teammate Pete Runnels by four points, .324 to .320 and proceeded to collect five hits in eight tries in his last two games to win the title. Ted closed out Sunday with a double and a homer while Runnels went hitless in four times up to finish with a .322 mark.

Williams' spectacular windup was reminiscent of the 1941 season when he collected seven hits in his last nine official trips to the plate to win his first title with a .406 average. He is the last batter to hit .400 in the majors.

Ted played three games of this four-game series and got seven hits in 11 times at bat, including three homers. He also drove in five runs. His home run today broke a 4-4 tie and provided the margin of victory for Boston.

Pedro Ramos, knocked out of the box in one inning Saturday, attempted to come right back Sunday. He was tagged for all six Boston runs including homers by Williams (his 26th), Ted Lepcio and Sammy White.

Tom Brewer started for Boston and was shelled in the fifth when the Senators scored three runs to take a 4-3 lead. Rookie Ted Bowsfield came in to get the victory.

Lepcio's homer in the sixth tied the score at 4-4. Then Williams blasted a drive into the center field seats to put Boston ahead. The Red Sox got an insurance run on White's homer in the eighth.

Williams, who missed the better part of five seasons because of two hitches with the Marines, won his first AL batting title in that 1941 season. He won it for a second time the following season when he hit .356. After time out for his first hitch, the Thumper came back to win in 1946 with a .343 mark and repeated in 1947 with .369.

He hit .317 or better for six of the next eight seasons with time out again for his second hitch with the Marines and then won the title last year with a .388 mark that made him the oldest batting champion in major league history.

The victory clinched third place for the Red Sox and the loss was the Senators' 13th straight.

Zihlman And Barrelville Play 15-Inning 5-5 Tie

Raines vs. Richards Duel In Series Tilt Halted By Darkness

Barrelville's Old Exports and Zihlman battled 15 innings to a 5-5 deadlock yesterday at Barrelville when darkness brought a halt to the third game of their best-of-five games final playoff series in the Pen-Mar Baseball League.

The Old Exports had won the first two games by scores of 3-1 and 3-2.

Dave Richards went the route for Zihlman, struck out 22 batsmen, walked seven and hit two batsmen. Jesse Markley started on the mound for Barrelville and was relieved after one away in the fifth by Bobby Raines, who hurled the last 10⅔ frames. Markley struck out three and issued two bases on balls while Raines mowed down 16 via the strikeout route and gave up three passes.

H. Johnson of Zihlman, belted a two-run homer in the top of the third to knot the score at 4-4 and there was no more scoring until the 15th when both teams made one run.

Barney Spearman's bases on balls, stolen base and Kenny Johnson's single broke the tie. In the last of the 15th, however, the Old Exports knotted the count for the final time when George Miller was safe on an error, moved to third on Woody Woodson's single and crossed the plate on Lowery's squeeze play bunt.

Warnick smacked a triple and two singles and Kenny Johnson garnered a trio of one-base knocks for Zihlman while Harold Hudson larruped a double and two singles and George Miller collected three singles for Barrelville.

The teams meet again next Sunday at 2:30 p. m., at Barrelville. Score:

Zihlman .... 022 000 000 000 001—5
Barrelville .... 220 000 000 000 001—5

Redlegs Blank Milwaukee, 4-0

Kellner, Lawrence Pitch Four-Hitter

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Alex Kellner and Brooks Lawrence teamed up to shut out the champion Milwaukee Braves on four hits as the Cincinnati Redlegs won the season finale Sunday, 4-0, before 41,364.

Frank Robinson drove in two runs with a single and a double to saddle Carl Willey, second of four Milwaukee pitchers, with the defeat.

Manager Fred Haney of the Braves used all four of his candidates for the starting assignment in the third World Series game with the New York Yankees. Bob Rush opened and pitched three scoreless innings. Willey gave up two runs in three innings and Ernie Johnson two in two, then Juan Pizarro retired the side in order in the ninth.

Kellner scattered four hits in the first six innings and Lawrence gave up only one harmless walk in the last three.

The crowd gave the Braves a season attendance total of 1,971,101, marking the first time in five years that they failed to reach two million.

Indians Defeat Tigers, Finish In 4th Place

Bell Is Victor, 6-2, Colavito Hits 41st

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Rocky Colavito's 41st home of the year and rookie Gary Bell's stingy pitching gave the Cleveland Indians a 6-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers and a fourth-place finish in the American League Sunday.

With approximately $500 in World Series prize money hanging on every delivery, Bell turned back the Bengals on six hits. Entering the first division showdown game, the Tigers were fourth, a half-game ahead of Cleveland. It was the 12th victory in a fine freshman campaign for the 21-year-old righthander.

Steelers Lose 23-20 Decision On West Coast

Forty Niners Win, Brodie Stands Out

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Firing passes with pin-point accuracy, alternate quarterback John Brodie engineered a 16-point San Francisco 49er comeback drive for a 23-20 victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers in the National Football League opener for both clubs Sunday.

Gordie Soltau's 22-yard field goal with 2 minutes 31 seconds remaining proved the winning margin before 51,856 in Kezar Stadium.

Brodie engineered the opening touchdown in the first quarter. But the dogged Steelers surged back and tied the count by half time.

With the veteran Y. A. Tittle taking over from Brodie to start the third period, the 49ers went nowhere. The Steelers, largely on two pass interceptions by Jack Butler, pulled into a 20-7 lead. Then coach Frankie Albert sent Brodie back in.

The young quarterback found R. C. Ownes his best target for the day, with the combination racking up consistent gains.

Sharing honors, San Francisco's veteran defensive back Bill Stits intercepted three passes, two of which turned the 49ers' first two scores.

Brodie first steered the 49ers 73 yards in eight plays with rookie Jim Pace scoring from 11 yards out. But Dick Alban blocked Soltau's conversion attempt and the score stood 20-13 for the Steelers.

Gifford Stars As Giants Win

New Yorkers Blast Chicago Cards, 37-7

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — The New York Giants a disastrous exhibition season out of the way, got three touchdowns from Frank Gifford Sunday as they blasted the Chicago Cardinals 37-7 in their National Football League opener.

The Giants converted a pass interception and a recovered Chicago fumble in to two quick touchdowns, both by Gifford and wrapped it up with the game barely five minutes old.

A crowd of 21,923 was on hand in Civic Stadium for the first neutral city opener in NFL history. The game was moved here by the Cards because the Chicago White Sox were still in Comiskey Park.

The Cards, despite three straight exhibition ictories, a new coach and a new system, never got off the ground. Even their touchdown was tarnished. Rookie John Crow, the Texas A & M All-American, scored it by recovering teammate Ollie Matson's fumble in the end zone.

Gifford, ably abetted by Charley Conerly, Alex Webster and an alert defensive unit, made it a miserable afternoon for Frank "Pop" Ivy, the Cards' new coach returning from four years in the Canadian League.

Webster scored two touchdowns, Conerly handled the offensive with scarcely an error and the defense wrecked the Cards with interceptions and recovered fumbles.

New York .... 14 13 7 3—37
Chicago .... 0 7 0 0— 7

New York scoring—Tds: Gifford 3 (8 run, 8 run, 2 run), Webster 2 (7 run, 1 plunge); FG: Summerall (28). PAT: Summerall 4.

Chicago scoring — TDs: Crow (recovered fumble in end zone). PAT: Conrad.

Men Of LaSalle Sponsor Booster Game On Friday

To Crown Queen, Blue Angels Drum Corps Will Play

Men of LaSalle will sponsor the booster game on Friday, October 3, when LaSalle High School's football team will meet the Bedford eleven at Fort Hill Stadium.

Kickoff time will be 8 p. m., according to Paul Stakem, president, who said that a football queen will be selected by the LaSalle football players.

At halftime she will be crowned by Miss Patricia Malone, last year's queen. A special feature at halftime will be a musical program presented by the Blue Angels Drum and Bugle Corps of Victory Post 155, American Legion of Westernport.

The corps has won many prizes in this area. The moderator of the Men of LaSalle is Brother Thomas with Fred Stitcher as chairman.

Giants Bag Final, 7-2

Mays Gets 3 Hits Against St. Louis

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Willie Mays collected three hits in five trips to the plate Sunday but fell short of catching Richie Ashburn in the down-to-the-wire race for the National League batting honors.

But the third place San Francisco Giants beat St. Louis 7-2 before a closing day crowd of 19,435.

Manager Bill Rigney let Willie lead off to give him more chances to bat and he promptly started with a double to deep left center.

He came up in the second inning and flied out to Ellis Burton in left. Now he would need 6 for 7, a virtual impossibility without a long extra inning contest.

Willie came up in the fourth and hit a long homer into the right field seats for hit No. 2. It was his 29th round-tripper. Although he was out of the race, the perspiring crowd didn't know it and cheered lustily as Mays came to bat in the sixth. He beat out a single to third, but flied to center in the seventh to wrap up the days' and season's work with .3466.

The Sunday closer brought the season's total attendance to 1,272,625 for Seals Stadium—smallest in the majors. It seats slightly less than 23,000. The total was virtually double last year's attendance at New York's big Polo Grounds. It was the transplanted New Yorker's first season in Seals Stadium.

Ashburn Takes Batting Crown In Senior Loop

Richie's Mark .349; Phils Top Bucs, 6-4

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Philadelphia's Richie Ashburn won his second National League batting title Sunday by collecting three singles in four official times at bat. He finished the season with a .3495 average.

Ashburn's closest competitor, Willie Mays of San Francisco, needed at least 5 for 5 in Sunday's game against St. Louis to beat out Ashburn.

But Mays got only three hits in five trips and ended the season with a .347 average.

Ashburn, 31-year-old veteran of 10 campaigns, also grounded out and walked as the Phillies beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-4 in a 10-inning season finale.

He won the NL batting championship in 1955 with an average of .338. Last year he finished at .297. His best season was .344 in 1951 when Stan Musial of the Cardinals had .355 to win the crown.

The Phils' Dave Philley doubled in the seventh inning for his eighth straight pinch-hit, setting a major league record. Peanuts Lowrey established the old mark of seven in 1952.

Ashburn's single to short center in the 105h touched off a two-run rally that gave the last-place Phillies their sixth straight victory.

Ed Kazanski followed Ashburn with a sacrifice and after Ed Bouchee struck out, Wally Post got an intentional pass to put men on first and second. Harry Anderson then singled, scoring Ashburn, and Willie Jones scored Post with a safety.

Millers Lead, 3-0

MONTREAL (UP) — The Minneapolis Millers of the American Assn. took a 3-0 lead over the Montreal Royals of the International League with a 3-2 victory in the Little World Series.

The best-of-seven series now shifts to Minneapolis for the remaining games. The Millers need only one victory to wrap up the series.

Title Flight Cut To Five In CCC Golf

Three Players Win, Go To Semi-Finals

The field battling it out for the fall golf championship at the Cumberland Country Club was reduced to five players yesterday when C. S. Catherman, Jr., defeated George Garlitz, 1 up, Col. R. W. Meals eliminated Orville W. Jackson, 2 and 1, and John Wilson downed Clifton Van Roby, 2 and 1.

Yesterday's winners advanced to the semi-final round in the title flight. The bracket will be completed after Ben LaNeve plays Henry Johnson.

Other results were as follows:

Fourth Flight—Nate Hauger defeated Glenn Wright, 1 up.

John Wilson won the best nine tournament held over the weekend by posting a net 36-4—32 to pace a field of 16 players.

Players with flags on par three holes were: Nos. 1, 10 and 12—Joe Wolfe. No. 6—Dave Klein. No. 15—C. S. Catherman, Jr.

The Women's Golf Association will hold a best nine tournament on Tuesday at 10 a. m.

Mt. Savage Yankees Cop Playoff Crown

Manager Bob Stevens' Yankees won the playoff title in the Mt. Savage Little League yesterday by taking the third and deciding game of their series with the Pirates by the score of 5-4 in seven innings.

Singles by Eddie Logsdon and Jim Malloy accounted for the winning run in the extra frame.

Shaffer, who replaced Birmingham on the mound in the third inning, was credited with the win and Brannon, the third Pirates' hurler, was the loser.

Dale Keel, Malloy and Logsdon shared six of the Yankees' nine hits. The Pirates were limited to four singles.

Colts Whip Detroit, 28-15; Redskins Beat Eagles, 24-14

48,377 See Baltimore Top Lions

Berry Catches 10 Passes, Gains 149 Yards In Opener

By GEORGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE (AP) — The National Football League defending champion Detroit Lions were toppled 28-15 in their opening game Sunday by a band of fighting Baltimore Colts.

A record opening-day crowd of 48,377 for Baltimore reveled as the Colts took the lead in the first quarter and then twice came from behind to triumph. End Raymond Berry climaxed a great day of pass catching by scoring for the second time on a 14-yard pop-throw at the outset of the final period to put the Colts ahead for good.

Berry, catching 10 for 149 yards, gave the Colts a halftime 14-9 lead by taking a 26-yard scoring aerial from quarterback John Unitas in the second period.

Lenny Moore ran eight yards and L. G. Dupre 12 for the other Colt touchdowns.

Howard (Hopalong) Cassady, Detroit's flanker halfback, kept his team in the game by snagging two touchdown passes.

Jim Martin's 31-yard field goal in the second period put Detroit into the scoring column. However, he missed an important one from the 15-yard line in the third quarter and quarterback Bobby Lane goofed on his first conversion try out of 59.

Detroit	0	9	6	0—15
Baltimore	7	7	0	14—28

Detroit scoring—TDs: Cassady (11, pass from Lane); 30 screen pass from Rote; FG: Martin (31).

Baltimore scoring—Tds: Moore (8, run), Berry 2 (26, pass from Unitas; 14, pass from Unitas), Dupre (12, run), PAT: Myrha 4.

Groza's Goal Beats Rams

Browns Score Over Los Angeles, 30-27

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Cleveland Browns came from behind with 16 points in the last quarter and the magic toe of Lou Groza killed the Los Angeles Rams with a nine-yard field goal in the final 25 seconds to win the game 30-27 Sunday.

The boost erased a 27-27 deadlock, and was the killer blow that saw the Ram defense collapse and a half time lead of 17-7 and a third quarter advantage of 27-14 evaporate.

The Rams took the last kickoff and with one 34-yard pass from Billy Wade to Del Shofner reached the Cleveland 41. But a place kick from the 48 by Paige Cothren missed, a little wide to the left.

Earlier in the game Groza, missed a 44-yard field goal attempt. And his try for the extra point for the team's first touchdown of the fourth quarter was blocked.

The 16-point blast by Cleveland in the last period started off with a pass from quarterback Milt Plum to Ray Renfro that made the score 20-27.

Halfback Jon Arnett, who had been a Ram running hero, fumbled on a run when hit and Junior Wren scooped up the ball and ran it back 34 yards to set up the next touchdown on the Ram seven.

Fullback Jim Brown smashed for two, then the final five and this time Groza converted to tie the score.

Cleveland	0	7	7	16—30
Los Angeles	3	14	10	0—27

Cleveland scoring — TDs: Mitchell (4 pass from Plum), Brown 2 (38, 5 runs), Renfro (21 pass from Plum). PAT: Groza 3. FG: Groza (9).

Los Angeles scoring — TDs: Lundy (20 pass from Wade), Shofner (65 pass from Wade), Wilson (13 run). PAT: Cothren 3. FG: Cothren 2 (40, 11).

Four Hurlers Made Eligible For Series

NEW YORK (AP)—Don Larsen, Tom Sturdivant and Murry Dickson, three righthanded pitchers, were added to the New York Yankees list and pitcher Ernie Johnson replaced ailing Joey Jay of Milwaukee's roster of World Series eligibles.

Charles Segar, baseball secretary - treasurer, announced the changes had been approved by Commissioner Ford Frick.

112 Share Fairgo Purses, Lee's Stable Wins $6,560

Virginian Cops Nine, Reynolds "In Money" 51 Times, 79 Races

A total of 112 different stables won purses at the 34th annual race meeting of the Cumberland Fair Association which was concluded on Saturday and the leading winning trainer for the 12-day session was Carroll D. Lee, of Leesburg, Va., the first negro conditioner ever to set the pace at the local half mile track.

Lee saddled a total of nine winners, two short of the record of 11 hung up by Mrs. G. A. Saportas, Jr., in 1952, and his 9-2-3-2 record earned a total of $6,560, also tops for the meeting.

Lee's Nine Winners

The Virginian's nine winners were Delicious (2), Quatre Thell (2), Shamrock Green, LaVillate, Hours Later, Argumentative and Achsah Ann.

Three trainers were tied for runner-up honors with five winners each, namely, W. Stanley Moxley, Owen L. Follin and Nuncy J. Greco.

Moxley's winners were Kum On Doc (2), Hel-Doc, Tarry Not and Knotty Jack. Follin scored with Pavion (2), Little Sputnic (2) and Specified. Winners saddled by Greco were Onyx (2), Broom Party (2) and Has To Be.

William D. Thomas and James M. P. Bell had four winners each and John J. Pichot, William F. Parks and George Mohr had three.

Greco was the runner-up to Lee in purses won with $4,290 on a 5-3-1-4 record. Follin won $4,040 with 5-3-1-1 and Moxley took $3,775 in purses with 5-2-2-0.

Reynolds Had 25 Winners

Lawrence Reynolds, of Geneva, Ohio, was the meeting's top rider with 25 winners in 12 days, one short of the record 26 set by Bill Clark in ten days in 1955. Reynolds, the first apprentice to pace the riders in 13 years, had 79 mounts and finished "in the money" 51 times, finishing with a 25-13-13 record. His top performance was on opening day when he piloted four winners. John "Cadillac" Jack Sollars, Missourian, was the runner-up this year with 14 winners and Anthony Russo, Baltimore, was third with ten firsts, three coming on "Getaway" Day.

Thirty-one of the 112 stables that shared in the purse distribution won over $1,000. They are as follows:

Sam Snead Scores 12-Stroke Victory

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI)—Defending champion Sam Snead duplicated his opening round four-under-par 67 Sunday to win the West Virginia open golf tournament at Lakeview Country Club by 12 strokes. Amateur Billy Campbell of Huntington was runnerup with a total of 148.

The scheduled 54-hole event was reduced to 36 holes after rain washed out the second round Saturday.

Snead, who had to catch a plane for Florida where he has some exhibition engagements, was allowed to tee off first, along with professional Joe Taylor of Charleston and Campbell. The win gave Snead top prize money of $300. Campbell collected a second prize of $200 and third-place winner Dick Foutche of Charleston with 150 got $150.

County Loop To Meet

The County Softball League will hold its final meeting of the season on Tuesday at 8 p. m., at the Corriganville Fire Hall.

The clearing up of receipts of the All-Star game and other business will be transacted at this session.

St. Patrick's Cops Catholic League Opener

SS. Peter And Paul Loses 20-13 Battle

St. Patrick's defending champions launched their 1958 football campaign in the Catholic Youth League with a 20-13 decision over SS. Peter and Paul in a well played game yesterday at Marydale field.

The "Fighting Irish," coached by Rev. Arthur W. Bastress, A. Joseph Chorpenning and Randy Lantz, took a 14-13 lead at halftime and put the game on ice with a third quarter touchdown.

Billy Van Horn scored two of St. Patrick's touchdowns on 50 and 60 yard runs. The third score came on a 40-yard pass play executed by Joe Chorpenning and Johnny Horn. The Chorpenning brothers—Joe and Pat—plunged for the winning team's two extra points.

Mike Madden intercepted a pass and ran 15 yards for SS. Peter and Paul's initial touchdown. The other score came on a 60-yard run by Terry McElfish. Ronnie Miller converted after the West Siders' initial six-pointer.

SS. Peter and Paul threatened in the final period but a goal line stand by St. Pat's prevented further scoring.

The game was witnessed by approximately 300 persons, one of the largest ever to attend a league game. Score by periods:

Ed LeBaron's Passes Sink Philadelphia

Washington Team Comes From Behind To Bag Decision

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Quarterback Eddie LeBaron, the little man with the big arm, directed the Washington Redskins on a pair of long, fourth-period touchdown drives Sunday for a come-from-behind 24-14 National Football League victory over the Philadelphia Eagles.

The 165-pound LeBaron, handling the football with the dexterity of a magician and passing with deadly accuracy, piloted the 'Skins on marches of 69 and 60 yards for the winning touchdowns.

Trailing 14-10 as the final quarter opened, the Redskins ate up 69 yards on seven plays, assisted by offsides and roughing-the-passer penalties against the Eagles. They took the lead 17-14.

Halfback Dick James swept wide from the 3 as the Eagles closed their defense expecting a power play. Sam Baker converted the second of his three extra points.

Later in the period the 'Skins started a drive from their 40, which wound up in 13 plays with Don Bosseler smashing over from the one to round out the scoring.

Norman Van Brocklin, obtained by the Eagles in a winter deal with the Los Angeles Rams scored one touchdown and set up the Eagles' other score with his passing.

Washington	0	10	0	14—24
Philadelphia	7	0	7	0—14

Washington scoring — TDs: Carson (28, pass from LeBaron), James 3, run; Bosseler one, plunge; PAT: Baker 3. FG: Baker (33).

Philadelphia scoring — TDs: Barnes one, plunge; Van Brocklin, one, sneak. PAT: Walston 2.

Fairgo Daily Average Hits 7-Year High

Mark Of $202,624 Is Best Since 1951; Rain Mars Finale

Jupiter Pluvius marred the final day's racing program of the Cumberland Fair Association on Saturday but in spite of the fact that wagering was not up to the first Saturday the meet wound up with its best daily average in seven years.

The handle amounted to $2,431,494 for the 12 days and the daily average of $202,624 was the best at the local half miler since 1951.

This year's wagering total was the highest of the three 12 day sessions held at Fairgo, was 4.71 per cent above the $2,322,115 in 1957 and 8 per cent above the $2,241,696 in 1956.

Jam Stops Bettors

A downpour at the start of the third race Saturday caused a traffic jam beneath the grandstand and it was impossible for many persons to get to the betting windows. The condition remained for several races and long lines of bettors were shut out before they were able to place their wagers. The rainy finale climaxed eleven consecutive days of good weather.

Favorites took four of the eight races on Getaway Day and they were Lolly Su ($4.00), Delicious ($3.80), Taylorcrest ($4.60) and Navy Brat ($5.40).

Russo Posts Triple

Anthony Russo, Baltimore saddlesmith, racked up a "triple" by scoring with Jimmie's Gem ($8.20), Taylorcrest and Prince Tamar ($9.00) winner of the Clifton White Memorial trophy which was presented to owner John Pettibone by Mrs. Clifton W. White, who was introduced by Miss Ann Drane—"Miss Fairgo of 1958."

Jimmie's Gem (2) and Lolly Su (1) returned a $17.80 double as the pool of $30,852 was tops for the meeting.

Apprentice rider Lawrence Reynolds posted his 24th and 25th winners aboard Delicious ($3.80) and Navy Brat and Apprentice John Sollars also racked up a pair of wins with Lolly Su and Mains Chance ($18.60).

Attendance on the last day was 6,516 compared to 7,295 on the first Saturday and the handle was $262,710 as against $290,043 the previous Saturday.

Bears Win Over Green Bay, 34-20

Galimore Chalks Up 3 TDs For Chicago

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—Willie Galimore threaded his way for three touchdowns Sunday as the Chicago Bears beat the Green Bay Packers 34-20 in a National Football League opener.

Galimore, a 23-year-old NFL sophomore who can run the 100-yard dash in 9.6 seconds, scored on runs of one and eight yards and collaborated with Ed Brown on a pass good for 79 yards and another touchdown.

The Bears thus launched on a high note owner George Halas' return to the coaching lines after a two-year retirement.

A City Stadium crowd of 32,150 watched the Packers take a 7-0 lead after a little more than a minute of play on Bobby Dillon's 37-yard run with an intercepted pass.

Galimore's one-yard plunge tied the score five minutes later, but Paul Hornung's 23-yard field goal put the Packers ahead again 10-7.

Six minutes after the second quarter started Galimore zig-zagged eight yards to put the finishing touch on a 59-yard Bear drive. From then on, the Bears had it their own way.

Brown scored once on a two-yard sneak and passed 13 yards to Harlon Hill for the final touchdown.

Hornung added another field goal, this one from 30 yards out, and a touchdown on a two-yard end sweep.

Chicago	7	14	7	6—34
Green Bay	10	3	0	7—20

Chicago scoring — TDs: Galimore 3 (plunge; 8 run) 79 pass from Brown), Brown (2 run), Hill (13 pass from Brown). PAT: Blanda (4).

Green Bay scoring—TDs: Dillon (37 run with intercepted pass), Hornung (2 run). PAT: Hornung (2). FG: Hornung (2) (23, 30).

Spahn And Ford Are Likely Series Starters Wednesday

Wes Covington

ONE OF THE stars of the 1957 Series with his fielding, Wes Covington of the Braves is a native of Laurinburg, N. C., is 26 and started his pro career with Eau Claire in 1952. He broke in with the Braves in 1956 and hit 21 homers in '57, 24 this season. (Central Press)

Hank Bauer

AN 11-YEAR veteran of the Yankees, Henry Albert Bauer will be playing in his ninth World Series, has a career bat mark of .282 and a Series mark of .229. Born in St. Louis in 1922 Bauer broke into baseball with Oshkosh in 1941, spent four years in the service before majors. (Central Press)

Yankees Are 7-5 Favorites, Milwaukee Hopes To Repeat

Burdette's Hand OK; New Yorkers To Fly West Today

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Whitey Ford and Warren Spahn appeared the likely starters in Wednesday's World Series opener at County Stadium Sunday as the majors ended the regular season.

Ford tuned up with a brilliant one-hit effort in six innings Friday night against Baltimore. Manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees is expected to make the formal pronouncement on Ford after Monday morning's workout at Yankee Stadium.

Spahn Has 22 Wins

Spahn took his final trial spin for the big effort Saturday when he went six innings against Cincinnati, long enough to earn his 22d victory for the Milwaukee Braves.

There were some anxious moments Saturday when Lew Burdette, the Braves three-time winner of the 1957 series, went to the hospital for X-rays of his injured pitching hand. Lew was hit on the right hand by a line drive Friday night while en route to his 20th victory. However, the X-rays showed no serious damage.

Burdette said the lower part of the index finger was sore but it would not bother him in his pitching.

Manager Fred Haney of the Braves said he would announce his first game starter Monday morning before the club's workout.

Many of the Braves expect the series to be a short one. They recognize that the Yanks may be a little tougher with Mickey Mantle and Bill Skowron in good physical condition but they think Milwaukee is a better club than it was a year ago.

The Braves are confident, despite 7 to 5 odds favoring the Yanks. They are relaxed and imbued with the spirit of "We did it once. Why not again?"

Wes Covington, Milwaukee's slugging left fielder, is the only question mark in the line-up. Covington banged up his left knee in spring training and pulled a muscle in his right thigh Sept. 7. He has been used sparingly and gets as much rest as possible.

The Yanks have no injuries.

Before Sunday's games, Stengel had this to say about his club, which has been in a long second-half slump:

"If they ever put any spirit into it, if they ever run out a ball all their life, I hope they do it in the next seven days, if it goes that far."

Fly To Milwaukee

The Yanks will fly to Milwaukee Monday afternoon. They will drill at County Stadium Tuesday afternoon, following the Braves workout.

Hank Aaron

IN HIS FIFTH year with the Braves, Hank Aaron boasts a career batting mark of .313, is hitting way over .300 again and last year led the league in home runs with 44. He collected 11 hits in seven games in the 1957 Series. Born at Mobile, Ala., in 1934, he began his career with Eau Claire. (Central Press)

Mickey Mantle

POWER BOY of the Yankees, outfielder Mickey Mantle will be playing in his seventh World Series. In his eighth year as a Yankee, Mickey leads the American loop in homers, has a career mark of .316. Mantle, 26, was born at Spavinaw, Okla., and broke in with Independence in '49. (Central Press)

Ed Mathews

ONE OF THE power boys of the Braves, Edwin Lee Mathews will be playing in his second series. Born at Texarkana, Tex., October 13, 1931, Mathews broke into pro baseball in 1949 with High Point and moved to the Braves as a regular in 1952. He holds a career batting mark of .281 and sparkled as a fielder in '57 Series. (Central Press)

Marv Throneberry

A MINOR LEAGUE home run star, Marvin Eugene Throneberry, Yankee rookie infielder, just marked his 25th birthday and will be playing in his first Series. Born at Fisherville, Tenn., Marv started in the pro league in 1952 with Quincy and had a trial with the Yanks in 1955. He was with Denver the last two years. (Central Press)

Frank Torre

A .300 HITTER in his first World Series last year, Frank Torre, Braves' first baseman, has been in the majors only three years. Born in New York December 30, 1931, Torre broke in with Hartford in 1951 and has a two-year career bat mark of .268. (Central Press)

Duke Maas

A MINOR LEAGUE pitcher since 1949 with the exception of two years in the service, Duane Frederick Maas broke in with Detroit in 1955 and after winning 10 last year he was traded to Kansas City and this year to the Yanks. Born at Utica, Mich., he's making his first Series start. (Central Press)

Harry Hannebrink

A .290 batting average and 24 home runs with Wichita last year gave Harry Hannebrink, Braves infielder, a chance this year. He's from St. Louis, is 31 and will be in his first World Series. (Central Press)

Art Ditmar

FORMERLY with Kansas City, pitcher Art Ditmar came to Yanks in big trade early in 1957. He's 29, has been in majors five years and pitched six innings in the 1957 World Series. (Central Press)

Bob Buhl

ONE OF the star pitchers of the Braves in 1956-57, Bob Buhl hurled 3 1/3 innings in last Series. Born at Saginaw, Mich., he started pro ball with Madisonville in 1947, has had arm ailments. (Central Press)

Bobby Shantz

A 24-GAME winner with the Athletics in 1952, Bobby Shantz came to the Yanks early in 1957, had a 11-5 record for them last year. He got in three games in the 1957 Series. He's only 5'6" tall. (Central Press)

FROM Hudson, N. Y., pitcher Bob Trowbridge hurled one inning in the 1957 Series. He came to Braves from Wichita, after starting with Eau Claire in 1950. He spent three years in the service. (Central Press)

Norm Siebern

BORN at Wellston, Mo., Norman Leroy Siebern is one of the .300 hitters on the Yankees this year. He hit .349 for Denver last year. He was a pinch-hitter in the '57 Series between the two clubs. (Central Press)

Del Crandall

BORN in Ontario, Calif. March 5, 1930, Delmar Wesley Crandall, Braves' catcher, began his pro career with Leavenworth in 1948 and moved to Braves in 1949. He spent two years in the service and now is in eighth season. (Central Press)

Bill Skowron

A FORMER football star at Purdue, William Joseph (Moose) Skowron has spent five years with the Yanks after starting with Binghamton in 1951. This will be his fourth Series. He has a career mark of .314, a Series of .192. (Central Press)

Bill Bruton

INJURIES have cut into William Haron Bruton's major league career which spans six years but the Braves' outfielder still is a fine performer. Born at Panola, Ala., three days before Christmas in 1929, Bruton started with Eau Claire, moved to the Braves in 1953. This is his first Series. (Central Press)

Tony Kubek

ONLY 22, Anthony Christopher Kubek, Yankee infielder, will be playing in his second Series in his second year with the Yankees. Kubek, a native of Milwaukee, began his pro career with Owensboro in 1954, went to Quincy and Denver and moved into a starting spot with Yanks in '57. (Central Press)

Lew Burdette

HERO of the Braves' Series triumph last year, Selva Lewis Burdette, Jr., of Nitro, W. Va., began his career with Norfolk in 1947 as a 20-year-old pitcher. He had a trial with Yanks in 1950 and was sold to Braves in August, 1951. He beat Yanks three times. (Central Press)

Gil McDougald

KEY to the Yankee infield success, Gilbert James McDougald will be playing in his seventh World Series. Born in San Francisco May 19, 1928, Gil began his career with Twin Falls, came to the Yanks in 1951. He boasts a career mark of .285. (Central Press)

Red Schoendienst

ONE OF THE veterans of baseball, Albert (Red) Schoendienst, Braves' second sacker, will be playing in his third World Series. Schoendienst, who broke into baseball way back in 1942, jumped to the Cardinals in 1945 and was traded to the Giants in 1956. The next year he went to the Braves in a trade. This marks Red's 14th year in majors. (Central Press)

Whitey Ford

STAR SOUTHPAW hurler of the Yanks, Ed (Whitey) Ford will mark his 30th birthday after the Series, which will be his sixth appearance. Ford, born in New York City, started pro ball with Butler in 1947 and after three years in the minors he came to the Yanks. His career was interrupted by two years in the service. His Series record is 5-3. (Central Press)

Bob Rush

BORN at Battle Creek, Mich., just before Christmas in 1925, Bob Rush came to the Braves in a big deal last winter. A 10-year veteran with the Chicago Cubs, he is expected to get a Series starting assignment. Rush's overall mark before this year was 110 wins, 140 losses. (Central Press)

Enos Slaughter

THE OLD MAN of the Series, Enos Bradsher Slaughter, was 42 last April, has spent 18 years in the majors with the Cards, Kansas City and the Yankees. He has a career mark of .302, a Series batting mark of .303 and will be playing in his fifth Series, his third as a Yankee. (Central Press)

Carlton Willey

ONE OF the rookie stars of the year, Carlton Willey, a native of Cherryfield, Me., is now in his first season in the majors after five years in the minors. He started with Quebec in 1951, won 21 games for Wichita last year. He spent two years in the service. This is first Series. (Central Press)

Elston Howard

ONE OF THE fine all-around players in baseball, Elston Gene Howard was born in St. Louis February 23, 1929, started pro ball with Muskegon, spent two years in the service and broke in with the Yanks in 1955. He has a career mark of .267 and has been in three World Series. (Central Press)

Andy Pafko

NOW in his 18th year in pro baseball, 16 of them in the majors, Andy Pafko of the Braves will be playing in his fourth Series. Andy, born at Boyceville, Wis., February 25, 1921, broke into the majors with the Cubs in 1943, has a career mark of .288 and saw Series service with Cubs, Dodgers and Braves. (Central Press)

Don Larsen

HERO of the 1956 Series when he pitched a perfect game against the Dodgers, Donald James Larsen, Yankee hurler, will be participating in his fourth Series. A native of Michigan City, Ind., Larsen broke into pro ball with Aberdeen in 1947 and came to Yanks in a trade with Baltimore in 1954. (Central Press)

Juan Pizarro

ONLY 21 years old, Juan (Cordova) Pizarro saw less than two innings of World Series action last year. Pizarro, born at Santurce, Puerto Rico, is a southpaw pitcher for the Braves, the team he joined last year after just a year and a half in minors. (Central Press)

Ryne Duren

SPEEDBALLER Rinold George Duren, Jr., the Yankee fireman, began his pro career with Wausau in 1949 and has been with 12 different clubs, including Baltimore, Kansas City and the Yanks. Purchased by the Yanks last October, Duren is a righthander. (Central Press)

Johnny Logan

AN eight-year veteran with the Braves, Johnny Logan, 31, will be playing in his second World Series. Logan has a career mark of .278, came up through the Braves' farm system starting at Evansville in 1947. He was born at Endicott, N. Y., in 1931. (Central Press)

Yogi Berra

NO COMIC with the bat, Lawrence Peter (Yogi) Berra, Yankee catcher, already has played in 54 World Series games and will be setting new records. He started with Norfolk in 1943, spent two years in service and came to Yanks in 1946. Career mark is .290. (Central Press)

Del Rice

ANOTHER veteran of the big time, Delbert Rice, Braves' catcher, will be playing in his third Series. A 14-year veteran in the majors, Rice started in pro ball with Williamson in 1941, moved to the Cards in 1945. He has a career mark of .238 but hit .500 in 1946 Series with Cards. (Central Press)

Johnny Kucks

FROM Hoboken, N.J., John Charles Kucks, righthanded pitcher for the Yankees, will be playing in his fourth Series although he has been in pro ball only five years. He spent one season with Norfolk before going into the service and advanced to the Yankees, winning 18 in '56. (Central Press)

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Learn how to adjust your figure to current fashions.

The Heightened Waistline

Everything for fall is influenced by chemise or trapeze fit. The Empire line emerges most significant on both shapes. When it appears on the pyramid outline of the trapeze you have the Directoire. When the same high waist goes to the straighter hanging chemise — it's simply called the Empire.

Whatever happens — the bustline is definitely shaped and the waistline has been lifted to just under the bosom. The girl who is flat-chested should wear small pads inside a brassiere to give her a better curve. She'll find it truly amazing what this one little detail can do for her. And it's harmless deception — many models use it.

The waistline will make the highest marks at college. Jumpers, dresses and coats all confirm the high waisted look. For the office the empire-waist sophisticated jumper is a natural. A girl can have variety with as many changes as her wardrobe of blouses will allow.

One designer suggested that the new high waistline fashions "will look best if you inhale just before you make your grand entrance." That may have been said in fun — but seriously it means one thing: and that is, how important posture is with these new young fashions which make the curve of the higher rounded bosom important. Poor posture will certainly detract from the loveliness of your appearance — it gives you a hollow chest. For the bust, stand erect with good posture. Then swing the arms backward and forward, keeping the elbows straight. Now try to clap the hands in the back — then in the front as you swing. The front will be easy, but keep doing the back until you finally get there. Never cheat by bending the elbows. This will improve the bustline.

Somebody's Wrong

HAMPTON, Va. (AP)—Hampton Patrolman R. B. Robertson, investigating an accident in which one auto rammed the rear of another, was told by the driver of the front car "I was doing 40 m.p.h."

Then the driver of the second car, when questioned by Robertson, said he "was only going 38 m.p.h."

Goren On Bridge

Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠J 2 ♥A K 6 4 3 ♦7 5 ♣A K J 2

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 clubs	Pass	2 hearts	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. Although partner's bidding does not promise substantial values, one more try is indicated. His spade suit may develop enough discards to produce a game.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
♠A 6 ♥KQJ 10 6 5 3 ♦6 ♣AJ 8

East, your right hand opponent, has opened with one diamond. What is your bid?

A.—Double. This is the type of hand that was formerly described by a jump overcall. However that bid is now employed to show a hand containing a good suit with little high card strength. Since a mere overcall would be grossly inadequate it is necessary to double first and then bid an appropriate number of hearts on the next round.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
♠7 ♥K J 10 5 4 ♦Q 10 9 ♣Q J 10

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	3 hearts	Pass
5 hearts	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Although you have an absolute maximum raise, North's slam invitation must be declined for it is clear that the partnership is off two aces. North had a reasonable opportunity to show the ace of spades or the ace of clubs and his failure to do so is indication that he has neither.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
♠Q 10 2 ♥8 7 5 ♦K 7 5 4 3 ♣Q 10

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 heart	1 spade

What action do you take?

A.—Pass. Despite the fact that you have a spade stopper and have previously passed, you do not have sufficient for a free bid.

Q. 5—As South you hold:
♠K J 10 8 4 ♥K Q 8 2 ♦Q 6 4 ♣K

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	?

What is your response?

A.—Three hearts. Despite the fact that your hand is aceless and your partner has previously passed you should take further action. An effort should be made to steer the contract into a major suit. Our second choice would be three no trump. We would give no consideration to a pass.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
♠4 ♥A 6 2 ♦10 9 8 6 5 4 2 ♣6 3

The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
3 spades	Pass	4 spades	Double
Pass	?

What do you bid?

A.—Five diamonds. This is a safe and sound procedure. We would not accept the double because there is a grave danger that the contract would be fulfilled, particularly if partner has some high diamonds. Furthermore, it is not at all remote that a contract of five diamonds could be fulfilled. In any case, the loss from such action could hardly be serious.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
♠6 ♥8 5 3 ♦J 4 3 ♣A Q 10 9 6 4

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 spade	2 hearts

What action do you take?

A.—Pass. No thought should be given to a bid of three clubs. If your partner bids spades again you can then mention your suit.

Q. 8—As South you hold:
♠K Q J 7 3 ♥10 7 4 ♦9 5 3 ♣7 2

The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 diamond	Double	4 diamonds	?

What action do you take?

A.—Four spades. This involves slight risk but you cannot afford to be shut out. The bidding makes it clear that partner is very short in diamonds.

Local Man Sentenced For Parole Violation

William E. Mullenex, 412 South Cedar Street, was sentenced to six months in the County Jail Thursday after he was found guilty of violation of parole.

Mullenex was convicted recently of assaulting his wife, and was given a suspended sentence and placed on parole. He was arrected by City Police earlier this week for again assaulting his wife.

Magistrate Baron said Mullenex may be released from jail before the six months are up if he agrees to leave town.

Fletcher Christian was the leader of the mutiny on board the "Bounty" which sailed from England in 1787.

The complete yield of forty cashmere goats is required to produce enough material for one overcoat.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

QNVX YB LMBVIZ XOA FBBE EMV O LDILMAB, FDV O LOAANME—LMB.

Saturday's Cryptoquote: BEHOLD, THE BUSH BURNED WITH FIRE, AND THE BUSH WAS NOT CONSUMED—EXODUS.

County's Sales Tax Receipts Hit New High

Collections Up 7.96% From 1957

Allegany County apparently has weathered the 1958 recession better than most areas of Maryland, according to indications from retail sales tax collections.

Proceeds of the sales tax, generally taken as a barometer of business conditions, are outlined in the 11th annual report of the Retail Sales Tax Division of the office of the Comptroller of the Treasury, which has just become available.

The bulky report, showing collections through June 30, the end of the fiscal year, includes these facts:

—Allegany County's total sales tax collections of $1,262,526 represented a 7.96 per cent increase over the previous years collections of $1,169,395, and set a new high for this county.

—Allegany was one of 11 counties showing increases this year, but the Allegany County increase was far above the average of only 0.22 per cent in all the counties.

—Baltimore City, the District of Columbia, and 12 counties of Maryland had decreases in sales tax collections. Total collections in Maryland were $44,346,744.69, off 3.32 per cent from the previous year's collections of $45,867,449.61.

—Allegany County's contribution was sixth among Maryland's 23 counties, running behind Baltimore County, Montgomery, Prince Georges, Anne Arundel and Washington counties, in that order.

—Allegany County's total collections showed an increase for the sixth consecutive year. Washington County had an increase for the fourth consecutive year.

Up In 5 Categories

—This county had increased collections in five of the eight broad categories of business. Biggest gainer was the furniture and appliances group, up 37.72 per cent. Others were utilities and transportation, up 29.17 per cent; automotive and oil, up 19.97 per cent; miscellaneous, up 4.7 per cent, and food and beverages, up 0.61 per cent.

—In three other groups, Allegany County had these decreases: general merchandise, down 9.35 per cent; building and industrial supplies, down 8.51 per cent, and apparel, 1.80 per cent.

—Allegany County's totals topped Washington County's in five of the eight general categories, as shown in the table below:

Group	Allegany	Washington
Food & Beverage	$126,663.84	$112,826.98
Apparel	$102,744.24	$ 89,396.09
Gen. Merchandise	$331,128.00	$328,177.50
Furniture & Appl.	$197,611.18	$117,381.86
Utilities & Trans.	$136,489.28	$124,077.70

—In the three other categories, Washington County led, as shown in this table:

Group	Allegany	Washington
Automotive & Oil	$120,221.66	$251,310.90
Bldg. & Industrial	$113,800.23	$197,118.64
Miscellaneous	$ 91,620.03	$129,701.68

(Although Washington County's total collections of $1,363,862.40 topped Allegany's $1,262,526.51 by $101,335.89, the detailed report shows that aircraft dealers, of which Allegany County has none, contributed $155,152.59 to Washington County's collections in the automotive and oil companies category. Without this income, Washington County's collections would have been $1,208,709.81, or $53,816.70 below Allegany's).

Listed below are Allegany County's sales tax collections in the 11 years since the tax went into effect. The 1947-48 total includes only 11 months.

Year	Amount
1947-48	$ 922,237
1948-49	996,828
1949-50	892,190
1950-51	893,253
1951-52	816,957
1952-53	818,576
1953-54	825,400
1954-55	858,838
1955-56	1,006,169
1956-57	1,169,395
1957-58	1,262,527

Meanest Thief At Work Again?

City police are wondering if that elusive "meanest thief" is at work again.

St. Patrick's Catholic Church basement was broken into Saturday night, two poor boxes were pried open and an undetermined amount of money was taken.

Police said the basement door was forced to gain entrance, and although each box had two padlocks on it, both were opened and their contents removed.

Win FFA Soil Judging Event

Firemen Burn A House During Training Session

Some 125 area fire fighters attended a regional fire fighting school held yesterday in Corriganville.

Included were delegates from units of the Allegany-Garrett Volunteer Firemen's Association, the Cumberland Fire Department and the Hyndman and Hancock volunteer fire companies.

The school opened with a demonstration on pumping operations by Robert Smith, senior instructor for the Fire Service Extension of the University of Maryland.

Then the firemen were divided into classes for ladder evolution instructions by J. C. Robertson, of the fire service, assisted by Cromwell C. Zembower and George Comp Jr.

Also taught under the divided-class system was instruction on methods of fighting automobile fires. The class was taught on a lot at the rear of the Corriganville fire hall, where an automobile was spotted.

Burn Down Dwelling

Fuel oil fires on the vehicle were extinguished with fog under the direction of Robert C. Byrus, director of the fire service; Howard Springer, Havre de Grace, president of the Maryland State Volunteer Firemen's Association; Harry Devlin, chief of the Midland Fire Department, and Mr. Smith.

There were also demonstrations on the use of various nozzles, including one which maintains constant pressure with the use of various sprays.

The firemen broke off classes at 2:30 p. m. to go to the Ellerslie Road to participate in the burning of a two-story frame dwelling.

The abandoned building was used to demonstrate methods of stopping various kinds of fires, and then burned to the ground after the blaze had attracted several hundred spectators.

Plans for the fire school were in charge of Mr. Zembower, Mr. Comp and William A. Wilson. The Corriganville, LaVale and Midland companies furnished fire fighting equipment.

The school was sponsored by the Fire Service Extension of the U. of Md., the bi-county fire association and the Firemen's Training Committee of the state fire association.

Learn Fire Hazards

Some 45 women attended a school on fire hazards in the home, the second held in Maryland.

Featured were talks and demonstrations by Mr. Springer, Mr. Zembower and Mr. Byrus.

Also participating were Mrs. Elizabeth Zembower, president of the Ladies Auxiliary of the state association; Mrs. Frances Comp Jr., president of the Allegany-Garrett Auxiliary unit, and Mrs. Mary Alice Lare, Hampstead, state auxiliary vice president and chairman of its fire safety in the home committee.

Planned by the fire association this fall are an officers training program and fire schools in various fire units.

The officers program will begin in November at LaVale. It will consist of a three-hour lecture once a month for five months.

The fire schools will offer instruction in the basic, advanced and Class 3 courses.

Court House To Close On October 13

Monday, October 13, is going to be a lucky day for personnel at the Allegany County Court House since they will be given a holiday in observance of Columbus Day, October 12.

Joseph E. Boden, clerk of court, said yesterday the Court House closes on Monday if a legal holiday falls on Sunday.

The Monday closing will have no effect on the meeting of the Board of County Commissioners, as they meet regularly on Tuesday and Friday each week.

The holiday will occur during the interim between the convening of the October term of the grand jury, Monday, October 6 and the beginning of criminal trials scheduled on October 20.

Candidates List Routes

BALTIMORE (AP) — Here is the week's campaign itinerary for Maryland's major political candidates:

Beall — Monday, meeting at Bladensburg, 8 p. m., sponsored by Prince Georges County League of Women Voters; Tuesday, tour of Anne Arundel County; Wednesday, Cecil County; Thursday, Harford County; Friday, Carroll County; Saturday, Frederick luncheon, noon, sponsored by Western Maryland Republican Lawyers Club.

All statewide Democratic candidates — Monday, Caroline County; Tuesday, Harford County victory dinner, 7 p. m.; Wednesday, Kent County; Thursday, Frederick County and meeting at Elkton, Cecil County; Friday, Baltimore County; Saturday, Upper Marlboro luncheon, 1 p. m., Southern Maryland Democratic Women.

Devereux — Monday, Baltimore and Prince Georges County; Tuesday, Anne Arundel County; Wednesday, Cecil County; Thursday, Harford County; Friday, Carroll County; Saturday, Frederick luncheon, noon, and Allegany County.

Radio Class Will Begin

The first of a series of classes designed to help the beginner in short-wave radio communication will be held Thursday, October 2, by the Mountain Amateur Radio Club.

O. W. Smith, secretary, said last night the initial class will be held at 7 p.m. in the Civil Defense headquarters building in Constitution Park.

Code and theory instructions will be given which should enable the class member to pass the Federal Communications Commission examination for an amateur "novice" license.

Those who are interested in taking this first step in becoming a "ham" are invited to attend. Transportation to the park will be furnished from Browne's Store on Williams Street at 7 p.m.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting Mr. Smith at PA 4-0928.

Dr. van Strien Will Attend Health Forum

Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer, will represent the Allegany County Health Department at the fourth annual meeting of the Maryland Public Health Association in Baltimore Friday.

Guest speaker will be Dr. William R. Willard, vice president of the University of Kentucky and dean of its College of Medicine.

Jail Escapee Is Object Of Wide Search

Although West Virginia State Police have exhausted many leads without success, they are continuing an extensive manhunt for Roy Franklin Haines, 32, who escaped from Hampshire County Jail in Romney Saturday.

Police said alerts sent out in West Virginia, Maryland and Virginia failed to turn up any clues to the escaped prisoner's whereabouts. But they added that they are checking out new leads which have developed in the past 24 hours.

Road blocks placed throughout various sections of West Virginia also failed to produce information.

Police said Haines was being held in the Romney jail after being indicted by a Hampshire County grand jury for breaking and entering. He was arrested several weeks ago in connection with the breaking and entering at Tiny's Bargain Store on U. S. Route 50 east of Romney.

Haines made his escape Saturday by sawing through the bars on the door of the jail. Police believe the saw blades were slipped to the prisoner from a side window by an accomplice.

The jail-breaker is a native of Romney, but police said he has an extensive record in other states as well as West Virginia, serving prison terms in West Virginia and Massachusetts, and in the federal prison in Louisville.

He currently is on parole from Massachusetts, where he was paroled in July after serving seven years in prison there for armed robbery.

Haines is five feet, 11 inches tall, weighs 171 pounds and has brown hair and brown eyes. Police said he should be considered dangerous.

Farmers To Meet

A meeting of Allegany County farmers who are cooperators with the Soil Conservation Service office here has been tentatively set for October 8 at 8 p.m. in LaVale Fire Hall.

Joseph M. Steger, county farm agent, said final plans for the meeting, to be held in conjunction with Maryland Land Week, will be made Tuesday at 1 p.m. at his office in the Court House.

Rotary Will Meet

John J. Eisenhart of Baltimore will speak to the Cumberland Rotary Club on "Fighting Communism" at the club's luncheon meeting Tuesday at noon in Central YMCA.

Restaurant Survey Is Conducted

Allegany County will soon know how its eating and drinking establishments compare with standards set up by the State Health Department.

The county rating, which is expected within a few weeks, will be based on a survey conducted last week under the direction of John Meadows, supervisor of the State Health Department's restaurant program, assisted by county sanitarians.

Inspected during the survey last week were about 10 per cent of the 367 eating and drinking establishments.

Each of the 40 restaurants chosen in the spot check will be graded individually and results will be averaged to secure the county restaurant rating.

J. B. Dowling, chief sanitarian for the County Health Department, said the results of the survey will be published as soon as received from the State Health Department.

The survey was similar to annual checks made of the Cumberland milkshed.

PPG, Union To Resume Talks

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Negotiations for a new contract will resume Monday between the Glass Workers Union and representatives of Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., and Libbey-Owens-Ford.

Talks remained deadlocked Saturday. But a union spokesman said "some progress" had been made.

Negotiations began two weeks ago, and union and company officials had hoped for a settlement by last Thursday when the old contract expired.

The companies, which employ a total 25,000 workers, reportedly wanted three clauses knocked out of the "regulation of manpower" section of the contract. But the union wouldn't budge.

Sessions were held behind closed doors—both sides agreed in advance not to release any information until an accord was reached.

Flue Fire Put Out

Central Fire Company extinguished a flue fire last night at 220 Hay Street, answering the alarm shortly before 10 o'clock. Firemen returned to the station within 20 minutes and reported no damage.

Frazier Lake Dam To Be Closed Today

Gates will be closed today on the dam which will impound Frazier Lake in Evitts Creek just off Oldtown Road, James A. Avirett said last night.

The last section of the dam will be put into place by James Alfred Avirett Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Avirett, of Avirett Place.

The closing of this dam by the youngster has special historical significance, since the first dam ever constructed on Evitts Creek, known as Lake Gordon, the first link in the city's water supply, was closed by the late John W. Avirett, grandfather of James Alfred Jr.

It was about half a century ago when Lake Gordon was completed with the construction of Gordon dam. John W. Avirett was among the leading citizens who waged the campaign to build the city's water supply on Evitts Creek. He was selected to close the last gate of the dam so water could be impounded.

Lake Frazier, however, is constructed for an entirely different purpose and on a smaller scale. It is the central part of a new recreation area being built near the city by James A. Avirett Sr., and his brother, John Avirett of Baltimore.

The lake will impound about eight acres of water to a depth of three to seven feet deep. In the winter it will be used for ice skating and possibly ice boating and other ice sports. In the summer it will be used for fishing, swimming, sailboating, canoeing and row boating. No motor boats will be permitted.

The lake will include three islands, the largest to be named Bradley Island.

The lake is in the area where Jane Frazier, one of the earliest settlers, was captured by Indians. A handyman who worked for her family was accompanying her to town when the attack occurred. History records him as "Handyman" Bradley. He was killed trying to protect Jane Frazier. The Aviretts have decided to name this island in his memory.

Plans had been made to move the old Jane Frazier house to a site overlooking the lake and convert it into a lodge. However, the house was destroyed by fire recently, and firemen were able to save only a few of the original logs.

Mr. Avirett said these logs and some salvaged from the old Wolf farm property on Baltimore Pike will be used to reconstruct a replica of the Jane Frazier house, thereby retaining some of the historical significance of the location.

Work on the dam and the adjacent picnic and recreation area has been done by George Construction Company, and the excavation was completed by Hout Construction Company and S. T. Brotemarkle Company.

After the lake is filled and the area completed a formal dedication and formal opening of the new recreation area is planned.

Meet The Candidates

In an effort to help Allegany County voters learn more about those county candidates who have opposition in the November 4 general election, the Times-News papers today begin a series of articles about the candidates of both parties. The candidates will be presented in alphabetical order.

THOMAS N. BERRY

Delegate Thomas N. Berry, local attorney, will be one of the six Republican candidates for House of Delegates.

He was appointed to the House of Delegates last August to fill the unexpired term of the late George F. S. Jeffrey.

A native of Cumberland, he is a son of Mrs. Mabel Myers Berry and the late Peter E. Berry, who came here from Virginia in 1905 to build the Klotz silk mill on Gay Street and later built his own mill here in 1915.

Del. Berry graduated from Allegany High School in 1932, Mercersburg Academy in 1934, received an A.B. degree from Washington and Lee University in 1938 and and LL. B. degree from the University of Maryland in 1940.

He worked for 27 months in the rolling mill and open hearth furnaces of Sparrows Point while attending the University of Maryland.

The local attorney served as a special agent for the Federal Bureau of Investigation from 1940 to 1948. His duties were primarily in the espionage section, first in Seattle and Los Angeles on Japanese and German cases, and later in Washington and New York on German and Russian espionage work.

He is a member of the bar in Maryland and New York.

In 1948, Mr. Berry returned here to practice with the law firm of Capper and Jenkins.

He is a former vestryman of Emmanuel Episcopal Church and is currently serving as register of the parish. He is a past president of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club and is voluntary counsel of several area sportsmen's organizations.

His principal hobby is purebred English setters and he has shown his dogs in major shows in the East.

Delegate Berry lives at 15 North Allegany Street with his wife, Mrs. Dorothea H. Berry.

Four Injured In Car Wreck

Four persons were injured in a one-car accident on U. S. Route 50 at Capon Bridge early yesterday morning when their automobile struck a large tree after failing to round a sharp curve.

Admitted to Memorial Hospital in Winchester, Va., were Eula Della Murphy, North Avenue, Baltimore, with a possible fracture of the ribs, fracture of the left leg and right arm; Ulysses Murphy, Baltimore, fractured right leg and lacerated forehead; Julius Murphy, Brooklyn, N. Y., severe lacerations of forehead, and Gorman Murphy, Baltimore, abrasions of the forehead.

West Virginia State Police at Romney said the automobile was traveling west on U. S. Route 50 when it missed the curve at the eastern entrance of Capon Bridge.

The vehicle smashed into a large maple tree to the side of the road, and was torn apart. The car was termed a total loss by the investigating officers.

The accident occurred about 3:45 a. m., officers said. No charges have been filed pending completion of the investigation.

Artificial Breeders To Elect Officers

The Artificial Breeders Cooperative of Allegany County will elect officers and directors for the coming year during a meeting October 9 at 8 p. m. in the office of Joseph M. Steger, county farm agent, at the Court House.

John T. Mason, president, said Gene Weaver, field man of the Maryland Artificial Breeders Cooperative, will show a number of slides of some of the offspring, and bulls used in the program.

Richard Saeke, dairy specialist of the University of Maryland, will speak on breeding efficiency and causes of not getting peak efficiency.

Tidelands Oil Issue Grows In Senate Race

D'Alesandro Admits He Backed Measure

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The tidelands oil issue between Maryland's two nominees for U.S. Senate swelled to new proportions during the weekend.

Democratic candidate Thomas D'Alesandro, Baltimore mayor, has spent much of his campaign criticizing Republican Sen. J. Glenn Beall for voting in favor of the legislation in Congress.

Saturday, Beall hit back at the mayor, accusing him of "a flagrant and willful falsification of his position on this issue." He added:

"In my hand at this moment, is a copy of a letter from Mayor D'Alesandro himself in which he not only showed that he was in agreement with me on this vital matter but even urged me to do everything in my power to support it in the Congress."

The statement was issued by his Baltimore campaign headquarters as Beall himself toured Garrett County in Western Maryland. Attached to it was a three-page reproduction of a letter bearing the Baltimore City seal, the mayor's letterhead and a signature, "Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro Jr."

The tidelands legislation confirmed the rights of states to oil deposits under their offshore lands.

"Yes, today, Mr. D'Alesandro condemns me violently," said Sen. Beall, "for voting in favor of the same bills he once urged me to do everything in my power to support. I leave it to you to be the judge of who is right, who is honest, and who is sincere in this case."

D'Alesandro Didn't Know

D'Alesandro quickly replied:

"It is true that in 1952 I urged passage of tideland legislation in the belief that it was necessary for the protection of certain waterfront assets of the City of Baltimore.

"However, at that time I had no knowledge of the widespread abuses to which this legislation would lead."

D'Alesandro, campaigning through Worcester County with other statewide Democratic candidates, also said that Beall was "an ineffective senator."

"What he knows, if anything, about the great national and international issues that are debated on the floor of the Senate, is largely a mystery," D'Alesandro said of Beall. "He never takes the floor himself to debate anything or to explain anything, or to say anything on any subject..."

Democrats On Shore

With the Baltimore mayor on the Eastern Shore were Comptroller J. Millard Tawes, nominee for governor; Atty. Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert, running for re-election, and Senate President Louis L. Goldstein, nominee for comptroller.

Shepherding the group through Worcester County was Thomas F. Johnson, former state senator from Worcester. The group visited Stockton, Girdletree, Snow Hill and Ocean City before attending a Saturday night bull roast in Berlin.

The only major candidates active Sunday were Tawes and Rep. James P. S. Devereux, opponents for the gubernatorial nomination.

Devereux scheduled a Sabbath appearance in Anne Arundel County and he and Tawes were to debate the issues Sunday night over Station WJZ in Baltimore.

Beall Baltimore-Bound

Beall was en route from Western Maryland to Baltimore and the other Democrats took Sunday off.

Devereux said Tawes had used "Hitler's big lie technique" in contending that Devereux voted against federal aid for retarded children. The former Marine Corps general called it an "utter untruth" and added:

"These unfortunates—and their families — had my all-out help all the way. The White House will be glad to tell Harmony Hall and its minions that I even telegraphed President Eisenhower himself, urging his aid in pushing this assistance through Congress."

With Beall and Devereux in Garrett County were Robert A. Wallace, GOP nominee for attorney general, and John A. Derr, candidate for comptroller.

Plumbers To Meet

Local 489, Plumbers and Steamfitters Union, will meet Friday at 8 p. m. in the Allegany Labor Temple, according to Charles L. Cross, business agent.

City To Create Asst. Engineer Positions Today

Health Board May Be Reactivated

The Mayor and Council this morning is expected to act on an order setting forth the duties of the city engineer and assistant city engineers.

The action will be taken to follow through on a recent letter to the Civil Service Commission, asking it to conduct examinations for two assistant city engineers.

The commission pointed out, however, that it cannot give examinations for a position until it is created.

Today's order, a spokesman said, will serve to create the positions but does not mean they are going to be filled in the near future.

The openings will be created by amending two sections in the city code relating to the position of city engineer.

Also scheduled today is the reactivation of the City Board of Health.

This will consist of the appointment of three members and a secretary of the board, all serving without compensation.

The board is being appointed to allow the Allegany County Health Department to make use of city health laws in a complaint concerning unsanitary conditions in a West Side home.

A spokesman for the county health unit said Circuit Court action under less stringent state health laws would be too time consuming.

Lull Marks Garrett County Court Trials

Only a civil case to be tried before a jury on Thursday breaks a lull in the September term of Garrett County Circuit Court this week, court officials said yesterday.

No criminal trials have been docketed this week although there are several of an important nature still to be heard in the court.

The one with the most local interest is the trial of W. Ewald Ruehl, former Cumberland resident who is charged with receiving stolen goods. The state allowed a request for a postponement of the case by defense attorneys at least until next week, court attaches said.

The charge against Mr. Ruehl stems from the safecracking burglary at the home of Lee A. Green, LaVale, in October of 1949 when $17,500 in cash was stolen. He will be tried before the court and not by a jury.

Another hearing will be a retrial of the Proctor-Kildow Post, American Legion, on a charge of keeping liquor for sale on the premises. Beer only is permitted for sale in Garrett County.

This case was tried in the March term of court but resulted in a hung jury. Thomas B. Finan of Cumberland is attorney for the Legion post.

Other cases include several morals charges against James Sharpless and a morals charge which faces Erwin Hammond, both of whom appeared in Trial Magistrates Court.

Court officials said last night that two counts of assault against Robert Kemp have been dismissed.

Former Local Man Heads Building Job

A former local man is superintendent in charge of construction of the first national headquarters building of Protestant and Orthodox churches which is being built in New York City.

Spencer Rossell, formerly of 435 Williams Street, is supervising the 20 million dollar project which is expected to be completed in December 1959.

Construction on the 19-story building was started last November and the cornerstone laying ceremonies will be held October 13.

Mr. Rossell also was formerly associated with Golden Rossell Orchards at Picardy.

Births

Major and Mrs. Elmo Gower, Silver Spring, announce the birth of a daughter Saturday at Providence Hospital in Washington. The mother is the former Miss Thelma Hunter of Apollo, Pa. The father is a former resident of Ridgeley and Cumberland.

Memorial Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy R. Troutman, Wellersburg, Pa., a son last night.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald D. Robinette, Flintstone, a daughter yesterday.

Private School Plan Court Test Set For Today

Little Rock Group Labors To Begin Classes Quickly After Vote Victory

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Authorities labored Sunday to open Little Rock's four high schools quickly, but their efforts to begin segregated classes ran head on into a new court crisis.

The court move could result in further delay in sending students back to classes.

Action to open the schools under a private lease plan began even before final results were known in Saturday's clear-cut, 2½-1 referendum victory by segregation advocates.

But the private school plan will be attacked Monday morning in Omaha, Neb. There a two-judge federal court will hear an injunction plea seeking to stop the Little Rock School Board from leasing its properties to a private corporation.

It appeared the four schools, with their enrollment of 3,698 before transfers began, cannot open Monday because the lease still is being negotiated. But the negotiators pledged all possible speed.

"We will be working all day on this thing," said Dr. T. J. Raney, president of the corporation organized to operate the high schools as private, segregated institutions.

Problems of transfer of administration "Are numerous and complex," a joint statement from the school board and the corporation said. The statement did not detail the snags, if any, the groups have met.

Classes originally were scheduled to begin four weeks ago. They were delayed pending court decisions and an opening date of Sept. 15 set.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus then closed them before they opened. He said he acted to prevent the same kind of violence that occurred at Central High School last fall. The U.S. Supreme Court had denied a plea that integration be delayed.

The petition for an injunction against the lease plan was filed with the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals by Wiley Branton, an attorney for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

His petition also asks that the court prevent any transfer of school properties without court approval. It also asked that Negroes be admitted to any private school converted from a public school if the court should approve the Little Rock lease plan.

Adenauer Party Picks Up 8 Seats In State Election

KIEL, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democratic Union scored a convincing victory Sunday night in parliamentary elections in Schlewsig - Holstein, West Germany's northernmost state. But the Christian Democrats fell two seats short of winning an absolute majority in the 69-member body.

Adenauer's party won 33 seats, a net gain of 8 from its total in 1954. The Socialists, the only strong opposition, won 26 seats, a net gain of 1.

All told, Adenauer's Christian Christian Democrats won 44.4 per cent of the popular vote, the Socialists 35.9 per cent.

The campaign was waged mostly on domestic issues.

Chou Hurls New Threats At U.S.

TOKYO (UPI)—Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai issued new threats against the United States Sunday but said he still held out hope for a negotiated settlement of the Formosa Strait crisis.

Peiping's New China News Agency reported Chou made his statements at a banquet for "foreign experts" in Peiping to help celebrate National Day Oct. 1.

Chou said that "if the U.S. imperialists insist on provoking war" over Quemoy and Matsu, then the whole Communist world "will definitely bring the U.S. imperialist aggressive action to final and complete disaster."

But he followed this with a statement saying the Communist Chinese "also do not give up their efforts to find a solution to the disputes between China and the United States through peaceful negotiations."

At the same time. Red China's Peiping Daily accused the United States of "deadlocking" the talks in Warsaw between U.S. Ambassador Jacob Beam and Red Chinese Ambassador Wang Ping-nan.

It described the U.S. proposal for a cease-fire as "absurd" and a "premeditated step in the U.S. war plan."

Senator Urges Nixon's Charge Get Full Airing

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) called Sunday for a full airing of Vice President Richard M. Nixon's charge that a State Department subordinate was trying to "sabotage" Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' China policy.

O'Mahoney, a critic of the administration's Quemoy - Formosa policy, said the public "is entitled to a complete exposure of the vice president's allegations."

Nixon said in a statement Saturday that he was "shocked" because someone in the State Department had told a New York Times reporter that 80 per cent of the mail reaching the department opposed the administration's decision to defend the Quemoy and Matsu islands.

Nixon accused an unnamed "State Department subordinate" of a "patent and deliberate effort" to "undercut the secretary of state and sabotage his policy" by giving out such information.

Dulles said Sunday on his return from a Boston speech that he did not consider the fact that the mail was running against the department "too significant."

Aid Debate Recalled

He recalled that during the congressional fight over foreign aid public mail ran about 10 to 1 against continuing the aid program. But he said the administration fought for it because it considered the program vital.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.), also a critic of the Quemoy policy, defended the State Department sources, who made the information available. Clark said the people "are entitled to know how others in the nation feel about the Formosa policy." He said Nixon was "off base again."

"It appears that, from the figures released, the American people are a lot smarter than Mr. Dulles," Clark said. "I am frightened that if Mr. Dulles is left to his own devices, he will get us into a useless war."

Big Cleanup Task Is Left By Hurricane

Helene Breaking Up After Brushing N.C. Coast; No Lives Lost

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina coastal residents struggled to restore essential services Sunday in their hurricane-battered area.

Hurricane Helene was gone — moved some 400 miles out into the Atlantic and breaking up, the Weather Bureau said. Left behind the vicious storm, which had winds up to 135 miles an hour, were tangled communication lines, felled power circuits, blocked highways, chopped up beaches and smashed dwellings. Some beach communities had no drinking water. State and local officials strove mightily to bring order out of chaos.

No Loss Of Life

Most agreed it could have been much worse. Instead of smashing head on into the coast, Helene swerved seaward and moved parallel toward the northeast. So only one side of the big storm struck the mainland. Frequently the after half of a hurricane is the most destructive.

Fortunately, too, the wind direction held off the 10-foot or more above normal storm tides which had been predicted.

No loss of life was reported as Weather Bureau warnings had caused the evacuation of most exposed beach areas.

Still, the whining wind and 25-foot waves caused uncounted damage.

Coast Warnings Down

Southport, about 30 miles south of here, caught the brunt of Helene. Reports from there indicate damage may be greater than Hurricane Hazel in 1954.

Capt. Williams estimated damage at Southport between ½ and 3-4 million dollars.

With all coastal hurricane warnings down, the U.S. Weather Bureau in Washington said that winds "have decreased over coastal sections of North Carolina and late reports from Cape Hatteras show north-northwest 20 m.p.h. gusts up to 30 m.p.h." The bureau also said tides have returned to normal along the coast with only a few places reporting tides a foot or two above normal.

More Supplies Reach Quemoy

QUEMOY CITY, Big Quemoy Island (UPI)—Nationalist Chinese landing barges broke through to Quemoy with new supplies Sunday. But civilians on Big and Little Quemoy reported their food stocks were running alarmingly low.

Big Nationalist LST's sent more supplies ashore in the small amphibious LVT's Sunday and the Communists did not fire a single shot while they were in the water.

But when they hit Liao Lu beach, the Red guns opened up a light barrage. None of the tracked vehicles appeared to have been hit.

Sunday's supply convoy was the fourth to reach Big Quemoy in three ays, raising hopes that the Nationalists can keep at least the minimum amount of supplies flowing to the beleaguered island group.

Transport planes also dropped supplies on the island early in the morning.

Too Late

With fleet air arm pilot Comdr. John Desmond Russell in the cockpit, a Scimitar jet fighter sinks into the English Channel before the rescuer being lowered by a Royal Navy helicopter can reach him. The pilot drowned. The jet snapped through a braking wire on the newly-commissioned carrier Victorious, plunging into the channel.

Last U.S. Marine Battalion Packs To Quit Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The last U.S. Marine battalion in Lebanon began loading up Sunday for departure. When it leaves, within a few days, only about 7,500 U.S. Army personnel will remain in this country.

The 1,500 men of the 3rd Battalion, 6th Marine Regiment began piling equipment aboard four ships in Beirut's dock area. Under the command of Lt. Col. Robert M. Jenkins of Des Moines, Iowa, they will sail into the Mediterranean and rejoin the U.S. 6th Fleet.

The Marines, who came to Lebanon July 15, were preparing to leave as Lebanese rebels tore down barricades that had blockaded Beirut's streets since last May. But there still was trouble brewing in the Phalange section of the city. Government security forces withdrew from that area after an exchange of gunfire. Phalangists are opposed to the new Lebanese regime of President Fuad Chehab and Premier Hashid Karami.

(In Moscow, the government newspaper Izvestia accused the United States of ordering its ambassador to Lebanon, Robert McClintock, to take measures to prevent the formation of a new government which would demand the immediate withdrawal of U.S. forces.)

Marines started pulling out of Lebanon on Aug. 14. That was a rifle company. Then on Sept. 16, two battalions sailed back to the United States.

The Army has announced that 500 engineer personnel already have flown back to Germany and other Army men were boarding U.S. C130 transport planes at Beirut Sunday. The Army declined to say how many were involved in this operation.

Honeymoon Cut Short As Bride Returns To Dog

HEREFORD, England (UPI)—Maureen Prece, 21, cut short her honeymoon after four days and came home—to her dog.

Maureen left her dachshund, Otto, with her mother when she went to Wales on a honeymoon with husband Ron, 27.

Every day she phoned her mother to ask how Otto was. Her mother reported that Otto refused to eat or drink. He just crawled into a cupboard and whined.

On the fourth day Maureen's mother told her: "Otto is dying of a broken heart."

Maureen and Ron hurried home. Otto bounced from his cupboard to greet them. He immediately ate his first meal for four days.

Sunday Ron said: "All the time I was courting Maureen, Otto wouldn't let her out of his sight.

"Once I felt I could shoot him. But I never thought he could have ruined my honeymoon."

But Ron said he is resigned to the fact that Otto is a member of the family.

Adams Loses Place In Social Register

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sherman Adams has lost out in another place—Washington's social register.

His name was omitted from the newly issued social list of Washington, known as the Green Book.

Mrs. Carolyn Hagner Shaw, publisher of the Green Book, said names are dropped for several reasons—public notoriety, failure to answer the publisher's questionnaire, and, of course, if the person moves from Washington.

Jap Typhoon Toll Mounts; 337 Dead, 1,048 Missing

TOKYO (UPI) — Floodwaters caused by a 100 - m.p.h. typhoon receded from wide areas of central and northern Japan Sunday, leaving hundreds dead and more than a thousand missing in the worst storm to hit the country since 1934.

Police casualty figures, still incomplete, showed 337 persons known dead and 1,048 missing, with 507 persons injured and more than half a million homeless. There were no reported American casualties.

The worst previous storm was a 1934 typhoon which killed 2,700 persons.

Floods and landslides triggered by the rains that accompanied Typhoon Ida Friday and Saturday caused most of the casualties and damage.

The hardest - hit area was the picturesque Izu Peninsula 50 miles southwest of Tokyo which was turned into a series of raging rivers by a 20-inch rainfall. Most of the dead and missing were in the Izu area.

Typhoon Ida, its fury broken by the Japanese coastal mountains, was headed toward southwestern Hokkaido, northernmost of the Japanese main islands. But weathermen said it now was only a weak low pressure area, and no longer packed a lethal punch.

U. S. officials contributed aid to stricken areas.

The U. S. Navy LST Summer County, caught in the path of the storm Friday, berthed safely at Yokosuka Saturday night after riding out mountainous waves and high winds for more than 40 hours. There were no casualties among the 100-man crew.

Rio Grande On One Of Worst Rampages

PRESIDIO, Tex. (AP)—The Rio Grande, on one of its worst rampages in recorded history, Sunday washed out railroad tracks, swept over the International Bridge, and isolated one small community along the Mexican border.

Heavy rains continued falling around Presidio Sunday morning after overnight downpours. During the night the river rose three feet to exceed by one foot the high of the disastrous 1932 flood.

The Rio Grande, which forms the Texas-Mexico boundary, can handle only four feet of water in its Presidio banks. Now over 17 feet deep, the muddy flood waters, 3 to 4 miles wide, have washed out a number of adobe homes, and cut off railroads and highways.

Deadline For Strike At GM Moved Back

Big Auto Union Orders Wildcat Walkouts Ended

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers Union has postponed a Tuesday strike deadline against General Motors Corp. until Thursday and ordered 45,000 persons idled at GM plants by wildcat work stoppages back to their jobs.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther's surprise move came shortly after GM and UAW negotiators began an unusual Sunday bargaining session.

Reuther notified General Motors the union would recess its striving for a new contract to cover the company's 250,000 UAW members until Tuesday so that it could devote full attention to getting GM plants back to normal.

Reuther To Join Chrysler Talks

The UAW chief said he would join new contract talks at Chrysler Monday, but would switch back to GM Thursday. Bargaining continued Sunday at Chrysler, where Reuther said "there are many fewer problems than at GM."

The union and Ford reached a three-year agreement Sept. 13.

More than 20 GM plants across the nation were closed by wildcat strikes or shut down because the strikes resulted in parts shortages last week as workers stayed off jobs to support UAW demands for quick agreement on a new contract.

Reuther said, "We have made it clear that these people who thought they were helpful really are hurting us and we are confident they will see the wisdom of all GM workers going back to work so we can negotiate in a more peaceful climate."

GM Hails Union Move

Louis G. Seaton, GM vice president, hailed the union move as "a very good thing." He added: "We're glad to know the union is going to make every effort to cut off those hit-and-run strikes which have cost our workers millions of dollars in wages."

Asked if GM had served notice on the UAW it would not continue negotiations while wildcat strikes were in effect, Seaton said, "We did not."

Like GM, trying to get 1959 model production into full throttle, Chrysler has experienced a series of wildcat walkouts. So has Ford, despite its new agreement.

Chrysler estimated 21,000 were idled by strikes in its plants last week. Ford estimated its idle at 33,000 and said it would not open 13 assembly plants Monday pending a return to normal production in parts plants.

Cigaret Smoking Due To Hit New High This Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cigaret smoking is expected to set a new record this year.

The Agriculture Department said Sunday in a report on the tobacco situation that domestic consumption this year is expected to total 424 billion cigarets—3.5 per cent more than in 1957 and 22 per cent more than 10 years ago.

The agency predicted further increase in 1959. In a similar report last June the department said the increase in cigaret consumption largely reflects an increase in the number of persons of smoking age and a continuing trend toward filter-tip cigarets.

Key Provisions Of De Gaulle Constitution

PARIS (AP)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle's constitution for a Fifth Republic provides for:

1. A much stronger president, elected for seven years by an enlarged electoral body. He could "take measures demanded by the circumstances" in case of grave emergencies. He may also dissolve Parliament in case of a conflict with the government.

2. A premier appointed by the president, but responsible to Parliament.

3. A two-house Parliament with its prerogatives and ability to unseat the premier sharply trimmed.

4. A "community of nations" including most French overseas territories which approved the constitution and desire to join. (French possessions which reject the constitution get immediate freedom, De Gaulle has promised.)

5. A constitutional council to interpret the constitution in somewhat the same fashion as the U.S. Supreme Court.

The constitution makes no specific provisions for rebelling Algeria, but De Gaulle is to spell out Algeria's future after the referendum.

Algeria Rebels Free Kidnaped U.S. Missionary

ALGIERS (AP) — An American Methodist missionary kidnaped Aug. 18 by Algerian nationalist rebels has been released in good health, U.S. consulate officials announced Sunday.

They said the Rev. Lester Griffith was set free Saturday night at Mekhta, 20 miles east of Tizi-Ouzou in the rebel stronghold area in the Grand Kabylie Mountains.

The officials gave no further details, saying they wanted "to give Mr. Griffith some rest after his ordeal."

He was released while voting was going on in Algeria on the new French constitution and the area where he was turned loose was thick with French troops guarding polling places.

The missionary was kidnaped while driving through the Kabylie Mountains, east of Algiers.

Griffith, an Ohioan attached to the American Methodist mission in North Africa since 1953, was sponsored in his post by the Raleigh, N.C., Methodist church.

His wife Janice and their three children lived in an Algiers suburb.

The 33-year-old missionary formerly lived in East Cleveland, Ohio, and attended Miami (Ohio) University, the theological school of Vanderbilt University and the Kennedy School of Missions in Hartford, Conn.

He maintained a missionary center at Fort National, in the center of the Algerian rebel area about 90 miles east of Algiers.

Cuban Rebels Plan "Great Offensive"

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Cuban rebels declared Sunday they are preparing "a great offensive for liberty" to topple President Fulgencio Batista.

The announcement was made in the latest issue of Revolucion, an eight-page, phamplet-size newspaper clandestinely circulated in Havana. It is the official organ of Fidel Castro's revolutionary movement.

'Strong Man' Reforms Get 80% Of Vote

French Premier Scores Sweeping Personal Victory

PARIS (UPI) — France swept away its feeble, crisis - ridden Fourth Republic early Monday in an historic landslide confidence vote for Premier Charles de Gaulle and his "strongman" constitution.

The vote of approximately 80 per cent for De Gaulle and the massive polling turnout in France, revolt-torn Algeria and the French overseas territories exceeded all predictions and the highest hopes of his aides.

Minister of Interior Emile Pelletier called it a "great victory for De Gaulle and an overwhelming defeat for the Communists" who had opposed De Gaulle.

The interior ministry announced early Monday that with about four-fifths of the vote counted there were 16,136,875 votes in favor of the constitution and 3,920,170 against.

From the moment the vote-counting started the result never was in the slightest doubt. From towns and villages all over the country the results were almost the same—70 per cent "oui" in some place, 75 per cent in others, and as much as 80 to 85 per cent in still other areas.

See Victory Early

De Gaulle was convinced early of his victory. He telephoned his aides in Paris from his home at Colombey-les-deux-Eglise at 11 p.m. (6 p.m. e.d.t.) that he was going to bed.

In the torrent of "oui" ballots, the voters:

—Consigned to limbo the impotent Fourth Republic with its 12-year history of 24 weak governments and repeated political crises that brought the nation to the brink of civil war.

—Ushered in the Fifth Republic with a constitution designed specifically by De Gaulle to give France a strong, effective regime at last.

—Recorded their overwhelming confidence in the 68-year-old former Free French leader.

France still has to hold parliamentary general elections in November to eject a new president —who could only be De Gaulle— before the Fifth Republic becomes a fact.

Th high Algerian vote for the constitution was expected to pave the way for a possible solution to the four-year-old rebellion. The Algerians were not affected by the new constitution and their vote was taken as a overwhelming tribute to De Gaulle.

The government announced early Monday that the percentage of yes votes in Algeria was 97 per cent in the districts already counted—less than 10 per cent of the total.

Women Cast Votes

Minister of Information Jacques Soustelle, who masterminded the government's campaign, said the most important feature of the Algerian vote was the big vote by Moslem women, who cast ballots for the first time in Algerian history.

The Algerian voting was marked by a flareup of violence that left seven persons dead in three incidents but the rebels failed in their attempts to hold down the vote.

In France, opposition came chiefly from the Communists who campaigned hard and relentlessly to get the constitution rejected.

But they failed humiliatingly. Their defeat was all the more effective because traditionally "Red" areas swung heavily behind De Gaulle.

The official Communist Party organ Humanite tried hard to swallow its disappointment with the banner headline "Strong opposition to dictatorship. Millions of Frenchmen say "non."

Other newspapers bannered 80 per cent vote in favor of the constitution.

Eisenhower's Chances Of Electing GOP Candidates Believed Problematical

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's chances of electing Republican candidates in his forthcoming foray into active campaigning have been marked as less than even by some of his own party followers.

Eisenhower's three announced speaking dates Oct. 20-22 will take him into Far West and Midwest areas where Republican candidates for Senate and governor are in serious trouble. Whether the President can rescue any of them is regarded as problematical.

In speeches in Los Angeles and San Francisco, Eisenhower will be plugging for GOP Sen. William F. Knowland, running for governor, and Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, seeking Knowland's Senate seat. It apparently will take something of a political upheaval to lift Knowland and Knight to victory.

A subsequent Chicago speech presumably will be televised into Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin. GOP Senate seats are endangered in the first three of these, with a Republican being given a fighting chance to knock off a Senate Democrat in Wisconsin.

Republicans expect to hold the governorship in Wisconsin but have scant hopes of overturning Democratic governors in Michigan and Minnesota.

GOP strategists are well aware that Eisenhower will carry into the campaign liabilities that seem likely to offset in part the personal popularity he has demonstrated in the past.

Democratic criticism of the President's handling of the Formosa crisis has increased recently. It evidently is based on the opposition's belief that the people are uneasy about U.S. commitments in the area and what they might lead to.

Vice President Richard Nixon said Saturday he was shocked by news reports that mail received by the State Department has been heavily critical of American policy in the Formosa situation.

Nixon attributed the reports to a deliberate effort by an unidentified State Department subordinate to "undercut the secretary of state and sabotage his policy."

The vice president said he was confident the American people will support administration policy as they come to realize what is at stake.

If there is no easing of tensions, Eisenhower could hardly discuss the situation with any freedom in a political speech. Nor, under present circumstances, is there much he could say about the continued presence of U.S. troops in Lebanon.

Rail Crossing Crash Claims Three Lives

HAMMOND, Ind. (AP)—A small foreign auto carrying four persons darted into the path of a freight train Saturday night. Three of the four were killed in what police described as "an accident that shouldn't have happened."

The fourth passenger, asleep in the back seat at the moment of impact, was seriously injured.

Killed were Miss Florence Dippold, 23, believed to be the driver, of Hinsdale, Ill.; Miss Edith Sutton, 19, of Holly, Mich., and Daniel Phillips, 24, of Jackson, Mich. Miss Lois Bray, 21, of Lebanon, Ind., was listed in fair condition in a Hammond hospital.

Police said the train was clearly visible from the approach to the crossing and that red warning signals were flashing.

Brucker Declares Blockade Of Quemoy Has Been Licked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker said Sunday he did not believe the "military capture of Quemoy is possible" by the Chinese Communists.

Brucker, just back from a Far East tour also said the blockade of Quemoy has been licked and predicted that within two weeks supplies would be getting to the beleaguered Nationalist island in abundance daily.

Brucker predicted that the blockade "can and will be broken without any question in my mind." He said the military capture of the island would be "disastrous to all the free world." He said "It is very important for Quemoy to resist aggression."

Brucker conceded on a television program (NBC—Meet the Press) that he was not sure the United States has done all that it could to keep the Reds from taking the island. But, he said, "we are doing more."

He said this country was giving the Nationalist Chinese its "know how" on breaking the blockade and also "we are feeding them more equipment."

But new Nationalist Ambassador George Yeh said his country lacks "certain weapons" necessary to silence the Red artillery which has been battering Quemoy.

Yeh, who will present his credentials to President Eisenhower Tuesday, strongly indicated that the United States was denying the Nationalists weapons they needed against the big Red guns. But he emphatically denied that nuclear weapons were involved.

Yeh said the Nationalists were free at any time to attack the mainland gun positions. But he said they had held off for "chiefly a military reason."

"We do not need to ask for agreement or permission from the United States" to bomb the gun positions, Yeh said. He added that the right of retaliation "is part of our right to self defense."

Yeh refused to be pinned down on what kind of weapons the Nationalists needed to fight back against bombardment of the Nationalist-held island of Quemoy just off the China mainland.

Balloon Space Flight Slated

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — An inexperienced balloonist completed final preparations Sunday for a 20-mile ascent above the earth to test man's reaction to space travel.

First Lt. Clifton McClure, 26, an Air Force pilot, tentatively is scheduled to step into a tiny closed gondola, crammed with instruments, and be lifted aloft toward the stratosphere by a giant plastic balloon Tuesday.

Scientists on the ground will follow the Air Force "man high III" flight by truck and maintain radio contact with McClure during the ascent, which may last more than 24 hours. They hope to gain first hand knowledge of McClure's physiological, psychological and aeronautical reactions.

McClure rode the balloon for an hour Sunday, thus finally qualifying for his Civil Aeronautics Administration balloonist's accreditation. McClure is the Air Force's replacement for Capt. D. Grover Schock, seriously injured last month in a similar test flight.

Accidents Kill 9 In Maryland Over Weekend

By The Associated Press

Accidents claimed at least nine lives in Maryland during the weekend.

The death toll included a double fatality in Prince Georges County Saturday. A newlywed Washington couple died in the flaming wreckage of their automobile. The four-car crash hospitalized four other persons.

Mr. and Mrs. William Lawrence Smith, both 27, of Washington, married only five months, were the victims of the spectacular crash near the intersection of Maryland 210 and the Indian Head highway. A second car was destroyed by flames but its occupants were dragged to safety.

Two persons were killed within an hour Saturday afternoon in separate highway accidents in Southern Maryland.

William Stallings, 19, of Barstow, Calvert County, was killed in a head-on collision on Maryland 2 about two miles south of Prince Frederick.

James Edward Brown, 48, of Waldorf, Charles County, was fatally injured on Maryland 228 when his car struck a hole in the road, went out of control, rammed a concrete culvert and overturned. The accident happened about five miles west of 228's intersection with U. S. 301.

Other weekend victims included:

Colby Kline, 22, of Liberty, Pa., drowned Saturday while swimming in Elk River near Town Point, Cecil County. State police said he apparently got the cramps.

James Stanley, 33, of Cambridge, died in a Cambridge hospital Friday night of injuries received earlier in the day when a truck carrying 10 sawmill workers overturned near Lakesville, Dorchester County.

William F. Curtis of Frederick, found dead along Maryland 355 early Saturday near Hyattstown, Montgomery County. Police said he apparently was a hit-run victim.

Ansel Lionel Acosta, 25, of Tampa, Fla., killed Friday when his car went out of control and overturned about five miles north of Snow Hill Friday.

Thomas Anderson, 15, New Market, drowned Friday when a boat sprang a leak at a pond near New Market, Frederick County. The Negro farm boy and three companions were playing hooky from school at the time.

Injured in the Dorchester County accident that killed Stanley was Samuel Thomas, 21, also of Cambridge. He underwent brain surgery at Johns Hospital and the hospital reported later that he had regained consciousness and his condition was improved from critical to serious.

Nasser's Syria Order Clarified

CAIRO (UPI)—President Gamal A. Nasser is prepared to use the United Arab Republic army if necessary to carve up Syria's big privately-owned land combines, informed sources said Sunday.

They said this was the meaning of the state of emergency, coupled with a land reform decree for Syria, announced Saturday night.

The proclamation fell short of martial law but gave the army standby police powers which it can use if opposition to the land reform turns violent.

A similar state of emergency was declared in 1952 when Egypt put a land reform scheme into effect.

Not only did the army have to force some rich Egyptian landowners to relinquish holdings, but it had to keep peasants from taking the law into their own hands and dividing estates without waiting for government action.

(Diplomatic sources in London agreed with the assessment from Cairo. There were no reports of any critical events in either the Syrian or Egyptian sections of the U.A.R. that might otherwise explain the state of emergency.)

The problem of land reform in Syria might be more difficult than it was in Egypt. An estimated 40 per cent of Syria is in the hands of big landowners. Before the Egyptian revolution, big landowners had only 20 per cent of the land.

Soviets Charge Ike Is Following Hitler Footsteps

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet military newspapers charged Sunday that President Eisenhower is following in the footsteps of Adolf Hitler.

The army newspaper Red Star said there is a similarity in U.S. policy now with that of Nazi Germany before World War II when Hitler demanded partition of Czechoslovakia.

"Now the United States in similar fashion wants to split the (Communist) Chinese nation from its rightful possession of Chinese islands," it said.

Soviet Fleet, the navy newspaper, declared that the United States is outstripping Hitler.

"Ruling circles in Washington headed by Eisenhower took over the armaments and methods at the disposal of Hitler when he prepared one military adventure after another—and improved on them," Soviet Fleet said.

Truman To Continue Campaign Travels

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Former President Truman, whose 1958 campaign travels carried him into eight states in the past fortnight, will hit six more states during the next two weeks, the Democratic National Committee announced Sunday.

The party's headquarters also said that Gov. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, who finished his major 1958 political assignment by winning a U. S. Senate seat in the Sept. 8 Maine election, had been recruited into the campaign speakers' corps. He will make eight appearances in four states during the next two weeks.

On the Republican side, Vice President Richard M. Nixon leaves Monday for appearances at Muncie and Indianapolis, Ind., en route to his home state of California, where he speaks later this week.

D.C. Man Shot; Four Charged

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP)—Robert Fitzpatrick, 26, of Washington was shot and critically wounded early Sunday as the climax of a dispute at a filling station near TB, Prince Georges County.

As a result of the shooting three men and a juvenile were brought to Upper Marlboro Jail and charged with assault. All were released on bond. The charge against the men was set for hearing Oct. 13. The case against the juvenile is to be heard Monday.

State Police said those charged in the incident include Jack J. Fitzpatrick, 21, brother of the wounded man: Jared A. Patterson, 25, of Washington and Edward Queen Harley, 30, of Brandywine.

State Trooper B. L. Weimer said Robert Fitzpatrick was shot in the chest with a bullet from a .22 caliber automatic and was taken to Casualty Hospital in Washington in critical condition.

Weimer said that a Negro owns and operates the filling station. He quoted Harley, who works at the station, as saying three white men drove up to the station early Sunday morning, that one of them made an insulting remark, a scuffle ensued climaxed by the shooting.

Almond's Plan To Reopen Virginia Schools Awaited

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Virginia's most powerful anti-integration law has emptied nine public schools in the state, and Gov. J. Lindsay Almond now faces another state law requiring him to try to "reorganize" and reopen the schools on a segregated basis.

Probably the last Virginia school-closing of this fall hit Norfolk Saturday night when a rapid-firing series of events slammed shut all six white high and junior high schools in the port city, displacing some 10,000 students.

The mass school-closing in Norfolk was the biggest blow thus far. It followed the closures of Warren County's only high school, with 1,050 students, and two schools in Charlottesville, with a total enrollment of about 1,650.

Almond announced the official closing of the Norfolk schools after the U.S. Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals refused to allow a one-year delay of integration and the city school board assigned 17 Negroes to the six schools as it had earlier promised a federal district judge to do.

The Norfolk schools had been scheduled to open Monday.

Almond has not yet announced a plan to reopen the nine schools, but informed sources said he will likely try to open the particular classes or grades of each school to which no Negroes have been assigned. These classes would be segregated, and the grades to which federal judges have ordered Negroes admitted would be eliminated.

If successful, the maneuver would cut approximately in half the number of Virginia children displaced from their classes.

How Far Have We Come Since Sputnik?

Yearly intervals are good times to take stock of personal—and national—progress. For that reason, military writers, experts, and top defense officials are summarizing what strides have or have not been made since Sputnik was launched a year ago. Most of them paint a gloomy picture of where the U. S. stands.

A contrary view is presented by Gov. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. He says it is unfair for critics to compare what Russia may have in 1962 with what the U. S. is certain it will have.

General Twining may be right. Certainly no one is in a better position to know what the secrecy-shrouded facts about the nation's defensive power — both missile and conventional — actually are.

But the public is suspicious that officials are inclined to interpret the facts to make their own efforts look good.

Perhaps the most valid reason for questioning whether the nation is making the progress in military preparations it should be is the past record of the services. For too long they let their work lag because of petty jealousies and rivalries between services. And red tape has created such a long "lead time" between drawing board and production that the U. S. is outclassed in some fields merely because the Russians can get a bomber produced in five years while here it takes eight.

There are many developments about which the public is not being informed because of alleged security restrictions. But the country's leaders could be more honest and forthright about their shortcomings—and then proceed to overcome them.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

A Bad Decision

Public opinion sometimes breaks a man for the wrong reason. The reason that the rules of evidence in the law courts have become so intricate and often appear to laymen so perverse is that it is the purpose of the law to secure justice by safeguarding the individual from the whims and fancies of public opinion and from the misery of private enmity.

As I watched Sherman Adams resign over television, I felt that here was a man laid low by private enmity, by erroneous public opinion and by his own inflexibility and coldness. None of these are just reasons for destroying a public service of 20 years and a reputation which brought a man to this high station.

If Sherman Adams was a thief, he should have been tried in a court of law. If he grafted while in office, he should have been tried in a court of law. If he conspired with other officials to sell favors, he should have been tried in a court of law. There are laws that cover all these matters. After Adams had resigned, he was pursued by extraordinary bad taste.

The worst that has thus far been shown against Sherman Adams is that he performed the normal American custom of doing a favor for a friend such as every Representative, Senator, Cabinet officer, Governor and President does; that over a period of 15 years, long before he entered upon his present duties, he and this friend exchanged gifts, such as most Americans exchange on Christmas, birthdays, etc.; that this friend on occasion paid his hotel bills and deducted them as business expenses, which was a miscarriage of hospitality, and that this particular friend when he appeared before a Congressional committee made an absurd and unacceptable witness.

That is only part of the picture. Another part is that Sherman Adams, like many New Englanders of older families, is stern, inflexible and tends to be arbitrary. His attitude, for instance, toward Senator McCarthy was unconscionable and relentless. He has made it difficult for members of Congress, even of the President's own party, to have appointments with the President. He withheld favors when to have granted them would have helped an incumbent to be elected.

It is generally held in Washington that Sherman Adams was an arrogant person who exercised vast powers without law but by the fiat of the President.

Perhaps his greatest difficulty was that there was no precedent for his office. No President, not even Grant, had organized the Presidency on a General Staff basis. The President, quite apart from being the chief administrative officer of the country and its ornamental representative, is, under our system, also the chief political personality of the country and the leader of his party. These functions cannot be merged in one and a long tradition requires the President to have direct contact with political personalities of both parties, whether he likes them or not. The adequate and smooth functioning of the government requires that the President forego his private predilections and accept the choice of the people as their chosen representatives.

A scrutiny of the lists of the President's stag dinners shows how badly both President Eisenhower and the United States were served in the selections of guests and when it was announced that the lists would no longer be published, Republicans were more than pleased because the lists were politically painful to those who needed to keep the legislative program of the President moving smoothly.

The rise of Sherman Adams to his unusual position was not due to President Eisenhower's illness but rather to his Army training, his preference for Army staff methods, and his primitive views of the Presidency. No man ought again to hold the office that Sherman Adams held. It is unnecessary to the American system of administration. Franklin D. Roosevelt conducted World War II without it, although Harry Hopkins seemed to have unusual powers. The unofficial title of "Assistant President" is absurd in the American constitutional system.

President Eisenhower will miss Sherman Adams. "I need him," was a succinct statement of fact. Perhaps Adams will write his memoirs some day and embarrass many politicians by telling the whole story of the political maneuver to get rid of him—a maneuver which succeeded because he had so few friends when he needed them.

Conflicting Legalities In Civil Rights Cases

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The mess of conflicting "legalities" in which the American people find themselves today over the "integration" question is best illustrated by the fact that in one state of the Union—namely, Oklahoma—it still is the "law of the land" to permit segregated public schools.

This paradox comes about because the Congress of the United States in 1907 entered into a binding compact with the people of Oklahoma specifically permitting them to maintain white and colored schools, respectively. The act of Congress, which was embodied in the Constitution of the State of Oklahoma and ratified by the people of that state, declared:

"That provisions shall be made for the establishment and maintenance of a system of public schools which shall be open to all the children of said state and free from sectarian control; and said schools shall always be conducted in English: provided, that nothing herein shall preclude the teaching of other languages in said public schools: and provided further, that this shall not be construed to prevent the establishment and maintenance of separate schools for white and colored children."

It will be noted that, at the same time this was passed by Congress and ratified by the people of the State of Oklahoma as a part of their constitution, it was specifically stipulated in the "enabling act" passed by Congress that the constitution of Oklahoma "shall make no distinction in civil or political rights on account of race or color."

Thus a differentiation was made between "civil or political rights," on the one hand, and the rights involved in the maintenance of separate schools, on the other.

As late as June 1950 — four years before its decision overruling the "separate but equal" doctrine in a case involving state laws — the Supreme Court of the United States had an opportunity to declare this act of Congress invalid but did not do so. The case before it concerned a Negro who had been admitted to a white college but who was given a desk apart from the other students, as provided by Oklahoma state law. The Supreme Court said that, once admitted, a Negro had to be given equal treatment with the whites and that this state law violated the Fourteenth Amendmen.

The citizens of Oklahoma today can insist on the benefits given by a statute passed by Congress. The Fourteenth Amendment, of course, does not restrict federal laws but applies solely to state laws. It would be possible for some litigant to argue that, without any state laws on the subject, "separate but equal" educational facilities are still legal in the state of Oklahoma because they have been authorized by an act of Congress which has never been replaced and which has never been ruled invalid by the Supreme Court of the United States.

It is true that an act of Congress was also involved in the District of Columbia case, decided on May 17, 1954, when segregation was condemned in local schools. But an act of Congress providing for the governing of a territory or a federal district is not the same thing as an act of Congress which deals with the admission of a state and its rights under a written constitution.

It will be suggested that the Supreme Court would simply say in such a new case that it is "unthinkable" for one state to be ruled by a federal law while the others are not. Certainly from time to time the Supreme Court has insisted that the "enabling act" which creates a new state does not add or subtract "civil or political rights" from the state but places it in these respects on a footing equal to the other states of the Union. Education, on the other hand, has not been held legally to be a "civil or political right" but the grant of a privilege within the discretion of a state.

There is, however, another question involved—namely, when Congress admits a new state to the Union and makes a binding contract with it, can the Supreme Court alter that contract? Certainly if there is a Constitutional Amendment passed subsequent to the admission of a state to the Union, such recently admitted state would be subject to the new Amendments to the Constitution. It will be insisted that the same principle applies with respect to decisions which afterward "interpret" the Constitution.

The fallacy in this, however, lies in the fact that, if a Supreme Court decision can change the "law of the land" at any time and there is no such thing as "settled law," then all the property rights granted to new states by the federal government in connection with land specially reserved for the use of the states, or state funds derived from such lands, might be placed in jeopardy at any moment by a decision of the Supreme Court of the United States overturning the "enabling act" by which a state was admitted to the Union.

The basic principle involved is —as Abraham Lincoln defined it —that, once there is a decision by the Supreme Court and it is affirmed and reaffirmed, it becomes what is known as "settled law." It is being urged by noted jurists that there should be no further change made in the status of such rulings except through the method prescribed in the Constitution itself for amending that document.

In other words, the experience of Oklahoma indicates the need for a Constitutional amendment which would clear up for all time whether the Supreme Court of the United States has the right to change the "settled law" of the land whenever the Justices change or whenever their personal whims may influence them to reverse previous decisions.

There are at least ten states in the union which have inserted in their constitutions the wording of laws passed by Congress which specifically affirm the right of these states "forever" to retain "exclusive control" over their public-school systems. What does the phrase "exclusive control" mean now? Does it mean that the states retain the right to decide which pupils shall enter their schools, or must they now submit their school rosters each term to federal judges to determine whether or not they have properly passed upon the qualifications of their students? This is only one of many issues that will plague the federal courts of the United States for years to come, due to the action of the Supreme Court of the United States in overturning the existing system of handling "settled law" in the United States.

Khrushchev Defends Ike's Golfing While Republicans Try To See Him

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower has had a lot of criticism of his golf, particularly when he remained at Newport, R. I., while two of the worst crises facing the United States broiled in the far Pacific and in the schools of the south.

However, Ike had one defender whom he may not know about—Nikita Krushchev.

Talking in the Kremlin to Cyrus Eaton, the Cleveland industrialist, Khrushchev commented favorably on Eisenhower's golf.

"You Americans use your cars too much," he said. "You don't walk enough. You should walk to be fit. I don't play golf myself, but President Eisenhower's intense interest in golf seems very sensible to me. It gives him good exercise. Please tell him so for me when you go home."

Midnight Phone Call

Several hard-pressed Republican candidates for the Senate wanted to see the President while he was at Newport vacationing, but only a few succeeded. One was Bayard Ewing, Republican candidate for the Senate from Rhode Island who is running in a very uphill race against Sen. John Pastore, Democrat.

Ewing wanted to show the voters of Rhode Island that he was at least on speaking terms with the President, so wanted a photo taken together. For a long time he failed. At Newport Ike was more and more sensitive about his privacy, ruled against all press conferences, didn't want newsmen going along when he played golf.

Finally, a telephone call came through to the summer White House around midnight. Hurriedly the Secret Service checked the call. Those who phone the President at that hour are usually crackpots. The call, however, came from Mr. Ewing, candidate for the Senate from Rhode Island, who wanted the President to get on the telephone and congratulate his daughter. Ewing was at that moment throwing a party for his debutante daughter Lynda at the Agawan Hunt Club in East Providence, and he thought it would be quite an event if the President congratulated her on coming out into society.

The Secret Service did not agree. They did not wake the President.

Shortly before he returned to Washington, however, Ike did squeeze in nine minutes with Ewing, Republican Chairman Meade Alcorn and a few other Republicans at 8:10 a. m., just before he went out to tee off.

Virginia Schools

To get a full understanding of the bitter, tragic school deadlock in Virginia you have to go back about a decade or so to the woeful neglect of schools in the past.

The Harry Byrd political machine, one of the most efficient in the United States, had built excellent highways, picnic tables for tourists, had made Virginia government corruption-free and kept taxes low. But both for Negroes and poor whites in rural areas, school conditions were shocking.

Neglect of Negro schools also existed in other southern states. But educators who surveyed the situation scored Virginia as one of the worst.

Publicity has recently been given to the fact that in Front Royal, where the high school is now closed, Negro students are transported 50 miles by bus to a "boarding" high school in Manassas. A few years ago, however, Negro students had to travel all the way to Mannassas from Arlington, Alexandria, Fairfax, Prince William and Page Counties, some of them going as far as 90 miles.

Up until a year ago, one of the buses carried 70 Prince William children to Manassas though it had a capacity of only 28.

The Manassas Negro boarding school accommodates between 400 and 500 high school and elementary students. There is a three-story frame dormitory, with one bathtub for 40 Negro girls.

New Negro Schools

Today a new high school for Negroes is being rushed to completion in Warren County (Front Royal), but it was begun too late —after the Supreme Court ruling. Demands for integration had already reached a point where the issue could not be solved without bitterness.

In Fairfax County, Va., 28 years ago, Negroes comprised 10 per cent of the population, yet only $2,000 of a $900,000 school bond issue went for Negro schools. At that time Negro students had to pay to ride in the school bus. White children traveled free. Up until 1950 Fairfax County had a two-room frame school for Negro elementary students. There was no water except from a neighbor's pump.

Both whites and Negroes had about the same standard of schooling in rural Virginia—frequently one-teacher, one-room schools. And according to the last official report of the Virginia Superintendent of Instruction there were still 384 such schools in 1956-57 in rural sections of the state—155 white and 229 Negro.

As recently as 1953-54 there were 985 one-teacher schools in Virginia.

This was the root cause of the present integration struggle. Negroes attending crowded, run-down schools demanded the same treatment as white students. And when they didn't get it, they demanded integrated schools. About 10 years ago many southern states woke up to this and began building Negro schools. As a result, Alabama and North Carolina are among those which have even more modern Negro schools than white.

But the building campaign came too late. By this time the demand for integration had reached a point where it was difficult to stop.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

We once wrote of a Fifth Amendment mouthpiece that he was educated in the Three-Eye League. Irrelevane, Immaterial and Incriminating.

A good gageroo at the time but it now means less than feathers on a pumphandle. For there is no more Three-Eye League that used to cover Iowa, Indiana and Illinois.

It was a spread in the days of the hoss and buggy leagues. A remarkable outfit has taken its place called the Little League. That's where your players will be incubated.

One of the minors evaporated completely is the old Tri-State. It flourished in the days when Pennsylvania was fat in oil, lumber and coal. You never hear of Williamsport, York, Scranton, Trenton and Albany.

They can't package the goods anymore because they lost their ball of string. There is no place to polish the material for the Major Leagues.

That's why they are buttering up high school players with bonuses they never earn.

There are no more Three-Eye Leagues where an infielder would reach for a grounder and pick up a potato.

Who are they going to sign up for paid skiatron? Clark Gable and Cary Grant?

Persistent Discomforts Can Mean Cancer

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The majority of cancers of the throat and tongue can be cured, provided they are recognized early. But the disease is treacherous because it may smolder for months before causing symptoms.

A 60 year old artist developed a sore throat and saw a physician two days later. The throat was red, the tonsils were slightly enlarged, and a few swollen glands were felt in the neck. An appropriate remedy was prescribed.

When pain failed to disappear at the end of a week, the artist returned to his physician, who looked into the throat again and noted that the tonsil on the right side was firmer than usual. A malignancy was suspected and the patient was referred to a specialist. He found cancer involving the tongue and throat, in addition to the tonsil.

The man's life was saved with an extensive operation and X-ray treatments. Plastic surgery was done to restore his original features after healing occurred. This large cancer had existed for many months before symptoms developed. Some of us might have allowed the condition to go on for another month or two, provided discomfort was not severe. To delay is human but it may mean the difference between life and death.

A 77 year old man walked into an English clinic carrying his false teeth and complaining that the gum in the left lower jaw was painful. An open sore was found but the man insisted the dentures were responsible. He was given a mouth wash and told to see his dentist.

Pain was gone when he returned to the clinic 10 days later and the physician didn't think it necessary to look into the oldster's mouth. He returned again three month later with the same complaint. The ulcer proved to be a malignancy; healing occurred after a series of X-ray treatments.

There are many variations to this story but the lesson is the same. Serious ailments may come in simple disguise. Ill fitting dentures are not the only cause of pain in the mouth—and in the case discussed they were only coincidental.

Bleeding from cancer of the rectum frequently is blamed on hemorrhoids. A persistent diarrhea that occurs after a trip to Mexico or Spain may be blamed on tainted food or water when in reality a milgnancy is responsible. Cancer consciousness is the only way to overcome these problems.

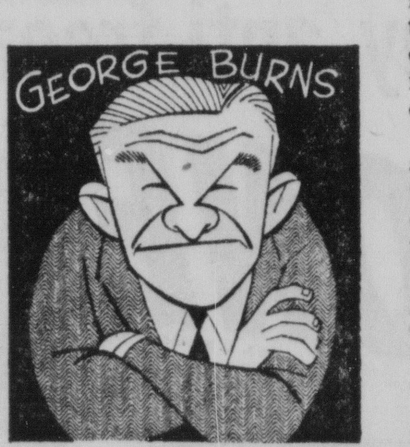
TOMORROW: Dead spaces in the lungs.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Gracie Allen recalls: "The first time I ever met George Burns he gave me a pass to the theater in Union Hills, N. J., where he was doing a vaudeville act. I went to the matinee the next day and was I surprised! George was being co-starred with a movie called 'The Birth of a Nation' and 10 other acts, but he was so modest he hadn't even mentioned them. I felt very proud. There must have been eight or nine people in that audience and I was the only one with a pass."



Gracie had a fine vacation in Honolulu recently, and was telling a reporter all about it. "Did you go by boat or plane?" asked the reporter. "I don't really know," admitted Gracie. "George bought the tickets."

A man working in the U. S. Weather Bureau took time out to discuss his new wife the other day. "How that gal can talk," he exclaimed admiringly. "Her usual velocity is 160 words a minute, but she has gusts as high as 190!"

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

He listened. The words came in a torrent of fatigue and exasperation. "I share my bowl of rice with six children," Miss Tena Holkeboer said. "I can't share with one more." She held the hand of the skinny little Chinese girl. "She will not go away. What am I to do?"

Bob Pierce listened. He could not tell her what to do. He was an ordained American Baptist minister on his first trip to China. He had seen suffering that shook the soul. In a suburb of Kunming, 80,000 people in a population of 100,000 had trachoma. Four German Lutheran Sisters took care of 52 blind children and had nothing to feed them but minced weeds and bark.

He had seen lepers with no hands. When they came to the edge of a town to beg piteously for food, the townspeople came out and killed them because it is good to kill lepers. The beggars were everywhere. The poor walked the roads and died in the fields. This was China in 1947.

Now he was on the big island of Amoy. The Reformed Church had a school for 400 Chinese girls. Miss Holkeboer, of Holland, Michigan, took care of them. She was a big woman with big courage. She shared her noontime bowl of rice with six of the girls. Now there was little Tan. And she would not go away.

Her father hated Christians. He beat the little girl-child with a bamboo rod. The red welts on the back were shaped like a fan. The child did not cry. Her black shoebutton eyes blinked. She wore a thin porous dress. There was no other garment.

"I tell her to go away and she comes here and sits at a desk while the rest of us eat." The big woman was close to tears. "I can't stand it." She hesitated a moment, then picked the child up and almost threw her into the arms of the Reverend Pierce. "What are you going to do about it?" she shouted.

He held the child. The round little nose was under his chin. The eyes looked up at him frankly. She was 11. She wanted so badly to be a Christian that she suffered for it. How good is a good Christian? Great enough to brave starvation, like Miss Holkeboer? Brave enough to visit a nation on its knees, as Bob Pierce was doing? Or big enough to die for it, as Tan was doing?

Pierce did much thinking in a few moments. He was 32, married, and had children of his own. He lived in Arcadia, California. It was Pierce and Billy Graham and Torrey Johnson and Charlie Templeton who had inaugurated the Youth for Christ movement. Like the others, Bob Pierce hoped to save the world. He was down to one little girl now.

"How much would it cost to help her?" he said.

"Twenty-five dollars."

"Will that feed her for a month?"

"It will feed her for a year and pay for her books."

Pierce had no money. He had no ticket home. In his pocket was $5. Mutely, he handed it to Miss Holkeboer. He looked down at the little girl and he knew what he wanted to do with his life. If he could not save the world, he could save one. And if generous people helped, he would save more than one.

He never saw Tan again. Somehow, Bob Pierce got home. He preached up and down the land, and he sent money to little Tan. A year later, the Communists were digesting China. The gates were slammed against the foreign devils. But the vision of the shoebutton eyes stayed with him.

In her name, Bob Pierce could help others. He formed an organization called World Vision. Its address is Box O, in Pasadena, California. In 1948, the big blond missioner sent $60,000 to the poor and the sick of Asia. Each year, as he preached, the sums grew greater. This year, he will send $2,000,000.

World Vision supports 142 orphanages feeding 12,300 children. Each orphanage is administered by its own church group: Presbyterian, Methodist, Baptist, Episcopal and others. Mother lepers give their babies to the orphanages because they are afraid to breast-feed them.

Yesterday, the Rev. Pierce sat in my living room and we talked of little Tan. She would be 22 now. He doesn't think she's alive.

I couldn't help but wonder: Who saved whom?

Now that beekeepers from all over the world are holding their international convention in Rome, Italy, we understand the place is a regular hive of activity.

"Waiter, Diner Battle in Fuss Over Menu"—headline. Just another case of too much roastbiff?

A class in humor is taught at the University of California at Los Angeles by a professional comedian. And that's no joke, son!

Maybe it's not significant but we've noticed that no nation in this quarrelsome old world has ever picked the lovebird as its emblem.

The twin mysteries of radio says Grandpappy Jenkins, are what is a studio audience constantly laughing at when it isn't applauding for.

Williams Cops 6th Batting Title With Average Of .328

Ted's Homer Gives Bosox 6-4 Triumph

Collects Two Hits, Runnels Finishes Second With .322

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Ted Williams collected two hits Sunday in four times at bat to win his sixth American League batting title with a .328 average as the Boston Red Sox defeated the Washington Senators, 6-4.

The 40-year-old Williams came into Washington trailing teammate Pete Runnels by four points, .324 to .320 and proceeded to collect five hits in eight tries in his last two games to win the title. Ted closed out Sunday with a double and a homer while Runnels went hitless in four times up to finish with a .322 mark.

Williams' spectacular windup was reminiscent of the 1941 season when he collected seven hits in his last nine official trips to the plate to win his first title with a .406 average. He is the last batter to hit .400 in the majors.

Ted played three games of this four-game series and got seven hits in 11 times at bat, including three homers. He also drove in five runs. His home run today broke a 4-4 tie and provided the margin of victory for Boston.

Pedro Ramos, knocked out of the box in one inning Saturday, attempted to come right back Sunday. He was tagged for all six Boston runs including homers by Williams (his 26th), Ted Lepcio and Sammy White.

Tom Brewer started for Boston and was shelled in the fifth when the Senators scored three runs to take a 4-3 lead. Rookie Ted Bowsfield came in to get the victory.

Lepcio's homer in the sixth tied the score at 4-4. Then Williams blasted a drive into the center field seats to put Boston ahead. The Red Sox got an insurance run on White's homer in the eighth.

Williams, who missed the better part of five seasons because of two hitches with the Marines, won his first AL batting title in that 1941 season. He won it for a second time the following season when he hit .356. After time out for his first hitch, the Thumper came back to win in 1946 with a .343 mark and repeated in 1947 with .369.

He hit .317 or better for six of the next eight seasons with time out again for his second hitch with the Marines and then won the title last year with a .388 mark that made him the oldest batting champion in major league history.

The victory clinched third place for the Red Sox and the loss was the Senators' 13th straight.

Zihlman And Barrelville Play 15-Inning 5-5 Tie

Raines vs. Richards Duel In Series Tilt Halted By Darkness

Barrelville's Old Exports and Zihlman battled 15 innings to a 5-5 deadlock yesterday at Barrelville when darkness brought a halt to the third game of their best-of-five games final playoff series in the Pen-Mar Baseball League.

The Old Exports had won the first two games by scores of 3-1 and 3-2.

Dave Richards went the route for Zihlman, struck out 22 batsmen, walked seven and hit two batsmen. Jesse Markley started on the mound for Barrelville and was relieved after one away in the fifth by Bobby Raines, who hurled the last 10⅔ frames. Markley struck out three and issued two bases on balls while Raines mowed down 16 via the strikeout route and gave up three passes.

H. Johnson of Zihlman, belted a two-run homer in the top of the third to knot the score at 4-4 and there was no more scoring until the 15th when both teams made one run.

Barney Spearman's bases on balls, stolen base and Kenny Johnson's single broke the tie. In the last of the 15th, however, the Old Exports knotted the count for the final time when George Miller was safe on an error, moved to third on Woody Woodson's single and crossed the plate on Lowery's squeeze play bunt.

Warnick smacked a triple and two singles and Kenny Johnson garnered a trio of one-base knocks for Zihlman while Harold Hudson larruped a double and two singles and George Miller collected three singles for Barrelville.

The teams meet again next Sunday at 2:30 p. m., at Barrelville. Score:

Redlegs Blank Milwaukee, 4-0

Kellner, Lawrence Pitch Four-Hitter

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Alex Kellner and Brooks Lawrence teamed up to shut out the champion Milwaukee Braves on four hits as the Cincinnati Redlegs won the season finale Sunday, 4-0, before 41,364.

Frank Robinson drove in two runs with a single and a double to saddle Carl Willey, second of four Milwaukee pitchers, with the defeat.

Manager Fred Haney of the Braves used all four of his candidates for the starting assignment in the third World Series game with the New York Yankees. Bob Rush opened and pitched three scoreless innings. Willey gave up two runs in three innings and Ernie Johnson two in two, then Juan Pizarro retired the side in order in the ninth.

Kellner scattered four hits in the first six innings and Lawrence gave up only one harmless walk in the last three.

The crowd gave the Braves a season attendance total of 1,971,101, marking the first time in five years that they failed to reach two million.

Indians Defeat Tigers, Finish In 4th Place

Bell Is Victor, 6-2, Colavito Hits 41st

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Rocky Colavito's 41st home of the year and rookie Gary Bell's stingy pitching gave the Cleveland Indians a 6-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers and a fourth-place finish in the American League Sunday.

With approximately $500 in World Series prize money hanging on every delivery, Bell turned back the Bengals on six hits. Entering the first division showdown game, the Tigers were fourth, a half-game ahead of Cleveland. It was the 12th victory in a fine freshman campaign for the 21-year-old righthander.

Steelers Lose 23-20 Decision On West Coast

Forty Niners Win, Brodie Stands Out

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Firing passes with pin-point accuracy, alternate quarterback John Brodie engineered a 16-point San Francisco 49er comeback drive for a 23-20 victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers in the National Football League opener for both clubs Sunday.

Gordie Soltau's 22-yard field goal with 2 minutes 31 seconds remaining proved the winning margin before 51,856 in Kezar Stadium.

Brodie engineered the opening touchdown in the first quarter. But the dogged Steelers surged back and tied the count by half time.

With the veteran Y. A. Tittle taking over from Brodie to start the third period, the 49ers went nowhere. The Steelers, largely on two pass interceptions by Jack Butler, pulled into a 20-7 lead. Then coach Frankie Albert sent Brodie back in.

The young quarterback found R. C. Ownes his best target for the day, with the combination racking up consistent gains.

Sharing honors, San Francisco's veteran defensive back Bill Stits intercepted three passes, two of which turned the 49ers' first two scores.

Brodie first steered the 49ers 73 yards in eight plays with rookie Jim Pace scoring from 11 yards out. But Dick Alban blocked Soltau's conversion attempt and the score stood 20-13 for the Steelers.

Gifford Stars As Giants Win

New Yorkers Blast Chicago Cards, 37-7

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — The New York Giants a disastrous exhibition season out of the way, got three touchdowns from Frank Gifford Sunday as they blasted the Chicago Cardinals 37-7 in their National Football League opener.

The Giants converted a pass interception and a recovered Chicago fumble in to two quick touchdowns, both by Gifford and wrapped it up with the game barely five minutes old.

A crowd of 21,923 was on hand in Civic Stadium for the first neutral city opener in NFL history. The game was moved here by the Cards because the Chicago White Sox were still in Comiskey Park.

The Cards, despite three straight exhibition ictories, a new coach and a new system, never got off the ground. Even their touchdown was tarnished. Rookie John Crow, the Texas A & M All-American, scored it by recovering teammate Ollie Matson's fumble in the end zone.

Gifford, ably abetted by Charley Conerly, Alex Webster and an alert defensive unit, made it a miserable afternoon for Frank "Pop" Ivy, the Cards' new coach returning from four years in the Canadian League.

Webster scored two touchdowns, Conerly handled the offensive with scarcely an error and the defense wrecked the Cards with interceptions and recovered fumbles.

New York .... 14 13 7 3—37
Chicago .... 0 7 0 0— 7

New York scoring—Tds: Gifford 3 (8 run, 8 run, 2 run), Webster 2 (7 run, 1 plunge); FG: Summerall (28). PAT: Summerall 4.

Chicago scoring — TDs: Crow (recovered fumble in end zone). PAT: Conrad.

Men Of LaSalle Sponsor Booster Game On Friday

To Crown Queen, Blue Angels Drum Corps Will Play

Men of LaSalle will sponsor the booster game on Friday, October 3, when LaSalle High School's football team will meet the Bedford eleven at Fort Hill Stadium.

Kickoff time will be 8 p. m., according to Paul Stakem, president, who said that a football queen will be selected by the LaSalle football players.

At halftime she will be crowned by Miss Patricia Malone, last year's queen. A special feature at halftime will be a musical program presented by the Blue Angels Drum and Bugle Corps of Victory Post 155, American Legion of Westernport.

The corps has won many prizes in this area. The moderator of the Men of LaSalle is Brother Thomas with Fred Stitcher as chairman.

Giants Bag Final, 7-2

Mays Gets 3 Hits Against St. Louis

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Willie Mays collected three hits in five trips to the plate Sunday but fell short of catching Richie Ashburn in the down-to-the-wire race for the National League batting honors.

But the third place San Francisco Giants beat St. Louis 7-2 before a closing day crowd of 19,435.

Manager Bill Rigney let Willie lead off to give him more chances to bat and he promptly started with a double to deep left center.

He came up in the second inning and flied out to Ellis Burton in left. Now he would need 6 for 7, a virtual impossibility without a long extra inning contest.

Willie came up in the fourth and hit a long homer into the right field seats for hit No. 2. It was his 29th round-tripper. Although he was out of the race, the perspiring crowd didn't know it and cheered lustily as Mays came to bat in the sixth. He beat out a single to third, but flied to center in the seventh to wrap up the days' and season's work with .3466.

The Sunday closer brought the season's total attendance to 1,272,625 for Seals Stadium—smallest in the majors. It seats slightly less than 23,000. The total was virtually double last year's attendance at New York's big Polo Grounds. It was the transplanted New Yorker's first season in Seals Stadium.

Chisox Trounce Athletics, 11-4

CHICAGO (AP)—The White Sox broke loose with their biggest offensive since July 30 to close the season with a 14-hit 11-4 victory over Kansas City.

Four rookies hurled for the A's with Walt Craddock absorbing the loss. The Comiskeys opened with two youngsters, Stover McIlwain and Hal Trosky, son of the former slugging first sacker, and closed with Bob Shaw. Trosky was awarded the victory although he was touched for three runs.

Ashburn Takes Batting Crown In Senior Loop

Richie's Mark .349; Phils Top Bucs, 6-4

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Philadelphia's Richie Ashburn won his second National League batting title Sunday by collecting three singles in four official times at bat. He finished the season with a .3495 average.

Ashburn's closest competitor, Willie Mays of San Francisco, needed at least 5 for 5 in Sunday's game against St. Louis to beat out Ashburn.

But Mays got only three hits in five trips and ended the season with a .347 average.

Ashburn, 31-year-old veteran of 10 campaigns, also grounded out and walked as the Phillies beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-4 in a 10-inning season finale.

He won the NL batting championship in 1955 with an average of .338. Last year he finished at .297. His best season was .344 in 1951 when Stan Musial of the Cardinals had .355 to win the crown.

The Phils' Dave Philley doubled in the seventh inning for his eighth straight pinch-hit, setting a major league record. Peanuts Lowrey established the old mark of seven in 1952.

Ashburn's single to short center in the 105h touched off a two-run rally that gave the last-place Phillies their sixth straight victory.

Ed Kazanski followed Ashburn with a sacrifice and after Ed Bouchee struck out, Wally Post got an intentional pass to put men on first and second. Harry Anderson then singled, scoring Ashburn, and Willie Jones scored Post with a safety.

Millers Lead, 3-0

MONTREAL (AP) — The Minneapolis Millers of the American Assn. took a 3-0 lead over the Montreal Royals of the International League with a 3-2 victory in the Little World Series.

The best-of-seven series now shifts to Minneapolis for the remaining games. The Millers need only one victory to wrap up the series.

Title Flight Cut To Five In CCC Golf

Three Players Win, Go To Semi-Finals

The field battling it out for the fall golf championship at the Cumberland Country Club was reduced to five players yesterday when C. S. Catherman, Jr., defeated George Garlitz, 1 up, Col. R. W. Meals eliminated Orville W. Jackson, 2 and 1, and John Wilson downed Clifton Van Rooy, 2 and 1.

Yesterday's winners advanced to the semi-final round in the title flight. The bracket will be completed after Ben LaNeve plays Henry Johnson.

Other results were as follows:

Second Flight—Rev. H. M. Richardson defeated Mort Schaidt, 3 and 2; George Bottorf defeated Ivan Hall, 1 up.

Fourth Flight—Nate Hauger defeated Glenn Wright, 1 up.

John Wilson won the best nine tournament held over the weekend by posting a net 36-4—32 to pace a field of 16 players.

Players with flags on par three holes were: Nos. 1, 10 and 12—Joe Wolfe. No. 6—Dave Klein. No. 15—C. S. Catherman, Jr.

The Women's Golf Association will hold a best nine tournament on Tuesday at 10 a. m.

Mt. Savage Yankees Cop Playoff Crown

Manager Bob Stevens' Yankees won the playoff title in the Mt. Savage Little League yesterday by taking the third and deciding game of their series with the Pirates by the score of 5-4 in seven innings.

Singles by Eddie Logsdon and Jim Malloy accounted for the winning run in the extra frame.

Shaffer, who replaced Birmingham on the mound in the third inning, was credited with the win and Brannon, the third Pirates' hurler, was the loser.

Dale Keel, Malloy and Logsdon shared six of the Yankees' nine hits. The Pirates were limited to four singles.

Berry Catches 10 Passes, Gains 149 Yards In Opener

By GEORGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE (AP) — The National Football League defending champion Detroit Lions were toppled 28-15 in their opening game Sunday by a band of fighting Baltimore Colts.

A record opening-day crowd of 48,377 for Baltimore reveled as the Colts took the lead in the first quarter and then twice came from behind to triumph. End Raymond Berry climaxed a great day of pass catching by scoring for the second time on a 14-yard popthrow at the outset of the final period to put the Colts ahead for good.

Berry, catching 10 for 149 yards, gave the Colts a halftime 14-9 lead by taking a 26-yard scoring aerial from quarterback John Unitas in the second period.

Lenny Moore ran eight yards and L. G. Dupre 12 for the other Colt touchdowns.

Howard (Hopalong) Cassady, Detroit's flanker halfback, kept his team in the game by snagging two touchdown passes.

Jim Martin's 31-yard field goal in the second period put Detroit into the scoring column. However, he missed an important one from the 15-yard line in the third quarter and quarterback Bobby Lane goofed on his first conversion try out of 59.

Detroit	0	9	6	0—15
Baltimore	7	7	0	14—28

Detroit scoring—TDs: Cassady (11, pass from Lane); 30 screen pass from Rote; FG: Martin (31).

Baltimore scoring—Tds: Moore (8, run), Berry 2 (26, pass from Unitas; 14, pass from Unitas), Dupre (12, run), PAT: Myrha 4.

Groza's Goal Beats Rams

Browns Score Over Los Angeles, 30-27

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Cleveland Browns came from behind with 16 points in the last quarter and the magic toe of Lou Groza killed the Los Angeles Rams with a nine-yard field goal in the final 25 seconds to win the game 30-27 Sunday.

The boost erased a 27-27 deadlock, and was the killer blow that saw the Ram defense collapse and a half time lead of 17-7 and a third quarter advantage of 27-14 evaporate.

The Rams took the last kickoff and with one 34-yard pass from Billy Wade to Del Shofner reached the Cleveland 41. But a place kick from the 48 by Paige Cothren missed, a little wide to the left.

Earlier in the game Groza, missed a 44-yard field goal attempt. And his try for the extra point for the team's first touchdown of the fourth quarter was blocked.

The 16-point blast by Cleveland in the last period started off with a pass from quarterback Milt Plum to Ray Renfro that made the score 20-27.

Halfback Jon Arnett, who had been a Ram running hero, fumbled on a run when hit and Junior Wren scooped up the ball and ran it back 34 yards to set up the next touchdown on the Ram seven.

Fullback Jim Brown smashed for two, then the final five and this time Groza converted to tie the score.

Cleveland	0	7	7	16—30
Los Angeles	3	14	10	0—27

Cleveland scoring — TDs: Mitchell (4 pass from Plum), Brown 2 (38, 5 runs), Renfro (21 pass from Plum). PAT: Groza 3. FG: Groza (9).

Los Angeles scoring — TDs: Lundy (20 pass from Wade), Shofner (65 pass from Wade), Wilson (13 run). PAT: Cothren 3. FG: Cothren 2 (40, 11).

Four Hurlers Made Eligible For Series

NEW YORK (AP)—Don Larsen, Tom Sturdivant and Murry Dickson, three righthanded pitchers, were added to the New York Yankees list and pitcher Ernie Johnson replaced ailing Joey Jay of Milwaukee's roster of World Series eligibles.

Charles Segar, baseball secretary - treasurer, announced the changes had been approved by Commissioner Ford Frick.

Virginian Cops Nine, Reynolds "In Money" 51 Times, 79 Races

A total of 112 different stables won purses at the 34th annual race meeting of the Cumberland Fair Association which was concluded on Saturday and the leading winning trainer for the 12-day session was Carroll D. Lee, of Leesburg, Va., the first negro conditioner ever to set the pace at the local half mile track.

Lee saddled a total of nine winners, two short of the record of 11 hung up by Mrs. G. A. Saportas, Jr., in 1952, and his 9-2-3-2 record earned a total of $6,560, also tops for the meeting.

Lee's Nine Winners

The Virginian's nine winners were Delicious (2), Quatre Thell (2), Shamrock Green, LaVillate, Hours Later, Argumentative and Achsah Ann.

Three trainers were tied for runner-up honors with five winners each, namely, W. Stanley Moxley, Owen L. Follin and Nuncy J. Greco.

Moxley's winners were Kum On Doc (2), Hel-Doc, Tarry Not and Knotty Jack. Follin scored with Pavion (2), Little Sputnic (2) and Specified. Winners saddled by Greco were Onyx (2), Broom Party (2) and Has To Be.

William D. Thomas and James M. P. Bell had four winners each and John J. Pichot, William F. Parks and George Mohr had three.

Greco was the runner-up to Lee in purses won with $4,290 on a 5-3-1-4 record. Follin won $4,040 with 5-3-1-1 and Moxley took $3,775 in purses with 5-2-2-0.

Reynolds Had 25 Winners

Lawrence Reynolds, of Geneva, Ohio, was the meeting's top rider with 25 winners in 12 days, one short of the record 26 set by Bill Clark in ten days in 1955. Reynolds, the first apprentice to pace the riders in 13 years, had 79 mounts and finished "in the money" 51 times, finishing with a 25-13-13 record. His top performance was on opening day when he piloted four winners. John "Cadillac" Jack Sollars, Missourian, was the runner-up this year with 14 winners and Anthony Russo, Baltimore, was third with ten firsts, three coming on "Getaway" Day.

Thirty-one of the 112 stables that shared in the purse distribution won over $1,000. They are as follows:

Trainer	Amt. Won
Carroll D. Lee	$6,560

Sam Snead Scores 12-Stroke Victory

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —Defending champion Sam Snead duplicated his opening round four-under-par 67 Sunday to win the West Virginia open golf tournament at Lakeview Country Club by 12 strokes. Amateur Billy Campbell of Huntington was runnerup with a total of 148.

The scheduled 54-hole event was reduced to 36 holes after rain washed out the second round Saturday.

Snead, who had to catch a plane for Florida where he has some exhibition engagements, was allowed to tee off first, along with professional Joe Taylor of Charleston and Campbell. The win gave Snead top prize money of $300. Campbell collected a second prize of $200 and third-place winner Dick Foutche of Charleston with 150 got $150.

County Loop To Meet

St. Patrick's Cops Catholic League Opener

SS. Peter And Paul Loses 20-13 Battle

St. Patrick's defending champions launched their 1958 football campaign in the Catholic Youth League with a 20-13 decision over SS. Peter and Paul in a well played game yesterday at Marydale field.

The "Fighting Irish," coached by Rev. Arthur W. Bastress, A. Joseph Chorpenning and Randy Lantz, took a 14-13 lead at halftime and put the game on ice with a third quarter touchdown.

Billy Van Horn scored two of St. Patrick's touchdowns on 50 and 60 yard runs. The third score came on a 40-yard pass play executed by Joe Chorpenning and Johnny Horn. The Chorpenning brothers—Joe and Pat—plunged for the winning team's two extra points.

Mike Madden intercepted a pass and ran 15 yards for SS. Peter and Paul's initial touchdown. The other score came on a 60-yard run by Terry McElfish. Ronnie Miller converted after the West Siders' initial six-pointer.

SS. Peter and Paul threatened in the final period but a goal line stand by St. Pat's prevented further scoring.

The game was witnessed by approximately 300 persons, one of the largest ever to attend a league game. Score by periods:

St. Patrick's	0	14	6	0—20
SS. Peter-Paul	7	6	0	0—13

Touchdowns: St. Patrick's—Van Horn 2, Horn. SS. Peter and Paul—M. Madden, T. McElfish.

Conversions: St. Patrick's—J. Chorpenning, P. Chorpenning. SS. Peter & Paul—R. Miller.

Ed LeBaron's Passes Sink Philadelphia

Washington Team Comes From Behind To Bag Decision

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Quarterback Eddie LeBaron, the little man with the big arm, directed the Washington Redskins on a pair of long, fourth-period touchdown drives Sunday for a come-from-behind 24-14 National Football League victory over the Philadelphia Eagles.

The 165-pound LeBaron, handling the football with the dexterity of a magician and passing with deadly accuracy, piloted the 'Skins on marches of 69 and 60 yards for the winning touchdowns.

Trailing 14-10 as the final quarter opened, the Redskins ate up 69 yards on seven plays, assisted by offsides and roughing-the-passer penalties against the Eagles. They took the lead 17-14.

Halfback Dick James swept wide from the 3 as the Eagles closed their defense expecting a power play. Sam Baker converted the second of his three extra points.

Later in the period the 'Skins started a drive from their 40, which wound up in 13 plays with Don Bosseler smashing over from the one to round out the scoring.

Norman Van Brocklin, obtained by the Eagles in a winter deal with the Los Angeles Rams scored one touchdown and set up the Eagles' other score with his passing.

Washington	0	10	0	14—24
Philadelphia	7	0	7	0—14

Washington scoring — TDs: Carson (28, pass from LeBaron), James 3, run; Bosseler one, plunge; PAT: Baker 3. FG: Baker (33).

Fairgo Daily Average Hits 7-Year High

Mark Of $202,624 Is Best Since 1951; Rain Mars Finale

Jupiter Pluvius marred the final day's racing program of the Cumberland Fair Association on Saturday but in spite of the fact that wagering was not up to the first Saturday the meet wound up with its best daily average in seven years.

The handle amounted to $2,431,494 for the 12 days and the daily average of $202,624 was the best at the local half miler since 1951.

This year's wagering total was the highest of the three 12 day sessions held at Fairgo, was 4.71 per cent above the $2,322,115 in 1957 and 8 per cent above the $2,241,696 in 1956.

Jam Stops Bettors

A downpour at the start of the third race Saturday caused a traffic jam beneath the grandstand and it was impossible for many persons to get to the betting windows. The condition remained for several races and long lines of bettors were shut out before they were able to place their wagers. The rainy finale climaxed eleven consecutive days of good weather.

Favorites took four of the eight races on Getaway Day and they were Lolly Su ($4.00), Delicious ($3.80), Taylorcrest ($4.60) and Navy Brat ($5.40).

Russo Posts Triple

Anthony Russo, Baltimore saddlesmith, racked up a "triple" by scoring with Jimmie's Gem ($8.20), Taylorcrest and Prince Tamar ($9.00) winner of the Clifton White Memorial trophy which was presented to owner John Pettibone by Mrs. Clifton W. White, who was introduced by Miss Ann Drane—"Miss Fairgo of 1958."

Jimmie's Gem (2) and Lolly Su (1) returned a $17.80 double as the pool of $30,852 was tops for the meeting.

Apprentice rider Lawrence Reynolds posted his 24th and 25th winners aboard Delicious ($3.80) and Navy Brat and Apprentice John Sollars also racked up a pair of wins with Lolly Su and Mains Chance ($18.60).

Attendance on the last day was 6,516 compared to 7,295 on the first Saturday and the handle was $262,710 as against $290,043 the previous Saturday.

Bears Win Over Green Bay, 34-20

Galimore Chalks Up 3 TDs For Chicago

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—Willie Galimore threaded his way for three touchdowns Sunday as the Chicago Bears beat the Green Bay Packers 34-20 in a National Football League opener.

Galimore, a 23-year-old NFL sophomore who can run the 100-yard dash in 9.6 seconds, scored on runs of one and eight yards and collaborated with Ed Brown on a pass good for 79 yards and another touchdown.

The Bears thus launched on a high note owner George Halas' return to the coaching lines after a two-year retirement.

A City Stadium crowd of 32,150 watched the Packers take a 7-0 lead after a little more than a minute of play on Bobby Dillon's 37-yard run with an intercepted pass.

Galimore's one-yard plunge tied the score five minutes later, but Paul Hornung's 23-yard field goal put the Packers ahead again 10-7.

Six minutes after the second quarter started Galimore zigzagged eight yards to put the finishing touch on a 59-yard Bear drive. From then on, the Bears had it their own way.

Brown scored once on a two-yard sneak and passed 13 yards to Harlon Hill for the final touchdown.

Hornung added another field goal, this one from 30 yards out, and a touchdown on a two-yard end sweep.

Chicago	7	14	7	6—34
Green Bay	10	3	0	7—20

Chicago scoring — TDs: Galimore 3 (plunge; 8 run) 79 pass from Brown), Brown (2 run), Hill (13 pass from Brown). PAT: Blanda (4).

Green Bay scoring—TDs: Dillon (37 run with intercepted pass), Hornung (2 run). PAT: Hornung (2). FG: Hornung (2) (23, 30).

Spahn And Ford Are Likely Series Starters Wednesday

Yankees Are 7-5 Favorites, Milwaukee Hopes To Repeat

Burdette's Hand OK; New Yorkers To Fly West Today

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Whitey Ford and Warren Spahn appeared the likely starters in Wednesday's World Series opener at County Stadium Sunday as the majors ended the regular season.

Ford tuned up with a brilliant one-hit effort in six innings Friday night against Baltimore. Manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees is expected to make the formal pronouncement on Ford after Monday morning's workout at Yankee Stadium.

Spahn Has 22 Wins

Spahn took his final trial spin for the big effort Saturday when he went six innings against Cincinnati, long enough to earn his 22d victory for the Milwaukee Braves.

There were some anxious moments Saturday when Lew Burdette, the Braves three-time winner of the 1957 series, went to the hospital for X-rays of his injured pitching hand. Lew was hit on the right hand by a line drive Friday night while en route to his 20th victory. However, the X-rays showed no serious damage.

Burdette said the lower part of the index finger was sore but it would not bother him in his pitching.

Manager Fred Haney of the Braves said he would announce his first game starter Monday morning before the club's workout.

Many of the Braves expect the series to be a short one. They recognize that the Yanks may be a little tougher with Mickey Mantle and Bill Skowron in good physical condition but they think Milwaukee is a better club than it was a year ago.

The Braves are confident, despite 7 to 5 odds favoring the Yanks. They are relaxed and imbued with the spirit of "We did it once. Why not again?"

Wes Covington, Milwaukee's slugging left fielder, is the only question mark in the line-up. Covington banged up his left knee in spring training and pulled a muscle in his right thigh Sept. 7. He has been used sparingly and gets as much rest as possible.

The Yanks have no injuries.

Before Sunday's games, Stengel had this to say about his club, which has been in a long second-half slump:

"If they ever put any spirit into it, if they ever run out a ball all their life, I hope they do it in the next seven days, if it goes that far."

Fly To Milwaukee

The Yanks will fly to Milwaukee Monday afternoon. They will drill at County Stadium Tuesday afternoon, following the Braves workout.

KEY to the Yankee infield success, Gilbert James McDougald will be playing in his seventh World Series. Born in San Francisco May 19, 1928, Gil began his career with Twin Falls, came to the Yanks in 1951. He boasts a career mark of .285. (Central Press)

Red Schoendienst

ONE OF THE veterans of baseball, Albert (Red) Schoendienst, Braves' second sacker, will be playing in his third World Series. Schoendienst, who broke into baseball way back in 1942, jumped to the Cardinals in 1945 and was traded to the Giants in 1956. The next year he went to the Braves in a trade. This marks Red's 14th year in majors. (Central Press)

Whitey Ford

STAR SOUTHPAW hurler of the Yanks, Ed (Whitey) Ford will mark his 30th birthday after the Series, which will be his sixth appearance. Ford, born in New York City, started pro ball with Butler in 1947 and after three years in the minors he came to the Yanks. His career was interrupted by two years in the service. His Series record is 5-3. (Central Press)

Bob Rush

BORN at Battle Creek, Mich., just before Christmas in 1925, Bob Rush came to the Braves in a big deal last winter. A 10-year veteran with the Chicago Cubs, he is expected to get a Series starting assignment. Rush's overall mark before this year was 110 wins, 140 losses. (Central Press)

Enos Slaughter

THE OLD MAN of the Series, Enos Bradsher Slaughter, was 42 last April, has spent 18 years in the majors with the Cards, Kansas City and the Yankees. He has a career mark of .302, a Series batting mark of .303 and will be playing in his fifth Series, his third as a Yankee. (Central Press)

Carlton Willey

ONE OF the rookie stars of the year, Carlton Willey, a native of Cherryfield, Me., is now in his first season in the majors after five years in the minors. He started with Quebec in 1951, won 21 games for Wichita last year. He spent two years in the service. This is first Series. (Central Press)

Elston Howard

ONE OF THE fine all-around players in baseball, Elston Gene Howard was born in St. Louis February 23, 1929, started pro ball with Muskegon, spent two years in the service and broke in with the Yanks in 1955. He has a career mark of .267 and has been in three World Series. (Central Press)

Andy Pafko

NOW in his 18th year in pro baseball, 16 of them in the majors, Andy Pafko of the Braves will be playing in his fourth Series. Andy, born at Boyceville, Wis., February 25, 1921, broke into the majors with the Cubs in 1943, has a career mark of .288 and saw Series service with Cubs, Dodgers and Braves. (Central Press)

Don Larsen

HERO of the 1956 Series when he pitched a perfect game against the Dodgers, Donald James Larsen, Yankee hurler, will be participating in his fourth Series. A native of Michigan City, Ind., Larsen broke into pro ball with Aberdeen in 1947 and came to Yanks in a trade with Baltimore in 1954. (Central Press)

Juan Pizarro

ONLY 21 years old, Juan (Cordova) Pizarro saw less than two innings of World Series action last year. Pizarro, born at Santurce, Puerto Rico, is a southpaw pitcher for the Braves, the team he joined last year after just a year and a half in minors. (Central Press)

Ryne Duren

SPEEDBALLER Rinold George Duren, Jr., the Yankee fireman, began his pro career with Wausau in 1949 and has been with 12 different clubs, including Baltimore, Kansas City and the Yanks. Purchased by the Yanks last October, Duren is a righthander. (Central Press)

Johnny Logan

AN eight-year veteran with the Braves, Johnny Logan, 31, will be playing in his second World Series. Logan has a career mark of .278, came up through the Braves' farm system starting at Evansville in 1947. He was born at Endicott, N. Y., in 1931. (Central Press)

Yogi Berra

NO COMIC with the bat, Lawrence Peter (Yogi) Berra, Yankee catcher, already has played in 54 World Series games and will be setting new records. He started with Norfolk in 1943, spent two years in service and came to Yanks in 1946 Career mark is .290. (Central Press)

Del Rice

ANOTHER veteran of the big time, Delbert Rice, Braves' catcher, will be playing in his third Series. A 14-year veteran in the majors, Rice started in pro ball with Williamson in 1941, moved to the Cards in 1945. He has a career mark of .238 but hit .500 in 1946 Series with Cards. (Central Press)

Johnny Kucks

FROM Hoboken, N.J., John Charles Kucks, righthanded pitcher for the Yankees, will be playing in his fourth Series although he has been in pro ball only five years. He spent one season with Norfolk before going into the service and advanced to the Yankees, winning 18 in '56. (Central Press)

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Learn how to adjust your figure to current fashions.

The Heightened Waistline

Everything for fall is influenced by chemise or trapeze fit. The Empire line emerges most significant on both shapes. When it appears on the pyramid outline of the trapeze you have the Directoire. When the same high waist goes to the straighter hanging chemise — it's simply called the Empire.

Whatever happens — the bustline is definitely shaped and the waistline has been lifted to just under the bosom. The girl who is flat-chested should wear small pads inside a brassiere to give her a better curve. She'll find it truly amazing what this one little detail can do for her. And it's harmless deception — many models use it.

The waistline will make the highest marks at college. Jumpers, dresses and coats all confirm the high waisted look. For the office the empire-waist sophisticated jumper is a natural. A girl can have variety with as many changes as her wardrobe of blouses will allow.

One designer suggested that the new high waistline fashions "will look best if you inhale just before you make your grand entrance." That may have been said in fun — but seriously it means one thing; and that is, how important posture is with these new young fashions which make the curve of the higher rounded bosom important. Poor posture will certainly detract from the loveliness of your appearance — it gives you a hollow chest. For the bust, stand erect with good posture. Then swing the arms backward and forward, keeping the elbows straight. Now try to clap the hands in the back — then in the front as you swing. The front will be easy, but keep doing the back until you finally get there. Never cheat by bending the elbows. This will improve the bustline.

Somebody's Wrong

HAMPTON, Va. (AP)—Hampton Patrolman R. B. Robertson, investigating an accident in which one auto rammed the rear of another, was told by the driver of the front car "I was doing 40 m.p.h."

Then the driver of the second car, when questioned by Robertson, said he "was only going 38 m.p.h."

Local Man Sentenced For Parole Violation

William E. Mullenex, 412 South Cedar Street, was sentenced to six months in the County Jail Thursday after he was found guilty of violation of parole.

Mullenex was convicted recently of assaulting his wife, and was given a suspended sentence and placed on parole. He was arrected by City Police earlier this week for again assaulting his wife.

Magistrate Baron said Mullenex may be released from jail before the six months are up if he agrees to leave town.

Fletcher Christian was the leader of the mutiny on board the "Bounty" which sailed from England in 1787.

The complete yield of forty cashmere goats is required to produce enough material for one overcoat.

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠J 2 ♥A K 6 4 3 ♦7 5 ♣A K J 2

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 clubs	Pass	2 hearts	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. Although partner's bidding does not promise substantial values, one more try is indicated. His spade suit may develop enough discards to produce a game.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

♠A 6 ♥KQJ 10 6 5 3 ♦6 ♣AJ 8

East, your right hand opponent, has opened with one diamond. What is your bid?

A.—Double. This is the type of hand that was formerly described by a jump overcall. However that bid is now employed to show a hand containing a good suit with little high card strength. Since a mere overcall would be grossly inadequate it is necessary to double first and then bid an appropriate number of hearts on the next round.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

♠7 ♥K J 10 5 4 ♦Q 10 9 ♣Q J 10

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	3 hearts	Pass
5 hearts	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Although you have an absolute maximum raise, North's slam invitation must be declined for it is clear that the partnership is off two aces. North had a reasonable opportunity to show the ace of spades or the ace of clubs and his failure to do so is indication that he has neither.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠Q 10 2 ♥8 7 5 ♦K 7 5 4 3 ♣Q 10

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 heart	1 spade

What action do you take?

A.—Pass. Despite the fact that you have a spade stopper and have previously passed, you do not have sufficient for a free bid.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠K J 10 8 4 ♥K Q 8 2 ♦Q 6 4 ♣K

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	?

What is your response?

A.—Three hearts. Despite the fact that your hand is aceless and your partner has previously passed you should take further action. An effort should be made to steer the contract into a major suit. Our second choice would be three no trump. We would give no consideration to a pass.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠4 ♥A 6 2 ♦10 9 8 6 5 4 2 ♣6 3

The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
3 spades	Pass	4 spades	Double
Pass	?

What do you bid?

A.—Five diamonds. This is a safe and sound procedure. We would not accept the double because there is a grave danger that the contract would be fulfilled, particularly if partner has some high diamonds. Furthermore, it is not at all remote that a contract of five diamonds could be fulfilled. In any case, the loss from such action could hardly be serious.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠6 ♥8 5 3 ♦J 4 3 ♣A Q 10 9 6 4

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 spade	2 hearts

What action do you take?

A.—Pass. No thought should be given to a bid of three clubs. If your partner bids spades again you can then mention your suit.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♠K Q J 7 3 ♥10 7 4 ♦9 5 3 ♣7 2

The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 diamond	Double	4 diamonds	?

What action do you take?

A.—Four spades. This involves slight risk but you cannot afford to be shut out. The bidding makes it clear that partner is very short in diamonds.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

QNVX YB LMBVIZ XOA FBBE EMV O LDILMAB, FDV O LOAANME—LMB.

County's Sales Tax Receipts Hit New High

Collections Up 7.96% From 1957

Allegany County apparently has weathered the 1958 recession better than most areas of Maryland, according to indications from retail sales tax collections.

Proceeds of the sales tax, generally taken as a barometer of business conditions, are outlined in the 11th annual report of the Retail Sales Tax Division of the office of the Comptroller of the Treasury, which has just become available.

The bulky report, showing collections through June 30, the end of the fiscal year, includes these facts:

—Allegany County's total sales tax collections of $1,262,526 represented a 7.96 per cent increase over the previous years collections of $1,169,395, and set a new high for this county.

—Allegany was one of 11 counties showing increases this year, but the Allegany County increase was far above the average of only 0.22 per cent in all the counties.

—Baltimore City, the District of Columbia, and 12 counties of Maryland had decreases in sales tax collections. Total collections in Maryland were $44,346,744.69, off 3.32 per cent from the previous year's collections of $45,867,449.61.

—Allegany County's contribution was sixth among Maryland's 23 counties, running behind Baltimore County, Montgomery, Prince Georges, Anne Arundel and Washington counties, in that order.

—Allegany County's total collections showed an increase for the sixth consecutive year. Washington County had an increase for the fourth consecutive year.

Up In 5 Categories

—This county had increased collections in five of the eight broad categories of business. Biggest gainer was the furniture and appliances group, up 37.72 per cent. Others were utilities and transportation, up 29.17 per cent; automotive and oil, up 19.97 per cent; miscellaneous, up 4.7 per cent, and food and beverages, up 0.61 per cent.

—In three other groups, Allegany County had these decreases: general merchandise, down 9.35 per cent; building and industrial supplies, down 8.51 per cent, and apparel, 1.80 per cent.

—Allegany County's totals topped Washington County's in five of the eight general categories, as shown in the table below:

Group	Allegany	Washington
Food & Beverage	$126,663.84	$112,826.98
Apparel	$102,744.24	$ 89,396.09
Gen. Merchandise	$331,128.00	$328,177.50
Furniture & Appl.	$197,611.18	$117,381.86
Utilities & Trans.	$136,489.28	$124,077.70

—In the three other categories, Washington County led, as shown in this table:

Group	Allegany	Washington
Automotive & Oil	$120,221.66	$251,310.90
Bldg. & Industrial	$113,800.23	$197,118.64
Miscellaneous	$ 91,620.03	$129,701.68

(Although Washington County's total collections of $1,363,862.40 topped Allegany's $1,262,526.51 by $101,335.89, the detailed report shows that aircraft dealers, of which Allegany County has none, contributed $155,152.59 to Washington County's collections in the automotive and oil companies category. Without this income, Washington County's collections would have been $1,208,709.81, or $53,816.70 below Allegany's).

Listed below are Allegany County's sales tax collections in the 11 years since the tax went into effect. The 1947-48 total includes only 11 months.

Year	Amount
1947-48	$ 922,237
1948-49	996,828
1949-50	892,190
1950-51	893,293
1951-52	816,957
1952-53	818,576
1953-54	825,400
1954-55	858,838
1955-56	1,006,169
1956-57	1,169,395
1957-58	1,262,527

Meanest Thief At Work Again?

City police are wondering if that elusive "meanest thief" is at work again.

St. Patrick's Catholic Church basement was broken into Saturday night, two poor boxes were pried open and an undetermined amount of money was taken.

Police said the basement door was forced to gain entrance, and although each box had two padlocks on it, both were opened and their contents removed.

Win FFA Soil Judging Event

Firemen Burn A House During Training Session

Some 125 area fire fighters attended a regional fire fighting school held yesterday in Corriganville.

Included were delegates from units of the Allegany-Garrett Volunteer Firemen's Association, the Cumberland Fire Department and the Hyndman and Hancock volunteer fire companies.

The school opened with a demonstration on pumping operations by Robert Smith, senior instructor for the Fire Service Extension of the University of Maryland.

Then the firemen were divided into classes for ladder evolution instructions by J. C. Robertson, of the fire service, assisted by Cromwell C. Zembower and George Comp Jr.

Also taught under the divided-class system was instruction on methods of fighting automobile fires. The class was taught on a lot at the rear of the Corriganville fire hall, where an automobile was spotted.

Burn Down Dwelling

Fuel oil fires on the vehicle were extinguished with fog under the direction of Robert C. Byrus, director of the fire service; Howard Springer, Havre de Grace, president of the Maryland State Volunteer Firemen's Association; Harry Devlin, chief of the Midland Fire Department, and Mr. Smith.

There were also demonstrations on the use of various nozzles, including one which maintains constant pressure with the use of various sprays.

The firemen broke off classes at 2:30 p. m. to go to the Ellerslie Road to participate in the burning of a two-story frame dwelling.

The abandoned building was used to demonstrate methods of stopping various kinds of fires, and then burned to the ground after the blaze had attracted several hundred spectators.

Plans for the fire school were in charge of Mr. Zembower, Mr. Comp and William A. Wilson. The Corriganville, LaVale and Midland companies furnished fire fighting equipment.

The school was sponsored by the Fire Service Extension of the U. of Md., the bi-county fire association and the Firemen's Training Committee of the state fire association.

Learn Fire Hazards

Some 45 women attended a school on fire hazards in the home, the second held in Maryland.

Featured were talks and demonstrations by Mr. Springer, Mr. Zembower and Mr. Byrus.

Also participating were Mrs. Elizabeth Zembower, president of the Ladies Auxiliary of the state association; Mrs. Frances Comp Jr., president of the Allegany-Garrett Auxiliary unit, and Mrs. Mary Alice Lare, Hampstead, state auxiliary vice president and chairman of its fire safety in the home committee.

Planned by the fire association this fall are an officers training program and fire schools in various fire units.

The officers program will begin in November at LaVale. It will consist of a three-hour lecture once a month for five months.

The fire schools will offer instruction in the basic, advanced and Class 3 courses.

Court House To Close On October 13

Monday, October 13, is going to be a lucky day for personnel at the Allegany County Court House since they will be given a holiday in observance of Columbus Day, October 12.

Joseph E. Boden, clerk of court, said yesterday the Court House closes on Monday if a legal holiday falls on Sunday.

The Monday closing will have no effect on the meeting of the Board of County Commissioners, as they meet regularly on Tuesday and Friday each week.

The holiday will occur during the interim between the convening of the October term of the grand jury, Monday, October 6 and the beginning of criminal trials scheduled on October 20.

Candidates List Routes

BALTIMORE (AP) — Here is the week's campaign itinerary for Maryland's major political candidates:

Beall — Monday, meeting at Bladensburg, 8 p. m., sponsored by Prince Georges County League of Women Voters; Tuesday, tour of Anne Arundel County; Wednesday, Cecil County; Thursday, Harford County; Friday, Carroll County; Saturday, Frederick luncheon, noon, sponsored by Western Maryland Republican Lawyers Club.

All statewide Democratic candidates — Monday, Caroline County; Tuesday, Harford County victory dinner, 7 p. m.; Wednesday, Kent County; Thursday, Frederick County and meeting at Elkton, Cecil County; Friday, Baltimore County; Saturday, Upper Marlboro luncheon, 1 p. m., Southern Maryland Democratic Women.

Devereux — Monday, Baltimore and Prince Georges County; Tuesday, Anne Arundel County; Wednesday, Cecil County; Thursday, Harford County; Friday, Carroll County; Saturday, Frederick luncheon, noon, and Allegany County.

Radio Class Will Begin

The first of a series of classes designed to help the beginner in short-wave radio communication will be held Thursday, October 2, by the Mountain Amateur Radio Club.

O. W. Smith, secretary, said last night the initial class will be held at 7 p.m. in the Civil Defense headquarters building in Constitution Park.

Code and theory instructions will be given which should enable the class member to pass the Federal Communications Commission examination for an amateur "novice" license.

Those who are interested in taking this first step in becoming a "ham" are invited to attend. Transportation to the park will be furnished from Browne's Store on Williams Street at 7 p.m.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting Mr. Smith at PA 4-0928.

Dr. van Strien Will Attend Health Forum

Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer, will represent the Allegany County Health Department at the fourth annual meeting of the Maryland Public Health Association in Baltimore Friday.

Guest speaker will be Dr. William R. Willard, vice president of the University of Kentucky and dean of its College of Medicine.

Jail Escapee Is Object Of Wide Search

Although West Virginia State Police have exhausted many leads without success, they are continuing an extensive manhunt for Roy Franklin Haines, 32, who escaped from Hampshire County Jail in Romney Saturday.

Police said alerts sent out in West Virginia, Maryland and Virginia failed to turn up any clues to the escaped prisoner's whereabouts. But they added that they are checking out new leads which have developed in the past 24 hours.

Road blocks placed throughout various sections of West Virginia also failed to produce information.

Police said Haines was being held in the Romney jail after being indicted by a Hampshire County grand jury for breaking and entering. He was arrested several weeks ago in connection with the breaking and entering at Tiny's Bargain Store on U. S. Route 50 east of Romney.

Haines made his escape Saturday by sawing through the bars on the door of the jail. Police believe the saw blades were slipped to the prisoner from a side window by an accomplice.

The jail-breaker is a native of Romney, but police said he has an extensive record in other states as well as West Virginia, serving prison terms in West Virginia and Massachusetts, and in the federal prison in Louisville.

He currently is on parole from Massachusetts, where he was paroled in July after serving seven years in prison there for armed robbery.

Haines is five feet, 11 inches tall, weighs 171 pounds and has brown hair and brown eyes. Police said he should be considered dangerous.

Farmers To Meet

A meeting of Allegany County farmers who are cooperators with the Soil Conservation Service office here has been tentatively set for October 8 at 8 p.m. in LaVale Fire Hall.

Joseph M. Steger, county farm agent, said final plans for the meeting, to be held in conjunction with Maryland Land Week, will be made Tuesday at 1 p.m. at his office in the Court House.

Rotary Will Meet

John J. Eisenhart of Baltimore will speak to the Cumberland Rotary Club on "Fighting Communism" at the club's luncheon meeting Tuesday at noon in Central YMCA.

Restaurant Survey Is Conducted

Allegany County will soon know how its eating and drinking establishments compare with standards set up by the State Health Department.

The county rating, which is expected within a few weeks, will be based on a survey conducted last week under the direction of John Meadows, supervisor of the State Health Department's restaurant program, assisted by county sanitarians.

Inspected during the survey last week were about 10 per cent of the 367 eating and drinking establishments.

Each of the 40 restaurants chosen in the spot check will be graded individually and results will be averaged to secure the county restaurant rating.

J. B. Dowling, chief sanitarian for the County Health Department, said the results of the survey will be published as soon as received from the State Health Department.

The survey was similar to annual checks made of the Cumberland milkshed.

PPG, Union To Resume Talks

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Negotiations for a new contract will resume Monday between the Glass Workers Union and representatives of Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., and Libbey-Owens-Ford.

Talks remained deadlocked Saturday. But a union spokesman said "some progress" had been made.

Negotiations began two weeks ago, and union and company officials had hoped for a settlement by last Thursday when the old contract expired.

The companies, which employ a total 25,000 workers, reportedly wanted three clauses knocked out of the "regulation of manpower" section of the contract. But the union wouldn't budge.

Sessions were held behind closed doors—both sides agreed in advance not to release any information until an accord was reached.

Flue Fire Put Out

Central Fire Company extinguished a flue fire last night at 220 Hay Street, answering the alarm shortly before 10 o'clock. Firemen returned to the station within 20 minutes and reported no damage.

Frazier Lake Dam To Be Closed Today

Gates will be closed today on the dam which will impound Frazier Lake in Evitts Creek just off Oldtown Road, James A. Avirett said last night.

The last section of the dam will be put into place by James Alfred Avirett Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Avirett, of Avirett Place.

The closing of this dam by the youngster has special historical significance, since the first dam ever constructed on Evitts Creek, known as Lake Gordon, the first link in the city's water supply, was closed by the late John W. Avirett, grandfather of James Alfred Jr.

It was about half a century ago when Lake Gordon was completed with the construction of Gordon dam. John W. Avirett was among the leading citizens who waged the campaign to build the city's water supply on Evitts Creek. He was selected to close the last gate of the dam so water could be impounded.

Lake Frazier, however, is constructed for an entirely different purpose and on a smaller scale. It is the central part of a new recreation area being built near the city by James A. Avirett Sr., and his brother, John Avirett of Baltimore.

The lake will impound about eight acres of water to a depth of three to seven feet deep. In the winter it will be used for ice skating and possibly ice boating and other ice sports. In the summer it will be used for fishing, swimming, sailboating, canoeing and row boating. No motor boats will be permitted.

The lake will include three islands, the largest to be named Bradley Island.

The lake is in the area where Jane Frazier, one of the earliest settlers, was captured by Indians. A handyman who worked for her family was accompanying her to town when the attack occurred. History records him as "Handyman" Bradley. He was killed trying to protect Jane Frazier. The Aviretts have decided to name this island in his memory.

Plans had been made to move the old Jane Frazier house to a site overlooking the lake and convert it into a lodge. However, the house was destroyed by fire recently, and firemen were able to save only a few of the original logs.

Mr. Avirett said these logs and some salvaged from the old Wolf farm property on Baltimore Pike will be used to reconstruct a replica of the Jane Frazier house, thereby retaining some of the historical significance of the location.

Work on the dam and the adjacent picnic and recreation area has been done by George Construction Company, and the excavation was completed by Hout Construction Company and S. T. Brotemarkle Company.

After the lake is filled and the area completed a formal dedication and formal opening of the new recreation area is planned.

Meet The Candidates

In an effort to help Allegany County voters learn more about those county candidates who have opposition in the November 4 general election, the Times-News papers today begin a series of articles about the candidates of both parties. The candidates will be presented in alphabetical order.

THOMAS N. BERRY

Delegate Thomas N. Berry, local attorney, will be one of the six Republican candidates for House of Delegates.

He was appointed to the House of Delegates last August to fill the unexpired term of the late George F. S. Jeffrey.

A native of Cumberland, he is a son of Mrs. Mabel Myers Berry and the late Peter E. Berry, who came here from Virginia in 1905 to build the Klotz silk mill on Gay Street and later built his own mill here in 1915.

Del. Berry graduated from Allegany High School in 1932, Mercersburg Academy in 1934, received an A.B. degree from Washington and Lee University in 1938 and and LL. B. degree from the University of Maryland in 1940.

He worked for 27 months in the rolling mill and open hearth furnaces of Sparrows Point while attending the University of Maryland.

The local attorney served as a special agent for the Federal Bureau of Investigation from 1940 to 1948. His duties were primarily in the espionage section, first in Seattle and Los Angeles on Japanese and German cases, and later in Washington and New York on German and Russian espionage work.

He is a member of the bar in Maryland and New York.

In 1948, Mr. Berry returned here to practice with the law firm of Capper and Jenkins.

He is a former vestryman of Emmanuel Episcopal Church and is currently serving as register of the parish. He is a past president of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club and is voluntary counsel of several area sportsmen's organizations.

His principal hobby is purebred English setters and he has shown his dogs in major shows in the East.

Delegate Berry lives at 15 North Allegany Street with his wife, Mrs. Dorothea H. Berry.

Four Injured In Car Wreck

Four persons were injured in a one-car accident on U. S. Route 50 at Capon Bridge early yesterday morning when their automobile struck a large tree after failing to round a sharp curve.

Admitted to Memorial Hospital in Winchester, Va., were Eula Della Murphy, North Avenue, Baltimore, with a possible fracture of the ribs, fracture of the left leg and right arm; Ulysses Murphy, Baltimore, fractured right leg and lacerated forehead; Julius Murphy, Brooklyn, N. Y., severe lacerations of forehead, and Gorman Murphy, Baltimore, abrasions of the forehead.

West Virginia State Police at Romney said the automobile was traveling west on U. S. Route 50 when it missed the curve at the eastern entrance of Capon Bridge.

The vehicle smashed into a large maple tree to the side of the road, and was torn apart. The car was termed a total loss by the investigating officers.

The accident occurred about 3:45 a. m., officers said. No charges have been filed pending completion of the investigation.

Artificial Breeders To Elect Officers

The Artificial Breeders Cooperative of Allegany County will elect officers and directors for the coming year during a meeting October 9 at 8 p. m. in the office of Joseph M. Steger, county farm agent, at the Court House.

John T. Mason, president, said Gene Weaver, field man of the Maryland Artificial Breeders Cooperative, will show a number of slides of some of the offspring, and bulls used in the program.

Richard Saeke, dairy specialist of the University of Maryland, will speak on breeding efficiency and causes of not getting peak efficiency.

Tidelands Oil Issue Grows In Senate Race

D'Alesandro Admits He Backed Measure

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The tidelands oil issue between Maryland's two nominees for U.S. Senate swelled to new proportions during the weekend.

Democratic candidate Thomas D'Alesandro, Baltimore mayor, has spent much of his campaign criticizing Republican Sen. J. Glenn Beall for voting in favor of the legislation in Congress.

Saturday, Beall hit back at the mayor, accusing him of "a flagrant and willful falsification of his position on this issue." He added:

"In my hand at this moment, is a copy of a letter from Mayor D'Alesandro himself in which he not only showed that he was in agreement with me on this vital matter but even urged me to do everything in my power to support it in the Congress."

The statement was issued by his Baltimore campaign headquarters as Beall himself toured Garrett County in Western Maryland. Attached to it was a three-page reproduction of a letter bearing the Baltimore City seal, the mayor's letterhead and a signature, "Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro Jr."

The tidelands legislation confirmed the rights of states to oil deposits under their offshore lands.

"Yes, today, Mr. D'Alesandro condemns me violently," said Sen. Beall, "for voting in favor of the same bills he once urged me to do everything in my power to support. I leave it to you to be the judge of who is right, who is honest, and who is sincere in this case."

D'Alesandro Didn't Know

D'Alesandro quickly replied:

"It is true that in 1952 I urged passage of tideland legislation in the belief that it was necessary for the protection of certain waterfront assets of the City of Baltimore.

"However, at that time I had no knowledge of the widespread abuses to which this legislation would lead."

D'Alesandro, campaigning through Worcester County with other statewide Democratic candidates, also said that Beall was "an ineffective senator."

"What he knows, if anything, about the great national and international issues that are debated on the floor of the Senate, is largely a mystery," D'Alesandro said of Beall. "He never takes the floor himself to debate anything or to explain anything, or to say anything on any subject..."

Democrats On Shore

With the Baltimore mayor on the Eastern Shore were Comptroller J. Millard Tawes, nominee for governor; Atty. Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert, running for re-election, and Senate President Louis L. Goldstein, nominee for comptroller.

Shepherding the group through Worcester County was Thomas F. Johnson, former state senator from Worcester. The group visited Stockton, Girdletree, Snow Hill and Ocean City before attending a Saturday night bull roast in Berlin.

The only major candidates active Sunday were Tawes and Rep. James P. S. Devereux, opponents for the gubernatorial nomination.

Devereux scheduled a Sabbath appearance in Anne Arundel County and he and Tawes were to debate the issues Sunday night over Station WJZ in Baltimore.

Beall Baltimore-Bound

Beall was en route from Western Maryland to Baltimore and the other Democrats took Sunday off.

Devereux said Tawes had used "Hitler's big lie technique" in contending that Devereux voted against federal aid for retarded children. The former Marine Corps general called it an "utter untruth" and added:

"These unfortunates—and their families — had my all-out help all the way. The White House will be glad to tell Harmony Hall and its minions that I even telegraphed President Eisenhower himself, urging his aid in pushing this assistance through Congress."

With Beall and Devereux in Garrett County were Robert A. Wallace, GOP nominee for attorney general, and John A. Derr, candidate for comptroller.

City To Create Asst. Engineer Positions Today

Health Board May Be Reactivated

The Mayor and Council this morning is expected to act on an order setting forth the duties of the city engineer and assistant city engineers.

The action will be taken to follow through on a recent letter to the Civil Service Commission, asking it to conduct examinations for two assistant city engineers.

The commission pointed out, however, that it cannot give examinations for a position until it is created.

Today's order, a spokesman said, will serve to create the positions but does not mean they are going to be filled in the near future.

The openings will be created by amending two sections in the city code relating to the position of city engineer.

Also scheduled today is the reactivation of the City Board of Health.

This will consist of the appointment of three members and a secretary of the board, all serving without compensation.

The board is being appointed to allow the Allegany County Health Department to make use of city health laws in a complaint concerning unsanitary conditions in a West Side home.

A spokesman for the county health unit said Circuit Court action under less stringent state health laws would be too time consuming.

Lull Marks Garrett County Court Trials

Only a civil case to be tried before a jury on Thursday breaks a lull in the September term of Garrett County Circuit Court this week, court officials said yesterday.

No criminal trials have been docketed this week although there are several of an important nature still to be heard in the court.

The one with the most local interest is the trial of W. Ewald Ruehl, former Cumberland resident who is charged with receiving stolen goods. The state allowed a request for a postponement of the case by defense attorneys at least until next week, court attaches said.

The charge against Mr. Ruehl stems from the safecracking burglary at the home of Lee A. Green, LaVale, in October of 1949 when $17,500 in cash was stolen. He will be tried before the court and not by a jury.

Another hearing will be a retrial of the Proctor-Kildow Post, American Legion, on a charge of keeping liquor for sale on the premises. Beer only is permitted for sale in Garrett County.

This case was tried in the March term of court but resulted in a hung jury. Thomas B. Finan of Cumberland is attorney for the Legion post.

Other cases include several morals charges against James Sharpless and a morals charge which faces Erwin Hammond, both of whom appeared in Trial Magistrates Court.

Court officials said last night that two counts of assault against Robert Kemp have been dismissed.

Former Local Man Heads Building Job

A former local man is superintendent in charge of construction of the first national headquarters building of Protestant and Orthodox churches which is being built in New York City.

Spencer Rossell, formerly of 435 Williams Street, is supervising the 20 million dollar project which is expected to be completed in December 1959.

Construction on the 19-story building was started last November and the cornerstone laying ceremonies will be held October 13.

Mr. Rossell also was formerly associated with Golden Rossell Orchards at Picardy.
